Board Bickers But Gives Bruce Help

By RICHARD LYTTLE

Tempers flared among Marin County supervisors today as they voted an increase in the county administrator's budget for next fiscal year, adding two new employees and raising the projected tax rate for fiscal 1966-67 by half a cent.

The clash came when Supervisor Thomas T. Storer noted that the board had cut the budgets for most other departments considered in the budget hearings that began Monday.

"I believe that (A) you are being political, and (B) you are being penny-wise and pound foolish," Supervisor Peter H. Behr told Storer.

The vote on adding a second assistant administrator and a secretary was 3-1, with Storer dissenting and Supervisor William A. Gnoss abstaining.

Gnoss said he was inclined to agree with Storer. "Maybe I'm still mad about the airport," Gnoss said.

AIRPORT PLAN

He explained to the Independent-Journal later that the proposal for funding the county airport project through retirement funds was not fully explained to him when the board informally endorsed it yesterday. (See story on page 10.)

The addition to County Administrator Alan Bruce's office came on his recommendation, submitted this morning. The recommendation was requested by supervisors during discussion Monday of Bruce's proposal, which the board rejected, for a super health and welfare agency.

Bruce's recommendation called for an assistant with a starting pay at $1,111 a month and an intermediate clerk at $362. However, supervisors changed the clerk position to a senior stenographer at $419 a month. Both salaries were based on recommended increases in salary scale not yet acted upon by the board.

CLERICAL HELP

Supervisors earlier debated addition of clerical help for themselves. Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen declared he is in need of a secretary who would be responsible to him.

Behr protested vigorously to any paid staff that a supervisor could hire for his own use, declaring that the board would be accused of having paid alter-

Bus Contract Vote Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Amalgamated Transit Union, AFL-CIO, agreed today to submit to a membership vote proposals made by federal mediators for settlement of a 33-day strike against Western Greyhound lines covering bus operations in 11 western states.

William Rose, chairman of the panel which made the recommendations, has been so advised by John M. Elliott, union president, the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service said.

Word from the company was expected later.

The recommendations were submitted to both sides yesterday with a request for replies within 24 hours.

It was estimated the union referendum would take approximately four days. Eight diisional representatives of the union are to meet tonight in San Francisco to review the proposals.

Judge N. Charles Brusatori Dies

Death from a heart ailment today claimed retired Superior Court Judge Natale Charles Brusatori, who was born 64 years ago in Lonate Pozzolo, Italy, and who became one of Marin's best-loved public figures.

Judge Brusatori served from January, 1957, until June, 1965, on the Superior Court bench. He was noted for his earnest efforts to dispense justice under the law, and for his intense interest in the problems of juveniles.

At his bedside, when he died at 5:20 a.m. at his home at 97 Oakmont Avenue, San Rafael, was his wife, the former Mary McKeever.

The judge had a long history of heart trouble. He suffered a near-fatal attack in his courthouse chambers in November of 1960.

Judge Brusatori died three weeks after his return from a five-week stay at San Rafael General Hospital. He left the hospital hours before it closed its doors.

On his retirement last year, an Independent-Journal editorial said: "Judge Brusatori has served his fellow man well . . . Day and night, he has spent almost a lifetime deeply and sincerely concerned with the plight of his fellow man."

Brusatori was of an immigrant family that became prominent in Marin life. He was born on Oct. 19, 1902, the first child of Signor and Signora Felice Brusatori. Soon after his birth, his father came to the United States, obtaining work with the Northwestern Pacific Railroad in Tiburon. Mother and son followed when Charles was 2½ years old.

He grew up in San Rafael, attending Short School and San Rafael High School. He played baseball for the high school and for the San Rafael Federals, a town team, and retained a lively interest in the sport throughout his life.

N. CHARLES BRUSATORI
Heart gives out

Forced to interrupt his high school education to help support the growing family, young Brusatori nevertheless began studying law at night while working successfully for a San Francisco millinery firm, a legal firm and the Northwestern Pacific. When he returned to finish high school, he continued to study law at night.

He received his LL.B. degree from San Francisco Law School in May, 1923, but was told he could not take the bar examination because he was not yet 21 years old. Appearing before the bar examiners, he then "pleaded my first case."

His argument was that the law prohibited his practicing as an attorney until he was 21, but did not preclude his taking the examination. He won the case, passed the examination, and on his 21st birthday was sworn in as a member of the California Bar.

His law practice throughout his career was in San Rafael. He was associated for several years with the late Roy Lewis, then with George H. Harlan until the latter's retirement.

Brusatori's first public office was as a member of the San Rafael Board of Education from 1931 to 1944, when he resigned to accept appointment as justice of the peace. He served as such until the justice courts were abolished with establishment of the municipal court system in 1953. He then moved to the municipal bench, having been elected to the new office the previous November.

In 1956, Brusatori performed the almost unprecedented political feat of unseating an incumbent from the Superior Court bench when he won election over Judge Carlos Freitas.

A devout Catholic, Brusatori was a member of St. Raphael's Parish and participated in many of its activities. He also was

VIET NAM POLICY SOLIDLY BACKED

Nationwide Legislators' Conference Unanimously Approves Johnson's Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Natimnal Legislative Leaders' Conference, composed of top elected officials of state legislatures across the nation, today voted unanimous support of President Johnson's Viet Nam policy.

Delegates adopted a resolution voicing hearty endorsement of the President's efforts to preserve the security of South Viet Nam and repel Communist aggression.

The resolution was presented shortly before a meeting with the President.

The resolution—which originated as a petition and was personally signed by many of the legislative group—was presented on the conference floor by J. H. Cottrell Jr., speaker of the Arkansas House of Representatives. It was approved after reading, without discussion, and there was no audible dissent.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Air Force Secretary Harold Brown were among the government officials who spoke to the group yesterday. Delegates were given detailed briefings on the U.S. effort in Viet Nam.

The resolution also states that members of the conference "heartily endorse" the President's efforts to secure peace "as speedily as possible."

The two-day meeting, similar to an earlier conference of the nation's governors, was called to discuss federal-state relations. But it was evidence that Viet Nam was on the minds of many of the state House speakers and Senate presidents from Guam, Puerto Rico and 49 of the 50 states.

Eight-In-One Orbital Shot Going Smoothly

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) —A Titan 3C rocket zoomed into one "aiming" orbit and then another today, waiting to sow eight satellites one by one in higher paths for a military communications network able to flash emergency commands to far-flung forces.

The eight-in-one shot was the first of three designed to string 22 of the 100-pound space relay stations around the globe to give the Pentagon a swift, jam-resistant radio link with forces in Viet Nam and elsewhere in times of crisis.

If the orbital pauncher continued to work as it did in the first stages of its intricate mission, the seven communications satellites and a research moonlet were scheduled to pop into orbit at 1:07 p.m. PDT.

Tracking stations around the world reported that the Air Force rocket was performing the crucial first stages of its six-hour mission with precision.

Carrying its satellites like peas in a pod, the Titan third stage first dashed into a low orbit 102 to 117 miles high and then fired a second time toward a peak altitude of more than 20,800 miles.

After a four-hour coast to the high mark, the flying launch platform,was programmed to fire a third time to go into a circular orbit and change its

Rocks, Bayonets Beat Back Reds

Marines In Heroic Defense

COMBINED AP & UPI

SAIGON—A platoon of U.S. Marines on a barren hilltop beat off repeated attacks by a Communist force 10 times their number today and had only eight bullets left when reinforcement whirled in by helicopter at dawn. (Associated Press reports said 18 Marines were involved; UPI reported the force as 40 men.)

Only two marines in the surrounded reconnaissance platoon escaped unwounded as the Leathernecks turned back the swarming hordes with bayonets, their hands and even by throwing rocks in the bitter battle near Chu Lai, 350 miles north of Saigon.

HOLD GROUND

Making every shot count, the Marines killed 32 guerrillas from a battalion sized force of about 400 men and held their ground.

Marine reinforcements chased the others through the jungle, storming a machine gun nest and killing three snipers set out to delay their pursuit.

In the air war, officials said U.S. pilots hit supply routes and storage areas in 66 raids over North Viet Nam yesterday, but lost two jets. The pilot of one was rescued, but the other was missing and feared dead.

Meanwhile gunfire punctuated the government's campaign today to regain control of Hue. Buddhist demonstrators burned an American automobile in Saigon. Two U.S. servicemen were threatend. but

Mains Burst As Water Returns

After three days with a critical shortage of water, Marin suddenly suffered an embarrassment of riches today, with plenty of water for everyone, and water mains bursting with the sudden flow.

At 4 a.m. today San Rafael firemen raced to Macy's Department Store when the fire alarm sounded. They reported that a sudden surge of water through the mains had triggered the alarm.

Tamalpais fireman Robert Davison, who said the line break was in front of his home, described it as "like a river."

He said firemen shut valves and called Marin Municipal Water District.

William R. Seeger, water district manager, said the district hadn't set any particularly large flow of water through the mains at that time "These things just happen," he said.

A conference was held this morning in MMWD's Corte Madera headquarters for all engineers who have been working of the district's water problems this week, but Seeger said it was "just a routine review."

"All the water problems are solved," he said. "There's plenty of water for everyone. We have not received any complaints today."

The milk containers used to distribute emergency water supplies will be collected this week, Seeger said, and returned to the dairies from which they were borrowed.

Nobody Cries As Heat Dies

Goodbye, hot spell.

The temperature in San Rafael at noon today was down nearly 40 degrees from its Tuesday afternoon peak.

The noon reading in San Rafael was 66; in neighboring San Anselmo, it was 68.

On Tuesday, the mercury clumbed to 104 in San Rafael and to 109 in San Anselmo for what was believed to be the hottest Marin day in 11 years.

It turned out the reading was not an 11-year high, at that. An Independent-Journal reader with a long memory telephoned to say Marin had a 112-degree record in June, 1961. A search of the files showed he was right. On June 14, 1961, the temperature reached 112 in San Anselmo, Woodacre and Larkspur.

San Anselmo's high yesterday was 93 degrees, and the high in San Rafael was 80. The high in Bolinas and Tamalpais Valley had a mild 72 maximum.

Beagle Him Killed By Car

Him had spent a good bit of his three years chasing the squirrels that inhabit the White House grounds. And that's the way he lost his life.

Johnson's daughter, Lynda, burst into a meeting the President was having with some congressmen last night to tell him about another tragedy in the dog part of the family.

Him had darted between the front and rear wheels of a White House car on the driveway out back while yapping after a squirrel and was struck and killed.

Student Editor Faces Trial

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI)—A 20-year-old University of Oregon coed with a burning desire to become a journalist was ordered yesterday to stand trial for defending one of the principles of her chosen profession.

Annette

Annette Buchanan, managing editor of the school's newspaper, faces a possible penalty of six months in jail and a $300 fine if convicted of contempt of court for refusing to name her sources for a story about marijuana users on the Oregon campus.

Lane County Circuit Court Judge Edward Leavy, who had ordered Miss Buchanan to reveal the names to the grand jury set June 27 for trial.

Judge Leavy's order came after she told the grand jury June 3 she promised the student marijuana users she would not reveal their identities.

"I feel I have a duty to myself and those who trusted me," she said.

Chou In Bucharest

BUCHAREST (UPI) — Chinese Communist Premier Chou En-Lai arrived today for an eight-day official visit, Bucharest radio reported. Observers have said the visit could place new strains on the Sino-Soviet feud and fan Bucharest's desire for independence from the Soviet bloc.

Tam Sanitary Board Asks For Election

Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District directors agreed at a Tuesday night meeting to request an election Sept. 6 to fill upcoming vacancies on the board.

Cook. The injunction was asked by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

Lynda Visit Awaited

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Angier Biddle Duke, the U.S. ambassador to Spain, says he's looking forward to a visit from President Johnson's daughter, Lynda Bird, starting next week. Duke said yesterday he expects Miss Johnson and a schoolfriend, Susan Schein of New York, to remain in Spain about two weeks.

Senate Sets Holiday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate is going to get longer recess over the Fourth of July holiday. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said yesterday he and GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen agreed the scheduled July 1-6 break was not long enough, and probably would be extended to at least July 11.

Bobby Leaves Africa

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy wound up his 12-day tour of four African countries today and said he had been impressed by the "great fund of friendship for America among the people of all these countries." The New York Democrat and his wife flew to Athens.

Ex-Policeman Given Pension

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Police Lt. Thomas O'Neal has been awarded a 50 per cent service-connected disability pension of $483 a month.

O'Neal, a 15-year veteran, was suspended last July 2 and later was dismissed after he shot and wounded Carl Norman, 21, at West Valley police station in the mistaken belief Norman had participated in the gang rape of O'Neal's 19-year-old daughter, Shirley.

The City Board of Pension Commissioners approved the pension Wednesday, on O'Neal's claim that he was injured in 1957 in a traffic accident while pursuing a robbery suspect.

Experiments On Humans Are Claimed

BOSTON (AP)—A Harvard Medical School professor says unethical experiments are being performed on humans without their consent, and cites examples involving more than 1,000 persons.

Dr. Henry K. Beecher, director of Harvard's anesthesia laboratory at Massachusetts General Hospital and chairman of a faculty committee studying ethics in human experiments, makes the charges in the New England Journal of Medicine.

EDITORS CONVINCED

Journal editors who reviewed the article in the latest issue certified the 22 examples given as accurate and correctly described. They said 28 others he submitted were not included for reasons of space.

"It is evident that in many of the examples presented, the investigators have risked the health or life of their subjects," Dr. Beecher wrote.

His examples, he said, are from leading medical schools, university hospitals, private hospitals, governmental military departments (Army, Navy, Air Force), governmental institutes, Veterans Administration hospitals and industry.

It is evident, Dr. Beecher wrote, "that unethical or questionably ethical procedures are not uncommon."

In only two of the 50 cases originally compiled for the study, Dr. Beecher, said, was the consent of the patient mentioned.

CONSENT MEANS LITTLE

Even then, he said, "statements regarding consent are meaningless unless one knows how fully the patient was informed of all risks and if these are not known, the fact made clear."

Dr. Beecher said he wished to affirm that "American medicine is sound and most progress in it soundly attained," but cautioned:

Mansfield Calls For Peace Talks Between Rusk, Chinese Minister

The Senate Democratic leader said in a speech prepared for Yeshiva University graduates that the war threatens to become in the end a U.S.-Chinese conflict, just as in Korea.

"What is needed most, at this time and in the light of that danger, is an initiative for a direct contact between the Peking government and our own government on the problem of peace in Viet Nam and Southeast Asia," Mansfield said.

He said such a conference could be confined to the two nations, or "it could include the nations of the Southeast Asian mainland since they all lie in the swath of the war's spreading devastation."

"History will not be gentle with those who pursue the shadow and evade the substance of peace," he said. "It will not view with sympathy those who stand too much on ceremony or who insist too much on face as the price of coming to grips with its profound problems."

He said he is not optimistic that any conference with the Chinese at this point would produce much more than a cease-fire. But he said the "first faltering steps" must be taken toward peace.

He rejected the idea that the fighting can be ended more quickly "by more and better placed bombings" in North Viet Nam.

What he fears, the Montana senator said, is that in an escalating war the "hatches of avoidance" may be closed one by one and mainland China may send troops into Viet Nam.

Pauper's Oath Is Filed By Silverthorne

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Don C. Silverthorne, former president of the defunct San Francisco National Bank, filed a pauper's oath in U.S. District Court yesterday.

"I have no cash, property or assets except my wardrobe and one watch," he said.

Silverthorne, who filed the oath yesterday, said his only income is the $204 he and his wife receive as Social Security.

Silverthorne, convicted on 12 counts of bank fund misapplication, filed the oath in asking the federal government to pay legal costs of his appeal. He estimates these costs will be between $5,000 and $10,000.

Silverthorne, in his affidavit, swore he has been unemployed since October 1964 when the San Francisco National Bank board of directors fired him.

He blamed "overwhelming adverse newspaper publicity" for his failure to resume his normal occupation as a banker.

Silverthorne said at least a dozen lawsuits—totaling $72 million—have been filed against him on charges he mismanaged his bank out of existence.

His wife, Gertrude, pawned her wedding ring to pay a $1,500 premium on his $15,000 bail bond. Other living expenses have been met by proceeds from his wife's furniture he said.

PETULANT OVER PLAQUE

Mayor Asks Name Omitted From San Rafael City Hall

Mayor C. Paul Bettini declared last night that he wants his name taken off the plaque on the new city hall.

It isn't that the mayor does not like the city hall. But he objected violently to the wording on the plaque proposed by the city council.

The plaque would list two city councils: that which set up the financing, bought the land and started the city hall, and that which is in office for its completion. The first included Mayor John F. McInnis, David Menary (now city attorney) and three of the present council: Dr. Charles W. Aby, Fred E. Jensen and Louis H. Baar. The second includes Mayor Bettini, Harry A. Barbier, Aby, Jensen and Baar.

Mayor Bettini, at close of a council session on the budget last night, proposed an aiternate design listing both mayors, with dates indicating service, the present council, and with Menary's name listed as city attorney (councilman).

"Repeating the names is ridiculous," declared Bettini. "There is too much repetition. It would look silly."

He said he had shown the proposed wording to several citizens who agreed with him.

Councilman Jensen retorted: "We spent a lot of time on this and we want it this way. It spells out that one was the enabling and financing council and the other is the contracting and building council."

Jensen demanded "a vote right now." Baar and Barbier joined him in backing the original design. Aby refused to vote, saying, "The only place I care about having my name is on my gravestone when I'm dead."

"The majority of the council votes for this wording," declared Jensen. "This is it!"

"If that's the way you fellows feel, take my name off of it," stormed Bettini. "I don't want anything to do with it. You can have John McInnis dedicate the city hall. I won't be there."

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen closed the discussion by telling the mayor, as he was leaving the hall, "I'll have to instruct the architect as directed by the majority of the council."

LBJ Nudging Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is reported to have asked a group of House committee chairmen to move remaining administration legislation toward votes.

Johnson met with the chairmen at a closed White House session Wednesday night. Deputy press secretary Robert H. Fleming said Johnson told them "he was very pleased with the progress of the House this session." But another source said the President requested the group to get the bills moving and to a vote.

The house has completed 60 of 90 bills Johnson had recommended. Some still are in committees.

LAW IN ACTION

From the State Bar Of California

Insurance Can Be Legal Issue

In a recent case Sam Samson bought a health and accident insurance policy for his family. It paid up to $5,000 for hospital and medical care for 'injury or sickness." A fire badly burned little Joe, Sam's son. He went to a hospital for four months. For this the company paid $5,000.

The policy said that the insurance company would pay again if Sam's family had another similar "sickness" six months later.

Little Joe continued to suffer from infections, anemia, and high fever. Six months after the fire, Sam paid out $2,000 more for plastic surgery and asked the company to pay this bill as a new "sickness."

The court ruled against Sam. The company had fully met its contract. The fire that burned little Joe was just one "injury," not a new or separate sickness.

In another case a health and accident policy called for a death benefit if the insured died of 'bodily injuries caused by accidental means." The insured died of typhoid fever. The court denied any death benefit. In everyday language "bodily injuries" means a wound or sudden injury, not a disease.

In many policies, death "by accidental means" entitles the insured to collect twice the policy's face value or "double indemnity." As a rule, if the injury led to the later death, the policy will pay double indemnity. Thus an accident may cause a concussion which may lead to a heart condition, which in turn may lead to death. This is still "an accidental death."

Man Catches Boy In Auto Tumble

SALINA, Kan. (AP) — Dan Zook is director of the Salina Recreation Department, and he didn't fumble this vital pass when it came his way.

As he waited to cross an intersection, a car swung around the corner with a back door open. Sitting in the back seat was a small boy, in danger of falling out.

Zook waved his arms at the mother, who was driving, but couldn't attract her attention, and the youngster tumbled into Zook's open arms. It was a touchdown catch. Neither Zook nor the boy was hurt.

Opossum Gets Away From Dog

BURRTON, Kan. (AP)—Pete Base found out the dog he had trained to hunt rabbits didn't know how to treat an opossum.

The dog caught a 'possum and began giving it the same treatment he gives rabbits. The 'possum soon played dead.

After the dog was through shaking it, Base said the dog buried his catch. As the dog trotted off, Base said, the 'possum wriggled out of his shallow grave and walked away.

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky pushed his Buddhist foes farther into a corner by sending 500 of his elite paratroops to reinforce government riot police in Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon, and slapping a 9 p.m. curfew on the capital. The government appeared confident of crushing the antigovernment, anti-American rebellion, now in its fourth month.

The paratroopers fired on dissident infantrymen of the 1st Vietnamese Division who tried to stage a march in Hue with Buddhist banners. The marchers fled after a heavy burst of fire .One dissident was reported killed and at least three wounded.

Soldiers at the walled citadel of 1st Division headquarters opened fire with rifles and automatic weapons when five Western newsmen later approached the gates. The newsmen fled with bullets whistling about them.

The outbreak in Saigon came just before the curfew. The American car was burned in the area of the Buddhist Institute. No one was in it.

American combat dead climbed to the second highest level of the year last week, reflecting in part the cost of the victory over a North Vietnamese regiment in the central highlands.

The U. S. military command said 142 Americans were killed, 741 wounded and one missing or captured last week compared with 109 killed, 636 wounded and 13 missing in the week of May 29-June 4.

The allies reported 1,240 Communists killed last week ,an increase of 338 ,and 166 captured, an increase of 46.

Kettenhofen, who said he tries to answer every letter from a constituent, said at one time he had three secretaries transcribing his letters.

The debate was finally resolved when the board agreed to increase the present clerk's staff from four to five, with each to be assigned a supervisor.

This added a tenth of a cent to the projected tax rate.

After these two actions, the tax rate, projected at $2.456 per $100 assessed valuation when hearings began, stood at $2.437 (reductions coming mostly in public works accounts yesterday).

Tax rate for this year was $2.185 per $100 assessed valuation.

course so that it followed the equator.

Seconds later, it was to eject its $1.4 million satellites into slightly different orbits.

"Everything looks very good," an Air Force spokesman reported two hours into the mission that has been called one of the toughest yet raced by a rocket.

The triple-barrelled rocket, mightiest in America's military inventory, began its flight with perfection at 7 a.m. PDT. It thundered into the partly cloudy sky on a massive column of fire and smoke.

The eight-in-one launch feat was achieved once before, in March 1965 by a Thor-Agena launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, California. The best Russia has done is to orbit five satellites with one rocket.

Star performer of the mission was the Titan's third stage—called a switch engine rocket because of its ability to zip from one orbital track to another. Today it had to fly twist the angle of its path so that it parallels the equator.

The orbital stage ran into trouble on its last two outings, in December and October, and failed to reach its final orbit on both occasions. One failure was caused by a frozen valve and the second by a valve jammed by an unknown foreign object.

Pre-School Study Fund Is Sought

San Rafael Elementary School District hopes to initiate a research program aimed at identifying factors which influence a pre-schooler's eventual success in school this summer.

Keith E. Beery, project direcrector of the district's pre-school prediction and prevention project, said the district has applied for federal funds for "Readiness Round-up."

VISIT IDEA

"For the first time anywhere in the country, all of the pre-school children in a public school district may have an opportunity to see the school they will attend one day and visit with the teacher," he said.

Under the proposed project pre-schoolers would visit the school they would later attend. Any child who appeared to have a severe difficulty would be referred to a physician.

"The rest will be divided into two groups on a strictly impartial basis, then screened under a program that includes visual and auditory screening by school nurses, speech screening by the school speech consultant, and a screening of other readiness functions by teachers," said Beery.

Screening results would be forwarded to physicians of the parents' choice and to teachers who would probably have the children in school.

REVIEW PLAN

A specialist in learning disabilities would review the results and make recommendations to the physician, who would then consult with parents.

Screening results on the second group of children would be kept secret until the study is completed in three or four years, to test the value of the recommendations made for the first group, explained Beery.

"No child would be required to participate in the project, but it is hoped that all the three and one-half to five and one-half year old children who will eventually attend one of the San Rafael public schools will take part," he said.

EDWARD EICHLER
A plea for San Francisco

Marinites Asked To Support City

San Francisco is the main attraction of "most of Marin County," and residents of Marin should be willing to contribute to San Francisco's tax revenue, Edward Eichler told the Sausalito Democratic Club last night.

Eichler, an executive of Eichler Homes in San Francisco and a special adviser to the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development, said Marinites are obligated to San Francisco for jobs, shopping, entertainment, and the city's services.

"You must be willing to share the financial burdens of that city," he said. He said that the city's board of supervisors is considering a proposal to tax incomes earned in San Francisco.

He mentioned several regional issues facing Marin and San Francisco, including a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge or a second crossing, a new regional campus site for University of California, and expansion for the Bay Area Transportation District, and called on Marin residents to "support and encourage a revolution in the quality of American city government."

Unification Proposal Due Vote Again

The Marin County Committee on School District Organization voted last night to submit a twice-rejected proposal for unification of Tomales High School District area school districts—with full expectation the State Board of Education will reject it a third time.

The committee held a public hearing on the unification proposal at Tomales High School before an audience of nine.

Elementary districts of Point Reyes, West Marin, Tomales Bay, Bloomfield, Watson, Bodega Bay and American Valley and the Tomales High School District would be unified under the proposal. Three of the elementary distrist are in Marin County and four in Sonoma County.

Robert Stannard, assistant superintendent of county schools, said third rejection by the state board would relieve the county committee of the matter.

He said that under a law passed last year, the state board must declare an impasse and set up a review committee if it again rejected the plan. The committee would include representatives of the State Department of Education, the county superintendent of schools, the Marin and Sonoma County boards of education, and three members of county boards of education from counties not adjacent.

The State Department of Education would then propose its own plan. The committee would hold hearings on it and on the rejected plan, and recommend one of them to be placed before the voters.

Jack Mengel, acting chairman, said the Marin County committee will probably make a final decision on submitting the proposal that the state at its meeting June 29.

"There is no likelihood that this proposal will be approved by this board at this time," committee member Galen Williams said. No one disagreed with him.

House Blaze May Lead To Code Revision

Terra Linda Fire Chief George Walser said today he will recommend a change in the county building code requiring self-closing doors between homes and connected garages.

A $48,800 fire Monday, the biggest loss ever in Walser's district, spread through the James Robert Robertson home at 704 Las Colindas Road within about a minute after the garage door was opened, Walser estimated.

The fire, which started in the garage, destroyed the Robertson home and damaged a neighbor's.

Walser said he hopes to have a report from the National Board of Fire Underwriters tomorrow on the cause of the blaze.

Birth Control Agent Fed To Seagull Flock

U.S. To Resume Aid To India, Pakistan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department says the United States has decided to resume full economic assistance to India and Pakistan. The aid will not, however, include military arms or weapons to either nation.

Aid to the two countries was frozen after the outbreak of fighting over Kashmir, although the United States had made some interim loans to both nations.

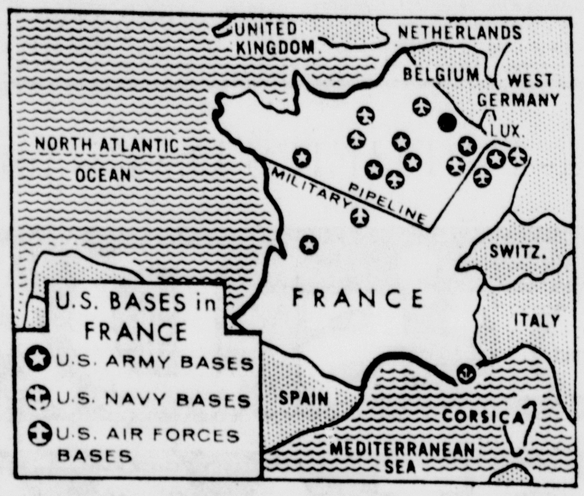
U.S. Speaks Softly, Hopes To Preserve French Bases

Pentagon Has War Supplies, Planes Shifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States apparently hopes to persuade President Charles de Gaulle that France has a stake in allowing NATO bases to remain on her soil, even if most are reduced to a standby basis.

At the same time, Washington officials are anxious that the U.S. Air Force not be barred from flying French skies. Approval now is granted by France on a month-to-month basis.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara hinted this direction in U.S. thinking after announcing yesterday that the has ordered the remaining 122 U.S. transport and reconnaissance planes and the bulk of American war stocks, some 575,000 tons, shifted out of France.



VITAL BASES—U.S. hopes to horse-trade French use of some of these U.S. military bases in France for the continuing right to fly warplanes in French airspace, observers report today. (UPI Newsmap)

FIRST MOVE

This was the first major action to comply with De Gaulle's demand that North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces leave France, although NATO leaders already have agreed to move the alliance's military headquarters from Paris to Belgium.

While doing this, McNamara obviously sought to avoid any appearance of a rupture.

Without being specific, McNamara said there are facilities in NATO that are beneficial to France.

"We presume she will continue to wish to use these benefits," he added. And in the next breath, McNamara said the United States "of course" hopes to continue to use French air space.

This may be the tack along which the United States is planning to negotiate with the French on the future of some 30 major bases and installations, including a 500-mile fuel pipeline leading into West Germany.

OTHER NEWS

In other developments relating to the NATO situation:

A West German leader said the Soviet army could remain in a unified Germany if such a solution satisfied Moscow's security interests. German reunification "does not depend on the very last Soviet soldier leaving German soil," said Rainer Barzel, majority leader in the West German Bundestag and deputy chairman of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democratic Union.

Barzel's aides and German Embassy sources described his comments, made in a speech prepared for delivery in Washington and New York, as a major statement on German policy regarding reunification.

France officially notified its NATO partners that it had withdrawn 15 planes from West Germany. The French, however, said they had not made a decision yet on other French air units in Germany.

The NATO Permanent Council fixed July 1 as the date to scrap the standing group, NATO's highest military body. The action, ordered by NATO foreign ministers a week ago, is part of a move aimed at making the alliance more efficient and cutting down on its multiple separate structures.

Driver Tangles With Much Law

Wallace E. Adams, 33, of 400 Canal Street, San Rafael, received lots of law enforcement attention when he drove his car through a barricade at the Golden Gate Bridge toll plaza at 2 a.m. today.

The barricade swung and dented the left side of a car in the next toll booth, driven by Leland J. Ahern, 38, investigator in the Marin County district attorney's office. Passengers in the county car were Cpl. Paul D. Lovejoy of Oregon State Police and Inspector William H. Rodriquez of the Los Angeles Sheriff's department.

Air Pollution Bill Passes Legislature

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A measure to protect factory workers from air pollution has won final legislative approval from the Senate and is on its way to Gov. Brown.

The measure passed Wednesday requires the state to set maximum allowable air pollution standards for such workers by Feb. 1, 1967. Part of the bill also would require pollution-causing machines to be equipped with air purifiers.

SUMMARY SACRAMENTO

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Assembly agrees to new version of conflict of interest bill that sharply weakens it and leaves penalties for offending legislators up to their colleagues.

Republican assemblymen insist they will stick to their demands that $160 million be cut from budget and bond issue proposed by Gov. Brown.

Republican minority leader urges fellow assemblymen not to sign pledges of support for another term as speaker for Assemblyman Jesse M. Unruh.

THE ASSEMBLY

Bill passed:

Farm—Allocates $500,000 from general fund to State Education Department for aid to school districts in which there is annual large influx of children of agricultural workers; SB 88, Farr, D-Monterey.

THE SENATE

Concurred in assembly amendments:

Schools—Lets school districts issue bonds to tear down unfit buildings and repair or replace them, refers particularly to a recent attorney general's ruling saying schools determined unsafe for earthquakes must be abandoned; SB 51, Farr, D-Carmel.

Air—Requires state to set up standards of air pollution harmful to workers in factories and requires exhaust devices on machines that produce pollution; SB 96, McCarthy, R-San Rafael.

Resolutions adopted:

Bells—Encourages California cities to ring bells at 11 a.m. on July 4; SR 193, Bradley, R-San Jose.

Historian—Names retiring Assemblyman Don Allen, D-Los Angeles, legislative historian without pay; ACR 63, Moretti, D-North Hollywood.

Lawmakers Settling Down To Budget, Other Business

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The snail's pace of the 1966 legislature picked up today, with lawmakers edging toward decisions on the budget, conflict of interest and drunk driving.

Attention, focused in recent weeks on other matters, swung back to the $4.64 billion budget to run the state in the year starting July 1.

The Senate Finance Committee moved toward a vote on its version of the spending program and Senate President Pro Tem Hugh M. Burns, D - Fresno, hoped for a vote on it Monday. That would prod the Assembly to produce its budget bill and move the matter to a final two-house compromise committee.

Burns, who called the budget "our main business," gave his colleagues a mild admonishment yesterday, urging better attendance at upper house sessions.

He said some members have used trickery to get out of the locked Senate chamber when a call was out to bring in absent members: "Some members are using phony passes to get past the sergeant - at - arms at the door."

He called for full attendance on Monday when in addition to the budget, the hotly debated anti-drunken driver bill is expected to come up.

The budget also was a topic of conversation in the Assembly, but not of a sort that would bring quick action on the stalled measure. Minority Republicans, some of whose votes are needed to pass the budget, caucused and then said they are standing firm on a demand that about $160 million be cut from the budget and a pending state construction bond bill.

Progress did appear on another front — the issue of how strict proposed conflict of interest regulations governing legislators' activities should be.

A closed caucus of the entire Assembly voted to accept the latest in many versions of th bill, which also would raise legislative pay from $6,000 to $16,000 annually.

Assemblymen backed down from earlier demands for a rigid set of rules including criminal penalties for lawmakers using their public office for private benefit.

If an informal two-house committee negotiating the issue approves the compromise next Monday, the way would be cleared for approval of the bill by both houses.

This could happen even though its author, Assembly Majority Leader Jerome R. Waldie, D-Antioch, called the compromise "personally unacceptable." But he is leaving the legislature this week to be sworn in as a congressman.

No Decision On Plan

The Tiburon Planning Commission last night discussed further the Callister and Payne downtown plant, but came to no conclusion, according to vice-chairman Erik Rettig. The commission set another discussion meeting for June 27 at 8 p.m. in Del Mar School.

THE PEOPLE'S SCHOOLS

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

San Rafael-Dixie Unification Should Soon Be On Ballot Again

Defeat of San Rafael - Dixie school district unification on June 7 by only 350 votes, despite no organized campaign for the measures appears evidence that the proposal should promptly be placed before the voters again.

On the same day, three other school district unification proposals in the Bay Area were roundly defeated. In all three, according to newspapers in the areas, there were bitter campaigns against unification as well as for it.

The fact that no campaign was launched against the San Rafael-Dixie proposal in itself indicates the people have no real objection to the proposal. Failure of the two school boards involved to officially endorse a measure so important to their constituents probably cost it the few more "yes"votes needed for passage. Some people undoubtedly voted "no" in belief there must be something wrong with the proposal because the boards had not endorsed it.

The Dixie School District Board has agreed to discuss June 24 a request to the Marin County Committee on School District Organization to schedule another election as soon as possible. It did this at the urging of Thomas Campanella, chairman of its citizen finance committee, who put on the nearest thing to a campaign for a "yes" vote on June 7 by making sure that pro - unification speakers appeared at most of the information sessions held at Dixie District schools.

If both boards act promptly with a request to the county committee, the issue could again be placed on the ballot in November. This would be much more satisfactory than scheduling a special election later. The greatest possible voter turnout will be for the November general election. It will show what the real majority of voters want — rather than reflecting only a minority, as special elections so often do.

Urgency for the unification is increased by what has happened within the last few weeks in the San Rafael schools. Supt. Bert C. Corona has resigned. Asst. Supt. Mitchell L. Voydat has taken an examination for a position with the State Department of Education, planning to resign his present job if he gets the appointment. Since he placed at the top of the lists, this seems likely.

The San Rafael board might do well to hire no new superintendent on the usual four-year contract, but merely make an interim appointment to await the outcome of unification. This would free the hands of the board of the new unified district — if unification should pass — to select its administrators without being tied down with an excessive number of contracts it was bound to honor.

Both boards would do well to ask the county committee not only to schedule the unification vote for the November general election, but also to schedule election of the board of the new district at the same time.

The harsh criticism of the San Rafael board by the California Teachers Assn.'s Bay Section personnel standards and ethics commission — whether deserved or not — cannot fail to handicap the effectiveness of the present San Rafael board.

Residents of both districts would be better served by choosing a school board at the general election, when a turnout of 80 per cent or more of the registered voters can be expected. The turnout for school board elections in both has been less than 50 per cent in the past.

Campanella, with a little encouragement, would probably be willing to head up a committee to put on a real campaign for the unification. He could doubtless find plenty of willing committee members in San Rafael as well as in Dixie district.

Such an opportunity to put this important issue to a vote at a time when its chances are best and the prospective vote turnout highest should not be ignored.

Researchers Tell Dream Drug Uses

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Research in the varying nature of psychedelic drugs might some day turn them into tools for psychotherapy, according to two young psychiatrists.

The concept of selectivity in the psychedelic spectrum was suggested yesterday by Dr. Claudio Naranjo of the University of Chile and Dr. Sterling Bunnell, San Francisco.

They discussed their thoughts at a unique conference here on LSD and other hallucinatory drugs.

They suggested that LSD may be of only limited usefulness because the reactions it provokes are extreme.

But Dr. Naranjo said he has used several psychedelic drugs in his practice, including LSD, mescaline, psilocybine, yage, and a drug called ibogaine extracted from a root used by African natives.

He said that ibogaine has enabled psychiatric patients to relive past experiences.

He suggested that LSD might some day be employed for overwhelming, non-analytical experiences; ibogaine for analyzing the past, and other drugs for probing the significance of fantasies that relate to the "here and now."

Dr. Bunnell said that he has been studying the properties of the chemical nature of drugs for more than five years. He said more and more of these compounds are being synthesized in laboratories today and scientists are learning to tailor the effects of many by precise alteration of molecules.

Bananas are now shipped directly from plantations in boxes rather than in bunches. Shippers say they arrive in better condition.

Exiles Claim Fidel Bleeds His Prisoners

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Exiles claim the Fidel Castro regime is executing political prisoners en masse, bleeding them first, and sending their blood to Communist Viet Nam.

There were 166 executions last May 27 at La Cabana fortress prison in Havana, Dr. Miguel Angel Olba Benito, secretary-general of the Commission for Humane Treatment for Political Prisoners in Cuba, told an exile meeting Wednesday night.

Before shooting the prisoners, an average of seven pints of blood was extracted from each, said Dr. Olba Benito, formerly a prominent Cuban lawyer.

He addressed the Cuban Lions Club in Exile at a special meeting in memory of three members of the club executed two years ago in Cuba.

Buy-America Policy Hit By Politico

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—California leads all other states in foreign exports but still is limited because of its Buy-American policy, Assemblyman Robert W. Crown, D-Alameda, said today.

Crown criticized California law which limits state and local governments to buying mainly American-made products. "The act is un-American, unconstitutional and uneconomic," he said.

Crown, chairman of the Assembly's budget committee, said in remarks prepared for a luncheon address that $20 million could have been saved in the State Water Project is the Buy - American Act were not law.

Crown's remarks were for a conference on "Problems in United States-Japan Trade."

Crown said repeal of he trade law would spur the state's foreign trade, avoid retaliatory trade practices by foreign nations and reduce the cost of government.

"It does not make sense for our national administration to foster and promote trade with our foreign neighbors while California sanctions protectionism," Crown said.

Hornitos in Mariposa County was so named because early Mexican burials in Gold Rush days were made above ground in rough mounds of stone and adobe which resembled outdoor bake ovens. Hornitos is Spanish for "little ovens."

Gottheiner Answers Parks Commission

Peter Gottheiner, former member of the county parks and recreation commission, charged today that the commission "plays deaf-mute to progressive and positive ideas of a farsighted commissioner."

Gottheiner earlier offered to resign if the commission was not willing to shift its emphasis from land acquisition to organized recreation programs.

The commission last week noted that Gottheiner had been absent three meetings in a row and his membership had terminated automatically.

In a letter to the commission today, Gottheiner said he missed his third consecutive meeting in January "and should have been ousted then."

He said that riots broke out in Marin City and residents asked for recreation but the commission did nothing.

"If you are functioning as a park and recreation commission you should appreciate commissioners who are ingenious and capable enough to propose, inaugurate and schedule recreational activities under your guidance and leadership," he wrote.

By missing meetings, Gottheiner said, "I really did not miss anything except an education in real estate and open space improvement."

Two Runaways Found Adrift In East Bay

ANTIOCH (AP)—Two 16-year-old boys who took a 23 - foot cabin cruiser and ran away from home because they were worried about final school examinations were found adrift in San Pablo Bay today.

A Coast Guard spokesman said Michael Holman, who took his father's boat, and his buddy, Steven Gaughn, were shivering but safe.

They had been in the boat since Monday, when they failed to return home from San Ramon High School. They were reported missing yesterday.

Mrs. Virgil Holman of Dublin, Michael's mother, said harbor officials told the family Michael had taken the boat, saying he had permission.

They were located by a Coast Guard cutter in the Grand Mound Slough.

Bridge Board Sets Highest Budget Ever

The finance committee of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District yesterday approved an operating budget of $2.9 million for next fiscal year, about $250,000 higher than the current year's budget.

General Manager James Adam reported that operating revenues for the new fiscal year are expected to be $5,860,000. This, plus interest on investments, should bring the bridge district a profit of about three million dollars during fiscal 1967.

PHONE FIRM GETS MESSAGE TO COOPERATE

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Fancy, decorative telephones costing up $250 must be installed by Pacific Telephone Co. when the customer requests it, the California Public Utilities Commission ordered yesterday.

Pacific Telephone had refused to install the sets, insisting that they fail to measure up to the Bell System's standards.

About 30,000 decorative sets, mostly French antique style and made in Japan, have been sold in California.

Max Rafferty Talks To Prison Inmates

Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, spoke to an audience of about 200 San Quentin prisoners, guests and prison staff last night at the 16th annual inmate council dinner at the prison.

Rafferty said that he had received a letter from a soldier in Viet Nam who said that the life he was prepared for in California's public schools had nothing to do with the life he was living as a soldier in Viet Nam. Rafferty agreed with the soldier's complaint that the trend in progressive education schools fails to prepare the student for life, and contended a return to more basic education would be beneficial.

Zsa Zsa Just Can't Crash Blue Book

NEW YORK (UPI) —Zsa Zsa Gabor, the first of the Gabor family to marry a listee in the Social Register, was given the cold shoulder today by the publication.

The newly issued summer edition of the volume took no notice of the Hungarian-born actress and Joshua Cosden, a listee in the New York edition of the Register who is now living in Dallas, Tex.

The summer Register normally lists all marriages of listees during the preceding six months. Failure to note a marriage usually means that the couple will not receive a listing in future editions.

Cosden is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Cosden, Jr., who cut a wide swath in New York society in the 1930s. his first marriage ended in divorce. He is Miss Gabor's fifth husband.

Dairymen Want Price Increase

Dairy farmers from Marin and elsewhere want an increase of one cent per quart in the price they get for fluid milk, claiming "seven years of starvation milk prices" have driven many dairymen into more profitable businesses.

Testifying today at milk hearings held by the Bureau of Milk Stabilization in San Jose, Manuel Medeiros of Petaluma, president of Associated Dairymen, representing 500 Northern California dairymen, said the state had gone overboard in holding the line in inflation.

He claimed there had been no increase in milk prices paid dairymen since 1959.

Runaway's Yacht Cruise Is International Puzzle

The 33-foot sloop Marionette rested at dockside today in Morro Bay, center of a puzzlement that spread from Marin and San Mateo counties to Japan.

The boat was taken from her Sausalito Yacht Harbor berth June 6. A 16-year-old boy from Menlo Park was found aboard eight days later 100 miles off Morro Bay by the Japanese freighter Mayasan Maru.

Mark Lewis, who "borrowed" the boat, belonging to E. Dan Hodel of Ross, is scheduled to appear at the Sausalito police station at 10 a.m. tomorrow. He will be interviewed by Sgt. John J. Higgins, who will decide what charges, if any, will be placed against him.

Hodel will go to Morro Bay with an insurance company surveyor to inspect the damage to the boat, estimated at $5,000 by the Coast Guard. Hodel placed the value of the Marionette at $15,000.

Meanwhile, the freighter's owners, Mitsui-OSK of Japan, was trying to decide whether to press a salvage claim to recover some of the cost of the delay to its Yokahama-bound freighter.

Pearce Young Calls For New Tax Plan

Another tax source such as the income or sales tax should be used to finance buplic education, Assemblyman Pearce Young, D-Napa, declared today.

Young, candidate for the State Senate in the Fourth District (Marin, Napa and Solano), issued the statement after hearing of the proposed increase in property taxes for Marin residents. He said he intends to develop legislation to relieve the problem.

Motorcycle Wreck Breaks Pelvis

James F. Baker's motorcycle hit a bump at 41 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley at 6:20 p.m. yesterday, flew off the curving road, hit two car support posts and a cement wall.

Baker, 41, of 591 Virginia Drive, Tiburon, suffered a broken pelvis but was reported in good condition today in Marin General Hospital.

Ferries Plentiful —But No Parking

There are six boats available to ferry 2,000 Marin commuters to San Francisco, but the problem is how to get parking space for ferry riders.

Marin County Transit District directors mulled this over last night in a brief session with Albert D. Elledge, president of Harbor Carriers Inc.

"We have the equipment, but we need the patronage," said Elledge, whose firms operates two runs from Tiburon to the Ferry Building in San Francisco.

TRAFFIC UP

Since the start of the Greyhound bus driver strike, the boats carry about three times as many passengers as they did before the strike, Elledge said. "Prior to the strike we had 130 a day each way."

The firm has three boats with a seating capacity of 400, one board with a seating capacity of 500, and two with 200 capacities, he said. The boats travel at about 11 knots and the trip takes about 35 minutes, he reported.

PARKING ISSUE

Directors questioned Elledge on the possibility of ferry service to Sausalito. He said he wanted to make a run to Sausalito but there was a parking problem.

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer, a strong advocate of ferry boats, suggested that the transit district might be able "to do something about parking space" at Marinship.

Supervisor Peter H. Behr, a director, said Marinship ferry service could serve commuters from the Mill Valley, Tamalpais Valley and Strawberry Point area. Possibly school buses would be available as a fleet to carry commuters to the ferry, Behr said.

Thomas D. Hardcastle of Novato, a director of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, said ferry service from Marinship would not aid the commuters from North Marin, but possibly high-speed water craft in the future could carry passengers from the Novato area to San Francisco.

"I'm not against water transportation," he said. "But it is a supplemental type of transportation. I don't think there is any real salvation except buses."

Directors took no action, but Storer commented that he might go down to the Marinship area and look around for a potential parking area for ferry customers.

County Faces Lawsuit Over Youngster's Fall

A $100,000 damage suit against Marin County has been filed at Marin Superior Court on behalf of a Santa Venetia boy who allegedly suffered permanent disability when he rode his cycle into roadworks near his home.

RED CROSS JOB — Mrs. Dorothy H. Gardner of Berkeley has been appointed director of service to military families for the Marin Chapter of the American Red Cross. She is a graduate of Atlanta University School of Social Work and holds a master's degree in social work. While a resident for 12 years of Seattle, she was on the advisory board of the Washington Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Marin Bus Study Not Hurt By Greyhound's Problems

The Greyhound Bus Lines strike has not slowed Marin County Transit District's $60,000 bus transit study, according to the firm making the study.

Ernest R. Gerlach, senior engineer for Coverdale and Colpitts, told the transit district board last night the study is on schedule and will be completed in October.

The firm has revamped its work program because of the bus strike, he said.

"We were planning to quiz passengers on buses to get a picture of the point-to-point pattern," Gerlach said. "We don't have information on the bulk of Greyhound passengers. We know a lot about the fellow who drives."

James W. Roberston, county traffic engineer, said a five-man crew would be at the Golden Gate Bridge toll gate during peak commute hours today counting the number of persons in each commuting car.

Robertson reported there has been no improvement in commuter traffic along Highway 101 since the buses were taken off the road.

Director William Jack Adams, a Novato city councilman, said that its takes him from 15 minutes to a half hour longer to drive to San Francisco in the morning.

Directors passed a resolution urging the state highway commission to proceed with restriping of Highway 101 through the Waldo Tunnel to the Golden Gate Bridge to provide a fourth lane.

The board adjourned until Aug. 10 at 8 p.m. at the Civic Center.

Transit Board Splits Over Budget Reserves

Marin County Transit District directors last night narrowly adopted a $215,000 budget for fiscal 1967, carrying the district's maximum tax rate of five cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Directors approved the budget and tax rate by a 4-3 vote after debate about including a $138,000 reserve fund.

Before the vote, Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen moved that the board delete the $138,000 or delay decision until after county budget hearings. He said he was opposed to including the reserve fund unless supervisors pare the county tax rate down to around $2.25 per $100 assessed valuation. Supervisor Thomas T. Storer agreed with him on this. Mayor Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera joined them in voting against the budget.

It was passed by the votes of Supervisors Byron W. Leydecker, Peter H. Behr and William A. Gnoss and Novato City Councilman William Jack Adams.

Prior to this vote, Kettenhofen's motion to delete the $138,000 or delay action was defeated by 4-3, with the same voting lineup.

County Administrator Alan Bruce explained the budget included $75,000 for contractural services including $60,000 for the bus transit study underway by Coverdale and Colpittts, consulting engineers of New York City, and part-time work of Arthur C. Jenkins, engineer for the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District.

Bruce said that the $138,000 reserve will help the district to build funds for an operational program, and would indicate its "good faith" when it seeks outside funds.

Behr said it would be "penny-wise and pound foolish" to eliminate the reserve. Adams said he felt the reserve would put the district in a position "to move forward."

Parked Boat Looted

A bilge pump, battery and other items worth $97 were stolen between May 31 and June 3 from a boat belonging to David Gohen of 880 Butterfield Road, Sleepy Hollow, while parked on a trailer at Monti's Mobil service station, 600 Fourth Street, San Rafael, he reported to police yesterday.

The group meets at the Elks Club in San Rafael at noon on the third Thursday of each month.

Jail, Probation For Drunken Driving

Dennis C. Evansco, 23, of 1750 Mar West, Tiburon, was convicted of drunken driving by Judge Leonard A. Thomas at Marin Municipal Court yesterday and placed on two years probation.

He was also fined $276 and sentenced to 10 days in Marin County Jail. Evansco was arrsted by Sheriff's deputies Feb. 26.

Humphrey Pays Bill For Hedge Hurt By Crowd

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey has paid a Louisville man $10 for damage to a 30-foot hedge behind his house caused by a crowd that engulfed Humphrey at an impromptu political rally for local candidates.

Shortly after the rally last Oct. 23, Emmet Minia, 76, a retired auto painter, received a letter from Humphrey which said: "I just read in the account of my visit in the Courier-Journal that the crowd waiting to greet me trampled your hedge. If there was serious damage to the hedge, I hope you will let me know. I am sorry about the damage and hope we can fix things up."

Minia billed the vice president for transplanting and fertilizing boxwood plants. He named the plants the Hubert Humphrey Boxwoods.

Driver Fined $276 On First Offense

Aeneas Clifford Rotsel, 58, of 1064-C Los Gamos Road, Santa Venetia was fined $276, ordered to prison for five days and placed on probation for a year by Marin Municipal Court Judge Leonard A. Thomas yesterday for drunken driving.

Rotsel was arrested by the California Highway Patrol on Highway 101 March 2. He had a previous conviction.

But when you buy your lot at The Sea Ranch, miles of this magnificent coastline come with it.

Coastal land in California is disappearing fast. But The Sea Ranch, on the unspoiled Sonoma coast, has found a way to make miles of it available to every property buyer.

The Sea Ranch has been called "the most unusual second-home colony ever conceived by nature and man," and it's easy to see why. Ocean meadow or forested ridge lots with panoramic coastal views. Excellent weather—normally warm and sunny even on days when the Bay Area is not. Year-around facilities for hiking, swimming, riding, picnicking, tennis. Master planning that preserves acres of open space and miles of magnificent coastline for every resident. Paved roads. Underground utilities. And an extraordinarily convenient location—just 2½ hours from San Francisco, 17 miles north of Fort Ross on Highway 1.

To get the full and fascinating story on why The Sea Ranch is an incomparable second-home value, fill out and mail the coupon. We'll be happy to send you the details, without obligation, of course. But don't delay. There are other Californians who aren't satisfied with 3½ feet of coastline. They're looking at The Sea Ranch, too.

Conservation Lobby Group Gets Backing

Marin Conservation Council decided at its meeting last night to give financial support to a state lobbying group which hires a fulltime lobbyist in Sacramento to work for conservation projects.

The council heard Reverdy Johnson, a director of the Planning and Conservation League for Legislative Action, talk about the group's activities since it was organized last year.

Johnson said the league has been instrumental in three legislative actions to date: loan provisions for the South Tahoe Utilities District concerning pollution of Lake Tahoe; highway beautification bill implementation, which includes scenic easement and landscaping highway rights of way, and a proposed constitutional amendment, already passed by the assembly, which authorizes tax relief and lower assessments for farmers.

Failure of the county parks bond issue to pass in the June 7 election was discussed by members, and the consensus was that the bond failed because there had been inadequate time for a campaign. Members said they had high hopes of getting a parks bond passed at a future election, but not next November.

Marin Labor Council Gloomy About Jobs

Continuing unemployment in Marin's construction industry was the prime topic at last night's meeting of the Marin County Labor Council. Members were generally pessimistic about prospects for an upswing in construction employment.

The Labor Council has cut its summer meetings in half for lack of business. There will be only one meeting each month, on July 20 and Aug. 17.

Airport Fund May Relieve Tax Rate

Marin County supervisors yesterday endorsed the idea of using $170,619 put aside for airport development over the last two years to help keep the tax rate down in fiscal 1967.

Under the proposal discussed during a budget session, the $260,000 now estimated as the county share for airport development would be borrowed from the retirement fund at 6.5 per cent interest for 20 years under a lease-purchase proposal. Only trouble is that the retirement board has been reluctant to endorse the idea.

Asst. County Administrator John F. Barrows told supervisors the retirement board would require study of the airport project by an independent engineer to make sure it is feasible.

"That's ridiculous," said Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker.

Barrows also said that the board would want the legalities of the deal endorsed by an independent attorney, not the county counsel.

"Ridiculous!" said Leydecker, joined this time by Supervisor William A. Gnoss.

Asst. Public Works Director Joe H. Henderson noted that there was an Aug. 1 deadline on a county option on about 30 acres needed for the project.

Supervisors agreed that this would have to be extended anyway because the Federal Aviation Agency is not expected to act on the county's request for $305,300 in federal funds for the job until September.

Meanwhile the supervisors agreed to a meeting with the retirement board to see if some views can be changed.

Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofn is a member of the retirement board, but he was not present when it urged the independent studies.

Supervisors yesterday took up discussion of a bond issue or several bond issues for capital improvements.

Barrows said bond issues could raise the $312,000 needed to buy voting machines tested June 7, $13.9 million for road projects, $1.2 million for the veterans memorial auditorium and $704,000 for additional county buildings, including classrooms and added wings at juvenile hall, a fire station at Tomales and a sheriff's substation at Point Reyes Station.

Supervisors made no decision on the proposals.

David Fogle of the probation department told the board that occupancy of juvenile hall was up 50 per cent in the last six months and an alternate to the $23,500 for repair of the girls wing and $30,000 for a classroom was being prepared for discussion Monday when the probation budget is considered.

Supervisors must complete hearings on the budget by Wednesday, but action on it may be deferred as late as Aug. 31.

Tomorrow the board will consider the coroner, recorder, fire department, and justice and municipal courts.

Surplus Reported In Federal Income

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Johnson told a White House audience the government is "taking in in the neighborhood of $10 billion more this year" than he thought it would a few months ago.

The President evidently went a little higher in his estimate than he intended, because his quickly added in a speech to a conference on medicare that "I said in the neighborhood" of $10 billion. "That gives me a flexibility, I hope," he said with a smile.

Tough Road Safety Bill Gains Ground

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Public Works Committee approved today a tough highway safety bill that would cut federal highway aid to states which fail to establish proper safety programs.

The bill goes considerably beyond administration proposals and also beyond a bill approved last week by the Senate Public Works Committee.

Mississippians Jeer Negro, White Freedom Marchers

HOLCOMB, Miss. (AP) — The sight of whites marching with Negroes provoked barely hidden resentment among the white populace as the Mississippi march moved into the greening delta land today.

"They can't be white, they must be yellow," snapped a hefty matron, rocking in a chair in front of a country store closed because the marchers were coming by. There was only a sprinkling of whites in the column.

All stores and service stations in this community of 250 were shuttered as the procession passed through singing freedom songs. They are en route to Jackson, the state capital, to finish the march James H. Meredith started before he was wounded June 6.

Loud, contemptuous, insulting remarks from spectators about the marchers, the FBI, the federal government and newsmen are routine.

The highway patrol, however, seeks out potential trouble spots and moves to forestall problems.

As the marchers moved southward, the change toward repressed hostility becomes marked. More and more ghost shacks, where Negro field hands once lived, are along the countryside in an agricultural area that has become largely mechanized. Cotton, grown on huge fields, yielded readily to machines.

Many Negroes in the delta are jobless, living on free government foods. Many say they are homeless. Most have not registered to vote — and these are the ones the marchers hope to inspire. Their drive in Grenada the last two days resulted in hundreds being registered — many by temporary Negro clerks.

'Thirty Days' Cries Gnoss

County Supervisor William A. Gnoss "passed sentence" during the board's budget deliberations yesterday.

The board decided against providing portable air conditioners requested by judges for two court rooms. This was after Public Works Director Donald R. Frost said it would take four of the biggest portables made to serve one room and two for another.

"We can forget about that," said Supervisor Byron W. Leydecker.

Assemblyman Allen Becomes 'Historian'

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Assemblyman Don A. Allen Sr. is retiring this year after 22 years as a legislator, and he has made a career of becoming an expert on the California legislature.

On Wednesday, that interest was rewarded when the Senate gave final legislative approval to a resolution making the Los Angeles Democrat the official historian of the legislature. He won't get any pay, however.

City Council Meets In Women's Lounge

ONEONTA, N.Y. (AP) — The women's lounge in City Hall offers privacy. It's near the City Council chambers and has a lock on the door.

For those reasons, Alderman John Higgins said, he and five other councilmen, all men, and Mayor Albert S. Nader adjourned to the lounge recently for a private, five-minute executive session.

Lightning-Set Blazes Erupt In Mountains

By ASSOCIATE DPRESS

Lightning touched off at least five fires that are still burning today near Bishop in Inyo County east of the Sierra Nevada and near Bakersfield in Kern County.

Because helicopters had been diverted to the hugh fire in oLs Padres National Forest near Santa Maria, ground crews are hiking today into the heavily timbered parts of Inyo National Forest to fight three isolated blazes.

Two fires are out of control on Breckenridge Mountain, 30 miles south of Bakersfield. A 900-acre blaze on the mountain's south slope had burned to within a mile of two television towers. On the north slope, an 800-acre fire was inside Sequoia National Forest.

The Breckenridge fire threatened four cabins, two television transmitters, a forestry service lookout station, and the Kern County communication repeater and microwave station on top of the mountain.

Highway 178 between Bakersfield and Lake Isabella was closed by the highway patrol because of heavy smoke and the need for emergency use.

In all, 15 lightning set fires were reported in Kern County. Except for the two major blazes, all others were reported controlled.

Fresno County firemen extinguished several small grass fires, as well as an 800 - acre grain fire set by a harvester exhaust six miles east of Clovis.

More than 600 men and six tanker aircraft are combating those blazes today.

Those were just a few of the rash of fires breaking out in Northern California.

Firefighters are hiking into a timber and grassland blaze on Goat Mountain near Bass Lake in Madera County.

In Colusa County, a 15,675 - acre grass and brush fire was brought within 5 per cent of control late yesterday.

Also controlled was a 160-acre brush fire northwest of Redway.

A fire-fighting crew of 47 San Quentin prisoners was sent from the prison last night to assist U. S. Forest Service firemen in fighting the Sequoia National Forest blaze.

The prisoners were accompanied by a sergeant and two correctional officers.

Twin City Board Denies Setback Plea

Corte Madera board of adjustments last night denied a mass variance in setback requirements for 11 lots in the Madera Park tract, despite the Town Council's support of the request.

Applicants Roemer and Estes asked the variances to facilitate building on the lots, which average between 11,000 and 12,000 square feet in an area zoned for 20,000 square foot lots.

The board of adjustments granted Marin Municipal Water District permission to add another foot to its six-foot fence around the corporation yard on Tamal Vista Boulevarcd.

Chairman Wilbur S. Williams was absent.

Evaporation is so intense around the Dead Sea that the entire inflow of fresh water, over six million tons a day, is carried off.

Scenic Highway Law Signed By Governor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown today signed into law a bill intended to restore the scenic beauty of state highways by hiding or moving junkyards along the roadside.

The measure by Assemblyman Edwin Z'Berg, D-Sacramento, also provides for protection of scenic areas near highways.

Both provisions were intended to meet standards set by President Johnson's Highway Beautification Act.

As originally introduced, the bill would have controlled highway billboards. But that section was removed prior to final passage.

The bill would require removal or screening of junkyards within 1,000 feet of interstate or primary highways by Jan. 1, 1968. It also would enable the state to receive about $10 million in federal funds to buy scenic corridors adjacent to the same highways.

Interest Overdue On Loans

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California's 204 state chartered savings and loan associations report a record total of $84,237,000 in loans on which interest payments were overdue March 31.

The total grew by $120 million in the year's first three months according to records of the state Division of Savings and Loan.

The loans are on real estate that are three months or more overdue, have resulted in foreclosures, or have run into other difficulties.

Such loans amount to 5.39 per cent of all money Northern California associations have available for lending. The ratio is 5.76 for Southern California state-chartered associations.

A high vacancy rate in newly built apartment buildings is regarded as a major cause of the mortgage payment delinquency.

Bart Lytton, head of associations in Palo Alto and Hollywood, said many of these buildings may be expected to turn from liabilities into assets in the reasonable future. He predicted a substantial filling of apartment vacancies by the end of the year.

Redwoods Park Hearing Slated

CRESCENT CITY (UPI)—The U.S. Senate subcommittee on parks and recreation will open a two-day hearing here tomorrow on the controversial proposal to establish a Redwood national park in Northern California.

The committee is expected to limit testimony to about five minutes each for the more than 60 witnesses who have asked to appear.

However, each witness will also be given a opportunity to forward a more complete statement to the committee in Washington at the conclusion of the hearings.

Reagan Calls For New 'Society'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican candidate Ronald Reagan said today that if elected governor of California, he would launch a "creative society" program that would rely on the people of the state rather than the federal government to solve their problems.

In a speech prepared for delivery at a National Press Club lunch, the Hollywood actor acknowledged there are problems such as poverty, delinquency and the aged. But the solution is not "abdication of personal and local responsibility," Reagan said.

"The trouble with this solution," he commented, "is that for every ounce of federal help we get, we surrender an ounce of personal freedom.

"The Great Society grows greater every day . . . greater in cost, greater in inefficiency and greater in waste."

Robbery Suspect Held In Stockton

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The arrest of a Pennsylvania truck driver on a charge of holding up an Internal Revenue Service cashier in the Federal Building Monday was reported today.

The FBI said Franklin Everett Branamen, 28, of Pittsburgh was taken into custody lastnight in Stockton on a Baltimore fugitive warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid forgery prosecution.

A spokesman said Branamen will be brought to San Francisco and charged with armed robbery on a federal reservation for Monday's holdup.

Highway Wave Deflectors End Rincon Beach Thrills

The old wall, virtually at the edge of the four-lane highway, had no deflector. At high tide, when the waves were whipped by strong winds, spume slapped against it and soared 30 or more feet high. Sometimes it was blown clear across the road.

On such days many motorists stopped and got out of their cars to watch the show—at risk of being soaked.

Castro's Absence Is Speculated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department took official notice today of reported speculation in Cuba over the whereabouts of Premier Fidel Castro and said the Havana regime faces "growing popular dissatisfaction."

"It is a fact that Castro uncharacteristically has not been in the foreground of events since May 1," a department spokesman said.

"This has led to widespread speculation inside Cuba about his whereabouts," press officer Robert J. McCloskey added.

Auer Resigns Again At Bolinas-Stinson

Peter M. Auer, superintendent-principal of Bolinas-Stinson School District, resigned for the second time yesterday.

Asked his reason, the controversial teacher-administrator said: "because of a desire to administer in a larger district or to work in curriculum." He said he has no specific job lined up.

Auer resigned April 13 but then following a wave of demands by the public that the school board reconsider his resignation, consented to stay.

Large crowds of residents from the two beach communities overflowed the Bolinas School at two special board meetings for full hearings on the resignation.

At the April 28 meeting, Trustee Ida J. Mendonca said the whole fuss, as far as she was concerned, began over Auer's suggestion to set up a wood shop at Bolinas School. "It was all over two little saws."

A petition circulated in the two towns suggested that Auer had resigned under pressure of the school board. Auer told trustees, according to board clerk Arthur E. Carpenter, he wished to become a fulltime principal or curriculum adviser.

Asked today if the previous hubub had anything to do with yesterday's resignation, Auer replied, "no."

He also said that final action on his resignation rests with the board, which will meet Wednesday.

Charter Group Meets Secretly

The committee for revising San Rafael's city charter met without public notice last night in the city hall, but Roy C. Michael, chairman, said today the meeting was solely to organize the committee "so we will know what we are doing."

Future meetings, he said, will be open to the public. The first will be June 29 at 8 p.m. in the city hall. The committee hopes to meet thereafter on Wednesday nights, every two weeks, until the job is done, he said.

The committee was appointed by the city council to review the 54-year-old charter and suggest revisions to be put before the voters in next April's municipal election.

Redwoods Marchers Begin Final Leg Of Their Walk

CRESCENT CITY (UPI)—Ten marchers protesting the destruction of Northern California redwoods set off on the final leg of their 30-mile walk today.

The marchers, most of them students, planned to arrive in Crescent City by midafternoon. They covered 14 miles Wednesday, then returned by truck ho their campsite six miles north of Klamath River. They plan to camp tonight in Jedediah Smith State Park.

The marchers range in age from 16 to 33. Five are from Berkeley and four from Sacramento. A 10th from Arcata joined the march Wednesday.

Harold Del Ponte, chairman of the Del Norte County Board of Supsrvisors, met the group yesterday at Del Norte Coast Redwoods State Park. He extended the county's welcome.

A parks and recreation subcommittee of the U.S. Senate will open a hearing here tomorrow on a proposed redwoods national park. Three of the marchers hope to testify.

Firemen To Get More New Beds

Sausalito City Council last night added six more new beds for Fire Station Number One and completed deliberations on the fiscal 1967 budget.

The finance committee will recommend changes agreed to last night to the council on Tuesday, when the budget is expected to be adopted.

City Mgr. Charles A. Brown said the council had originally agreed to replace six beds, but last night agreed to replace all 12.

Council To Hire Chief Of Police

A new Sausalito police chief is expected to be named Monday, City Mgr. Charles A. Brown reported today.

He said four candidates are being considered.

STATE HONORS JUSTUS CRAEMER—A formal resolution expressing the state legislators' "deep regret" at the passing of Justus F. Craemer, publisher of the Independent-Journal, was presented this week at the rostrum of the Assembly Chambers in the State Capitol. Assemblyman William T. COUNCIL STRIVING FOR TAX RATE CUT

San Rafael Officials Cite Assessment Rise, Want To Lower Existing 94-Cent Tariff

A majority of San Rafael City Council members pledged themselves at a budget meeting last night to cut the city's tax rate for next fiscal year.

The city's rate has been 94 cents per $100 for three years. City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said the same rate was called for to balance the budget the council has under study.

Councilman Fred E. Jensen started what turned out to be a chorus of calls for tax cuts.

"School taxes have gone up. County taxes are going up. I think we should tighten the purse strings," said Jensen. "I'd like to see the tax rate cut."

Councilmen Louis H. Baar, Harry A. Barbier and Charles W. Aby promptly agreed.

"We have so much money coming in by the increase in assessed valuation," said Baar. "If we leave the tax rate the same, our taxes are going up."

Barbier said the valuation increase, plus rising tax rates, are "taxing the people out of owning property."

The council made no major reductions in reviewing fire and police department budgets last night, although neither Fire Chief Vance Trivett nor Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa got all he asked.

The council added $125 to the fire department budget to send a fireman to attend an arson investigation school. Trivett proposed that both a fireman and policeman be sent. The fire commission, said Councilman Barbier, who is a member, had ruled out the policeman. City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen had recommended against both.

After Trivett had left, however, the council tentatively cut $1,850 for a pickup truck asked for his department, which had been approved by the city manager. Councilmen did not notice the item while the fire chief was present.

Addition of three cadets to the police department was approved, as were three promotions from sergeant to lieutenant. The council turned down Chiesa's requests for an additional sergeant and an additional motorcycle patrolman, and for the cycle the latter would require.

The cadets, students or young men who may become future policemen, will be hired to work in the office on the "graveyard" shift from midnight to 8 a.m.

Chiesa proposed that Thomas L. Stephenson, sergeant on that shift, be promoted to lieutenant, and that an additional beat sergeant be named. The council approved the promotion, but with no change in Stephenson's duties and no additional sergeant, pointing out Stephenson would have help in the office from the cadets.

The council also approved promotion of Sgt. Earl W. Christensen to lieutenant.

Chiesa asked that Sgt. Raymond F. Bleasdale, head of the traffic detail, be jumped two grades, to captain. Only captain on the force is Joseph J. Brusatori, the assistant chief.

The council ruled out a two-grade jump, but approved promoting Bleasdale to lieutenant. His pay, along with those of Stephenson and Christensen will go up from $739 to $776 per month.

A rating of sergeant was approved for David L. Vargo, the department's identification officer, raising his pay from $670 to $704.

On recommendation of the city manager, the council turned down raises beyond their annual step increases for two clerk-typists in the police department, also asked by Chiesa.

Councilman Baar was angered by a series of letters from Chiesa, asking promotions and additions, which had been sent after he submitted his budget request to the city manager.

"There's no sense making a budget and then sending us letters for a lot of additional deals," complained Baar. "If you want to make a request, make it in your budget."

The council will consider the rest of the budget next Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the council chamber. It includes public works, and the reserve fund — both likely targets for trimming to cut the tax rate.

Civil Defense Rocket Alert Try Misfires

RENO (UPI)—Scores of windows were shattered and other damage caused over a four block area last night when a Civil Defense training exercise went haywire.

A truck loaded with rockets exploded in the parking lot at the City Hall. Rockets, set to blast off the roofs of the fire stations in Reno and Sparks, misfired.

No serious injuries were reported. Gerald Mason, a Civil Defense worker, suffered minor burns and cuts but was reported in good condition today at Washoe Medical Center.

Neither the cause or the estimated damage were determined.

County Civil Defense Director Robert Hay said, "this will set Civil Defense back two years."

He said similar expermients had all been satisfactory.

The rockets, a standard Fourth of July type firework, were to be fired as a training alert in case of enemy attack.

However one of them in the truck apparently went off and the rest exploded. That ignited the truck's gas tank.

At fire stations, rockets blasted holes in the roofs and sent showers of burning debris over the area.

Reno Fire Chief Wagner Sorensen said he "was rocked out of my chair" in his home about eight blocks from the city hall.

"I was against this type of explosion alert in the first place," Sorensen said. "And you can be sure that they won't be used again if I have anything to say about it."

Dominican Workshop Set For Next Week

Late registration for Dominican College's 1966 World Workshop may be made from 8 to 9 a.m. Monday at the college, co-chairman Robin Skewes-Cox announced yesterday.

The workshop is a 30-hour course running Monday through Friday next week from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. It will feature 18 guest lecturers.

More Tributes Given Late Justus Craemer

Tributes continued to pour in this week to the late Justus F. Craemer, publisher of the San Rafael Independent - Journal, who died on May 25 at age 79.

Among them were an Assembly resolution by state legislators, and letters of sympathy from Chief Justice Earl Warren of the U. S. Supreme Court, Gov. Edmund G. Brown, the State Public Utilities Commission, and a host of other organizations and individuals.

The Assembly resolution, introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley and co-authored by Sen. John F. McCarthy, had been adopted on May 27. The official document, framed and signed, was presented this week in Sacramento to Ben D. Martin, general manager of the California Newspaper Publishers Assn., for forwarding to the Craemer family. Among his many activities, Justus Craemer served as president of CNPA.

The resolution describes Craemer's "brilliant and distinguished" career in journalism, government and civic affairs. "A public-spirited and civic-minded citizen, his superlative ability, constant atention to work, high concern for public service and journalism, and engaging personality won him the praise of all Californians," says the resolution.

Chief Justice Warren expressed regret that court conferences prevented him from attending the funeral services in San Rafael. "I sincerely regret the passing of my longtime friend, Justus F. Craemer, who contributed so much to the development of our state as a journalist and as a dedicated public servant for many years," wrote Warren. "He will be greatly missed by thousands of Californians."

"Justus had a long, outstanding career as a journalist and public servant and his wise guidance will be sorely missed," wrote Governor Brown.

In extraordinary proceedings, the Los Angeles City Council, which rarely honors the memory of non-residents of the county, adjourned a recent meeting in Craemer's honor.

The Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board of directors adjourned in his memory last week.

Accolades and expressions of sympathy came from Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken of San Francisco; D. J. Russell, retired president of Southern Pacific Co., who wrote from Madrid; the State Public Utilities Commission, of which Craemer was a longtime member; Marin General Hospital District directors; National Newspaper Assn.; the Ohio Newspaper Assn., and the Georgia Newspaper Assn.

Slaying Trial Hears Of Attack, Knifing

A Sacramento woman today told of being knifed and raped by Jack Gorman in that city in 1948.

The testimony of Bernice Temple Gates came in Marin Superior Court, where Gorman and Osuna are on trial for their lives, having been found guilty of the murder of bartender Mario Ferrari at the Mission Inn last Labor Day.

Mrs. Gates said a boy friend was walking her home through an alley when Gorman, armed with a gun and a knife, attacked them. Her friend was robbed, she said, and she was knifed, stripped and raped.

She was followed to the stand by Sacramento Police Officer Aleander J. McCormick, who described going to the couple's aid and finding Mrs. Gates naked and covered with blood.

Her companion was being held at bay by the armed Gorman, the police officer said. McCormack said he disarmed Gorman.

The two witnesses' testimony was introduced by Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales, who is asking the death sentence for both men in the penalty phase of their trial.

Bales has said he will introduce 12 witnesses to establish "a pattern of violence" in the lives of the convicted killers and to offset testimony of character witnesses called by the defense. Several of the defense witnesses have variously described Gorman and Osuna as "considerate," "eager to rehabilitate themselves," "cooperative," and generally "well-behaved."

Yesterday another prosecution witness told the court Gorman had stabbed a fellow inmate at Folsom Prison where he was serving a term for robbery and kidnaping for the attack on Mrs. Gates and her companion.

The witness, Edward Prather, a Folsom guard at the time, said Gorman was not tried for the prison stabbing, because he was serving a life sentence without possibility of parole at the time.

Gorman was paroled last August, however, as a result of a 1951 amendment to the penal code by the State Legislature.

Flood Zone's Tax Rate Cut To Nickel

Marin County supervisors yesterday succeeded in reducing the estimated tax for the Ross Valley Flood Control Zone to 5 cents per $100 assessed valuation, but all county taxpayers will have to help a little.

One of the items removed from the zone budget by the board yesterday was $8,400 for interest on money advanced from county reserves.

The philosophy behind the interest charge is that a zone or special district should put up the normal interest return for money raised from the general county tax.

The philosophy was watered down considerably yesterday when the board decided that the general tax would also pay the interest.

Originally the tax was projected at 20 cents this brought strong complaints and a reminder from residents of the zone that supervisors had promised a 5-cent maximum when the zone was being formed.

County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost said a major budget reduction was possible because Domenic Muzzi has given oral agreement to for fill to be put on his land. It was throught at one time that the zone would have to put up the fee required by the State Land Commission.

Council Hears How To Use Waterfront

Many recommendations for a central waterfront plan for the City of Sausalito were outlined last night to the city planning commission by consultant William E. Spangle.

Spangle recommended that the plan encourage a continuation of multiple uses, avoid creating a new shoreline by filling, use piers where structures would be built on water-covered land, improve pedestrian environment by providing "loop" instead of straight line walkways.

He also emphasized importance of adequate controls in administrating the plan after it is adopted.

The commission will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. next Wednesday, to discuss criteria for a site for the new library as it relates to the plan.

New York Ships Collide, Blaze

NEW YORK (AP)—The Coast Guard said today two ships, a tanker and a freighter, had collided in Kill Van Kull in lower New York Bay and both vessels were afire. Three tugs also were reported on fire.

Police at Bayonee, N.J., said they received unconfirmed reports of several bodies afloat in the water.

The Coast Guard, which identified the ships as the tanker Texaco Massachussetts and the British freighter Alva Cape, said the vessels were toching one another.

San Anselman Still Target Of Manhunt

Garry Rice, 27, of San Rafael, and Joseph J. Tatton, 31, of San Mateo, prime suspects in a series of armed holdups and one murder, appeared handcuffed in court today as the manhunt continued for the missing "third man."

Rice and Tatton were ordered held without bail in Mountain View Municipal Court on charges of murder, armed robbery and conspiracy.

Police throughout the Bay Area were continuing an extensive search for Rice's brother, Byron J. Rice, 30, of San Anselmo, who, they said, may have been involved in the fatal shooting of an armored truck guard during a Feb. 21 drugstore holdup in the East Bay.

Detectives were also trying to determine whether the three men were involved in other holdups in the area.

Oakland Chief of Inspectors Alvin King said witnesses have identified Tatton as one of three men who staged an Oct. 18 holdup at Sears store. A policeman was shot and wounded in the robbery.

The younger Rice and Tatton were arrested in Marin County Manday after a Tennessee Valley rancher had reported to Sheriff's deputies two men were acting suspiciously on his property.

They were booked on suspicion of armed robbery and murder in the holdup at Mountain View when truck guard, Clarence E. Wylder, 55, was killed. Police said $31,000 was taken during that daylight robbery.

Soviets Pirating Cal's Textbooks

BERKELEY (AP) — Russia has made another discovery — that University of California is an excellent source of free manuscripts of engineering textbooks.

A survey of the university's technical departments disclosed today that professors in almost every U.C. engineering department have had their books translated into Russian.

Sometimes, permission to make the translation is obtained. More often the first the author knows about it is when a colleague abroad congratulates him on the translated text.

Drunk Driver Fined

Oliver Elster, 67, of 690 Hilary Drive, Tiburon, was fined $276 and had a 90-day conditional suspension of his driving license at Marin Municipal Court yesterday after pleading innocent to drunken driving. He was arrested Saturday on Highway 101 by California Highway Patrol.

Wyoming Police Capture Bornn

Arthur V. Bornn, the 18-year-old burglar suspect who escaped from Marin County Superior Court, has been caught in Wyoming.

He was picked up by police at Rawlins yesterday after he was stopped driving a car believed to have been stolen from Garberville, Humboldt County, said sheriff's deputies.

Bornn made his bid for freedom June 8 as he and other prisoners were being led from Marin County Jail into the courthouse.

He was to have been sentenced for burglary and car theft by Judge Harold J. Haley.

Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said today action will be started to return the escapee to Marin County.

Committeemen Duck Open Housing Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Judiciary subcommittee today ducked a showdown vote on the administration's proposed open-housing law and referred it to the full Judiciary Committee.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., said changes in the bill reportedly suggested by Atty. Gen. Nicholas Katzenbach to Senate Republican leaders without his knowledge kept the subcommittee from acting.

Murder Suspect Is Due Release

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Clyde Simmonds, 75, a suspect in the slaying of Painters Union leader Dow Wilson, had the legal permission to walk out of jail today but did not have the funds to post the needed bond.

Superior Judge Norman Elkington yesterday granted a request from Simmonds' attorney, Melvin Belli, that the suspect be granted freedom in lieu of bail. The judge originally set the bond at $25,000 but later reduced it to $11,500.

The elderly Sacramento painting contractor was the second of the five suspects in Wilson's shotgun slaying to be granted bail. On May 27 tavern owner Richard Rock of Mill Valley was freed on $25,000 bond.

Belli said grand jury testimony against his client was anything but conclusive.

The attorney said Simmonds was indicted on the basis of a recorded telephone conversation in which he allegedly said: "I had to take a certain little action to stop a fire from going into a big bonfire, and now you don't hear any more about it."

Elkington called the conversation "cryptic" and added "there could very well be an innocent explanation."

A half dozen other motions were made to Elkington yesterday, including a plea from Rock's attorney that his client be granted an early separate trial.

Simmonds, Rock, Black, Normal Call and Max Ward were accused of plotting the April 5 ambush slaying of Wilson.

Police said Wilson was killed because of his criticism on how a union welfare fund was being handled in Sacrameto.

Three Union Aides Tell Of Threats

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Three AFL-CIO Painters Union officials said yesterday they have been threatened with death.

Reporting the telephoned threats were Jerome Downey, Local 507 business manager; Charles A. Davis, a business agent; and Conrad Paredes, a business representative.

Their reports came as a judge in San Francisco set bail at $11,500 for Clyde Simmonds, one of five men indicted in the slaying there of Dow Wilson, a union leader.

Floyd Green, a union official in the San Francisco East Bay area, was killed a month after Wilson's April 5 death, but there has been no arrest in his case.

Commons Revolt Gets Nowhere

LONDON (AP)—Another revolt by some members of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's Labor party met the usual crashing defeat Wednesday night when the voting test came.

The caucus of Labor members of the House of Commons voted 225-54 to reject a motion by left and right wingers calling for the withdrawal of British troops east of Suez. Wilson told them such a move would be "the surest prescription for a nuclear holocaust I can think of."

Wilson's critics sought to cut defense spending in Malaysia, Singapore and the Persian Gulf. They accused the government of continuing to act like a great power abroad while the nation is in dire economic straits.

Medicare Premium Notices Due Soon

About 3500 Marin residents will receive their first Medicare premium notices this month, according to Patrick M. Stevens, manager of the San Rafael office of the Social Security Administration.

They will be among two million Americans who are not drawing Social Security benefits and therefore will not have their Medicare premiums deducted from their wages. About 15 million, Stevens said, will have their three dollar monthly premiums deducted automatically from their monthly Social Security, railroad retirement or civil service benefit checks, beginning next month.

Cuba Executes Killer Of Two

HAVANA (AP) — An airline flight engineer who killed two men when he tried to hijack a plane was executed immediately after his conviction Wednesday, and a Roman Catholic priest who gave him refuge was sentenced to 15 years in prison.

Angel Maria Betancourt Cueto was executed by a firing squad at dawn after a trial in La Cabana Fortress that began Tuesday afternoon.

He killed a guard aboard a Soviet-built Ilyushin 18 airliner on March 27 and ordered the pilot to fly to Miami. When the pilot tricked him and landed at Havana Airport, Betancourt shot him to death and escaped.

Admission tickets to Montreal's fair, Expo '67, will be in the form of passports with pages for pavillion "visa" stamps.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

DEAR HELEN:

You probably got blasted by would-be brides and mamas of brides for your lukewarm stand on big weddings. (Note from H.: That I did!)

After trying to plan a lovely wedding, and ending up almost divorced before I was married, I will now agree with you.

Girls, don't ever get involved in a big "do," unless, as Helen says, you have relatives and close friends who are totally compatible and won't get their feelings hurt.

Grandma got mad because I wouldn't wear her wedding dress, a family tradition, even though it's all frayed and yellow and too small for me. Great Aunt Martha, who doesn't like Grandma, insisted that she'd buy me a dress, and her side of the family said they wouldn't come if I didn't accept (which I didn't).

His and my folks couldn't agree on a guest list, ended up not speaking. There was a big hassle over bridesmaids and ushers because of not enough jobs to fit all the people wanting them.

Before long I felt so pulled and hauled by all the kooks on both sides of the family I just said to heck with the whole mess, and one day my fiance and I took a drive and came back married. — We are — LIVING HAPPILY EVER AFTER

DEAR LHEA:

Congratulations! You're one couple who didn't let too many kooks spoil the troth! —H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am engaged to a wonderful fellow whom I love, but right now I wonder if we will ever make it to the altar.

In trying to choose the wedding party, my fiance feels it is his job alone to select the ushers.

I always thought my two brothers, ages 28 and 25, would be in the wedding party, but my fiance wants only my younger brother. He says he has other friends closer to him than my older brother. I suggested adding another usher and he said if he did it would be his cousin.

I am very close to both my brothers and feel that having one left out would hurt him deeply. My fiance can't see my reasoning and I can't see his. What's yours? —F. C. H.

DEAR F.:

According to Post, your fiance is right: The bride chooses her attendants, the bridegroom his, with the exception of one courtesy selection each from the other's family.

However, knowing how much it means to his girl, a thoughtful man would add another usher (in addition to his cousin) even if boutonniere, gifts, and what-not take a few dollars away from his honeymoon money. It pays dividends to keep the bride happy on her wedding day. —H.

P.S. For another solution, read letter signed "LIVING HAPPILY EVER AFTER."

DEAR HELEN:

We are expecting our first baby, after having been married a year. My husband's grandmother says she knows it will be a girl because she held a metal plumbline (string with a weight on it) over my bulge and it swung in a circle. If it had swung back and forth, she says it would mean a boy. Is this true?

Also, someone else told me if the girl was the more dominant of the two she'd have boys and if the man were the stronger and more forceful one of the couple they'd have girls, so if I wanted a boy baby, I should be submissive and let my husband boss me. Again, right or wrong? —RUTH

DEAR RUTH:

Wrong on both counts. The plumbline myth persists because the law of average makes it right 50 percent of the time. The second theory is unreliable, unprovable and unauthenticated, but it's an excellent way to keep a wife in line, provided she wants a boy. —H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen Help You. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

AFTER HAWAIIAN wedding trip newlyweds Dr. and Mrs. Jack Gill Rosser will live in Tokyo, where Dr. Rosser is stationed with the U.S. Air Force. The bride is the former Lynn S. Schrumpf of San Anselmo. The couple exchanged vows at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

HEART FACTORS

Cigarettes Are Implicated—

Fourth in a series of articles dealing with risk factors in heart disease, provided by the Marin County Heart Assn., as a public education service.

To paraphrase a once familiar advertising slogan: Among those who know diseases best, only 22 per cent now smoke cigarettes.

This is the key figure in a recent poll taken by a professional medical journal of more than 60,000 physicians, nearly a third of those actively practicing in the United States.

Of all the doctors responding to a questionnaire, 95 per cent said they were certain that cigarette smoking constitutes a major health hazard.

More than half (52 per cent) do not smoke at all; 22.5 per cent continue to smoke cigarettes, against their better judgment; the remainder have switched to pipes or cigars.

The growing evidence that cigarettes are strongly implicated in heart disease, lung cancer and other causes of illness and death is reflected in the fact that more and more doctors are changing their smoking habits every day.

For instance, a similar poll taken in 1954 showed that 51 per cent of the questioned physicians smoked cigarettes. By 1959 the figure had dropped to 38.5 per cent. Today it may well be below 20 per cent, if the trend has continued.

Obviously there is a lesson here for the laymen. Just as one would hesitate to buy a brand of automobile shunned by expert mechanics, so one is inclined to follow the health habits of a respected physician.

Some doctors can and do still argue that a cause-and-effect link between cigarette smoking and disease and death has not yet been conclusively proved.

YET ALMOST ALL of them find the statistical evidence overwhelmingly convincing—because even among those 22.5 per cent who admitted they were still smoking cigarettes, 89 per cent said they believe they were indulging in a health hazard.

Largely on the basis of medical advice, the California Heart Assn. has actively joined in the campaign against cigarettes, as a member of the California Interagency Council on Cigarette Smoking and Health. Other members are the American Cancer Society, the California Medical Assn., the California State Dept. of Education, the California State Department of Public Health and the Tuberculosis and Health Assn. of California.

WHILE THE INFLUENCE of cigarette smoking on lung cancer has tended to hog the headlines, because of the direct and dramatic statistical correlation, it should not be forgotten that there is an even greater and graver connection between smoking and heart disease.

One horrifying and strangely ignored statistic underscores this point: It is estimated that each year at least 60,000 American males die prematurely of coronary heart disease accelerated by cigarette smoking.

This is about equal to the number of deaths from a combination of lung cancer and all other diseases which are statistically blamed on cigarettes.

Marin Women Plan Roles At Conclave

Three Marinites will take roles of leadership in the 47th annual state convention of the American Legion Auxiliary in Bakersfield June 23 through 26.

For the past year all three have served on state appointments directing three of the organization's welfare and patriotic programs.

Mr. Richard Brown of Greenbrae, a former state president, will announce annual winnners of the state nursing scholarship project sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary Past Presidents' Parley led by Mrs. Brown during 1966. She will also hold pre-convention committee meetings and hearings for recommendations and resolutions in the nursing grant field.

Tiburon resident Mrs. Donald Carlson, who gave statewide emphasis to the community service program of the auxiliary will highlight the performances of the 550 units of the organization in her year report and committee meeeting. Mrs. Carlson's auxiliary background also includes a 3-year assignment as state finance chairman which she completed in 1965.

Mrs. Francis M. Fugate of Corte Madera will direct a workshop in publicity. For the past 11 years, Mrs. Fugate has been managing editor of the California Auxiliary News. Mrs. Fugate is a past president of Twin Cities Unit 313 of the Auxiliary in Larkspur.

Marin units of the Auxiliary in Bolinas, Mill Valley, Larkspur and San Anselmo will be represented by certified delegates and alternates based on membership rolls.

The endorsed candidate for state secretary is Mrs. Rae Zgraggen of Tiburon, a staff member of the American Legion Auxiliary headquarters office in San Francisco.

San Anselmo member Mrs. Ethel Greenwood will be formally installed as District Five president at the state meeting.

San Rafael High School Honors Student With Award

Candy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Diego of San Rafael, has for five years had a straight A average in foods studies and has done outstanding work in the field, assisting the teacher and doing special testing of recipes, Miss Cunningham said. The award is also based on student citizenship and attendance.

West German Urges 'Deal' With Moscow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The idea of bargaining with Moscow for German unity by making military, economic and political commitments to the Soviet Union has been advanced here by a West German leader.

The visitor, Dr. Ranier Barzel, majority leader in the Bundestag, had an appointment today to explain his revolutionary ideas to President Johnson.

Under one of his salient proposals, Soviet troops could remain in a unified Germany, just as they are now in East Germany.

Barzel is deputy chairman of Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's Christian Democratic Union party and as such is a leading possibility for chancellor at some future time.

He told reporters the thoughts he was voicing on German reunification were his own and declined to say whether they had the blessing of his government. But German Embassy sources described Barzel's suggestion as a major statement on German policy.

Administration officials declined immediate comment.

Job-Finding Claims Are Contradicted

An employment counselor of the County Personnel Department today contradicted a report from the State Department of Industrial Relations that a crash program has secured 75 "actual and potential" jobs for hard-core unemployed persons in Marin County.

Nathaniel W. Johnson, who is working out of Marin City on the program, said there have been just three jobs found in its first month, one in ceramics manufacture and two with moving firms.

He said the lack of education among the few hundred persons involved is the main obstacle to finding work for them. "We had a janitorial job in San Rafael where the man wanted someone with two years of college!"

The people Johnson is trying to find jobs for range in age from 18 to 35, and most are men.

Ark Owners Discuss Plight In Broadcast Round Table

Time is running out on the ark owners whose floating residences will be demolished in the flood control project on Corte Madera Creek.

So agreed the four speakers on the Radio KTIM "Marin Sounding Board" program this morning.

Mrs. A. S. Briggs, arkowner on Boardwalk Four, put the situation in this perspective:

"Now we must wait to know the final outcome of the bill which Sen. John McCarthy presented to see if we will get compensation."

The McCarthy bill, S.B. 103, is the only apparent hope the ark owners have for getting compensation for their homes, built on state land with a lease from the State Lands Commission. Present state law forbids compensation in such cases.

County Public Works Director Donald R. Frost said compensation may not be given by the legislature retroactively. The issue will be decided during the current session of a legislature straining to finish its work as fast as possible in order to get on the campaign trail.

Another speaker, Clifford J. Kelch, made the point that the ark owners appreciate the need for flood control on the creek, but are upset at the prospect of being evicted without compensation. He resides on Boardwalk Three, where he said he has put $2,500 in improvements into his ark in the past year.

"We feel it is a necessary evil for us. We also feel we have not had proper notification of the legislation" that has moved the project along, he added. "If the compensation bill doesn't pass we face a terrible loss."

One particular issue that upset Kelch and Mrs. Briggs was the fate of the sewer line that has served the ark owners. Kelch pointed out that each of the ark owners had to pay $1,000 over a period of 10 years for its installation, and agreed with a listener who phoned in to demand compensation for its destruction.

Frost said the value of the sewer line would be reflected in the amount of compensation given the ark owners, if S.B. 103 is passed. He also noted that a shift in dredging plans has made it possible to leave the line intact while the first phase of the project, from Point San Quentin to Bon Air Bridge, is constructed. This will enable ark owners on Broadwalk Four to remain in their homes several months longer than they would have otherwise.

Mrs. Briggs said she would have preferred more than 60 days notice of eviction, which is what the State Lands Commission has promised ark owners on Broadwalk Four.

The fourth speaker, City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst of Larkspur, stressed the importance of a July 12 meeting of the State Lands Commission, when the county, the City of Larkspur and the ark owners will be asked to present a resolution of their difficulties.

The program, conducted by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 12:30 p.m. Sunday.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Tournament Of Stars Is A Winner For Marinites

The Marin Invitational Tournament of Stars, staged annually at Peacock Gap, is going big time both in the caliber of stars it attracts and the size of its contribution to charity.

The first year, it netted $3,500. Last year, the net proceeds jumped to $8,500, with $3,500 going to Marin Aid to Retarded Children, $3,000 to the Easter Seal campaign, and the remainder divided among a half dozen other worthy charities.

This year's tournament, scheduled for Sept. 18, has set its goal at an ambitious $20,000 for local charity, according to grand chairman William McDevitt.

While the main purpose of the Tournament of Stars is to help the unfortunate, Marin County also benefits from a by-product—the wide publicity it receives nationwide.

The tournament has put San Rafael and Marin on the map. Chairman McDevitt points out that the show people have been favorably impressed with Marin's scenery and hospitality. Back on their programs on TV and radio, they go out of their way to put in a good word for the Tournament of Stars. Such publicity gives Marin added stature and local charity an added boost.

The Tournament of Stars is still three months away, but McDevitt and his committee have already launched a drive for local sponsors who are willing to give financial support to the tournament.

The star-studded charity event has established a fine record during the first two years and appears headed for new heights this year.

"Twenty-thousand for Charity" is an ambitious target. We hope the search for sponsors is successful.

The Meaning Of Summer

Summer means different things in different parts of the country. In most of the East and Midwest, it is a time of hot days and sultry nights. In Marin, contrariwise, summer nights are usually chilly, summer mornings cold, often overcast, and afternoons are cooled by the ocean breeze. This week was an exception. In fact, what little hot weather we have is usually reserved for September.

Lest this sound unduly grim to newcomers, we can reassure them that, despite its being on the cool side, Marin's summers are really quite pleasant. We prefer it to the searing heat.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

SILENT MAN UPSETS THIEF

Around three o'clock one morning, the intruder walked into the station, pointed a revolver at the attendant and then declared: "This is a stickup."

Again the attendant remained silent.

This was too much for the bandit. Shrugging his shoulders, he went out the door, saying: "All right, then, I guess this isn't a stickup."

There are times, as Thomas Carlyle once said, when "silence is more eloquent than words."

Tense situations in the family circle, at work and in gatherings of all types can often be nipped in the bud if one person like you refrains from uttering even a word, especially a harsh one.

God has entrusted to you the power of speech. He leaves it to you to decide how, when and where you can best put it to use, as well as to remain silent.

"A time to be silent, and a time to speak."
(Ecclesiastes 3:7)

Teach me, O Holy Spirit, to appreciate the value of silence.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

State Faces Prospect Of Being Without A Budget By June 30

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—The California Legislature began its 18th week in special session after a primary election recess amid a general feeling the general public could care less about what they do, if it even is aware of their actions.

THE LAWMAKERS, all scarred and some lame from the primary election, take up just where they left off, with four major items of business. The Senate now has three vacancies and 14 lame ducks (by retirement or defeat), while the lower house soon will have one vacancy and has 11 lame ducks.

The Legislature has the problem of enacting a budget of about $4.6 billion for the 1966-67 fiscal year; agreeing on or agreeing to disagree on a major revision of the state constitution to permit annual legislative session, higher pay and restricted outside interests of legislators; an assessment reform; and a drunken driving bill.

The lawmakers must take some action before midnight June 30 on a budget or chaos could result. There is no provision for the state government to continue, should no budget be enacted by the end of the fiscal year.

Some members have said that, if a skeleton budget is all that can be passed by June 30, the lawmakers could be around for a couple of months before they'd reach agreement on how much should be added to the spending program.

THERE ARE varying opinions on how the primary election results may influence the negotiations on the budget. The budget hasn't been debated or discussed much this year, because of other controversies. But the 31-member Republican minority in the Assembly proposed $63 million in reductions and hasn't been willing to withdraw much from that.

No one believes the Republicans are ready to settle for much less than a $50 million reduction in the budget.

SOME FEEL the overwhelming victory of Ronald Reagan as the Republican nominee for governor may make the GOP minority in the Assembly even tougher to deal with in budget negotiations. Reagan had advocated some $245 million in reduction in the budget. The voters favored him 2-1 over George Christopher, who said such a cut in the budget would not be practical.

On the other hand, the Democrats realized from the strong showing of Los Angeles Mayor Samuel Yorty against Gov. Edmund G. Brown that they must unite to win in November. As a result, Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Inglewood, has pledged his full support to Brown.

Unruh had withheld his endorsement of Brown's candidacy for a third term and, throughout the first 17 weeks of the current special session, had opposed Brown a number of times.

SOME FEEL now that Unruh will work toward harmony with the governor and will not build up debates in the Assembly which, several times this year, have resulted in roll calls where his forces and the Republicans have joined against Democrats supporting Governor Brown.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Republicans Burying Partisan Differences

Editor, Independent-Journal:

To those of us who were present at the post-election party at Reagan headquarters in San Rafael, the most dramatic and heart-warming part of the whole evening was the moment when the leaders of the Christopher campaign walked in to offer their congratulations and their complete cooperation in the months ahead.

Had the election results been otherwise, the Reagan workers would have done the same. What so many of us have strongly sensed is now proven: that Republicans everywhere feel an overwhelming need to pull together, to work as a team, to leave all divisiveness behind us.

Only thus, we deeply feel, can we succeed in preserving the two-party system so vital to America's fredom.

Resist Recognition Of Communist China

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Among the few impediments within Communist China which have thus far checked the extension of her fearsome tentacles are severe shortages of food, consumer goods, and machinery.

The proposed U. S. diplomatic recognition of the godless conspiratorial group would result in Red China's acceptance as the "legitimate" Chinese government in place of the Nationalist Chinese. Such recognition would provide the Reds with incalculably valuable trade credits from the U. S. and our wealthier "allies." Credit, coupled with relaxation of trade barriers would provide the necessary goods with which Mao can strengthen his war machine. The economic problems which might otherwise bring about the downfall of an oppressive dictatorship, would be mitigated.

Red China's threat of war, fierce opposition to the presence of the U. S. in Viet Nam, her attempts to infiltrate and terrorize other nations, as well as her development of nuclear power, are part of her attempt to force the U. S. into granting the one thing Red China must have — diplomatic recognition and the resulting trade credits she seeks.

How may recognition of Red China be thwarted? Demand of your Congressmen and State Department officials that they pursue not the cause of Communism, but the cause of freedom, by resisting such recognition.

Movie-Goer Objects To Advertisements

Editor, Independent-Journal:

For the third time this year, I have paid to see a movie, and have been forced to wade through commercials. Once at the Lark, the ad showed scenes from a TV show we should watch. The Tamalpais had a "travelogue" about California, but tonight (June 10) I hit the jackpot.

I paid $1.50 to see "Thousand Clowns" at Northgate, but the commercials, which now come insidiously in the guise of "short subjects," advertised Coca Cola, Kodak cameras, Johnson outboard motors, and Cypress Gardens.

School Librarian's Friends Speak Out

Editor, Independent-Journal:

As her colleagues we regret the resignation of Miss Mateer, Librarian at Redwood High School. Miss Mateer since she came to the District before Redwood opened eight years ago has worked to improve all of the libraries in the Tamalpais Union High School District. In her letter of resignation she said:

"Consistently I have emphasized that practices or procedures of using the library at Redwood High School can aid or hamper its purposeful use. Changes in techniques and methods of teaching are reflected, and library facilities need to be adjusted in order to adapt to these changes. Study halls and their operation plus the transfer of students from the classroom and the study halls to the library for just textbook use need evaluation.

"This results in abuse and misuse, and the role of librarians in the instructional program is misunderstood. To participate as resource people, they find it impossible to work effectively or efficiently. The primary function should not become that of supervising a study-hall like situation.

"Focus on this problem has taken precedence and has diverted attention from the major concern which should be developing patterns of study which would evolve from a realistic approach of preplanning for classes, groups or independent study."

Miss Mateer has emphasized the accreditation report recommendations of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges of March, 1965, that "The school review the study hall - its purpose, its administration, and its organization - within the purposes of the total educational program . . . The school evaluate increased effective utilization of library facilities and services."

We know that many of Miss Mateer's goals have already been adopted by the district and that others will be included in the future, although she as a pioneer perhaps will not receive the credit.

Tax Equality One Answer To Ghettos

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I read with interest Mr. Young's column regarding a solution to urban ghettos. His plan to build the World Trade Center in Harlem is certainly excellent and would carry with it many advantages to this difficult area. Unfortunately, there is not a World Trade Center available to be built in every city with a slum and/or ghetto.

A much more effective solution applicable to all cities would be to correct the inadequate assessments levied on slum properties which allow slum lords to make fantastic profits usually at the expense of racial minorities who must live there.

Instead of spending additional millions of tax money on studies to determine the cause and possible solution of urban blight, why not investigate cities that have no slums?

I am sure that it is more than coincidence that certain cities in Australia and New Zealand for example who tax land at its full value but do not tax the buildings at all are free of slums while other cities in the same countries who have a heavy tax burden on improvements and a lighter tax burden on the land values are plagued with slums much like we are.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

NOT EVERY newspaper editor, testifies author Dick Schaap, is precisely a mental giant. Take the one, for example, who sent a reporter to cover the local post office and cook up a story on how much fuss was being kicked up by the rise of first-class postage stamps from four to five cents for ordinary mail. The reporter came back, chuckling, to tell about the lady who was buying all the four-cent stamps she could afford before the price went up. The editor pondered momentarily, then said, "Go back to that post office and pick up five dollars' worth of those four-cent stamps for me!"

OVERHEARD:

In St. Paul: "I eat my three meals a day, I've got a roof over my head, two cars, a boat, a beautiful wife, and three wonderful kids. Is it any wonder I'm in debt up to my ears?"

At a fortune teller's: "You should be very happy, ma'am. A nobler man than your husband you have yet to meet." Client: "Hooray! But when?"

Space Officials Needlessly Coy About Troubles With Programs

NASA is proving no exception. Top space officials showed themselves unduly sensitive when several things failed to go as planned during the course of Gemini 9's three-day experiment.

NO DOUBT public business has to be more image-conscious than private business because public business has three demanding and sometimes fickle bosses—the voters, the Congress, and the President.

But it seems to me that the total space program is going so well—particularly the way we have caught up with and passed the Soviets in crucial areas—that NASA would not feel obliged to give soft explanations when astronauts Eugene Cernan and Thomas Stafford ran into unexpected troubles on Gemini 9.

In NASA's double-talk briefings, everything that goes right is progress and everything that goes wrong is progress because it shows what still needs to be solved. Nonsense. Nearly everything that went wrong was due to human error and, while it's nice to discover it up there, you don't equate it with progress.

NASA does not need this kind of defensive self-apology. By any comparative standards NASA is an unusually efficient and brilliant operation and while starting late because of timidity in the fifties, the U. S. is now pressing past the Soviet Union in space achievements. Here is how things stand:

SPACECRAFT — The U. S. has put almost 400 spacecraft into earth orbit while the Soviets have put up less than 200. This 2 to 1 ratio is partially offset by the fact that the Soviets have sent up heavier payloads.

INTERPLANETARY — The USSR interplanetary program has been plagued by failures. We have photographed Mars and flown by Venus. We have taken some 17,000 photographs of the moon and are getting hundreds more from Surveyor I which so successfull soft-landed on the moon. The USSR has photographed the moon and was first with a soft landing and first with a lunar orbit.

MANNED FLIGHT—At this time the U. S. has a distinct lead over Russia with about 1,500 man-flight-hours in orbit compared with 500 for the USSR.

SPACE APPLICATIONS — The U. S. has navigation, weather, and communications satellites. Russia has none.

SCIENTIFIC DATA — Both countries have obtained substantial scientific data. Neither has a visible lead over the other.

PROPULSION — The USSR has surpassed the U. S. in propulsion so far as the amount though not in the quality of technology. This thrust advantage is declining as both have in operation and under development larger and more advanced propulsion systems.

In appraising this record, Edward C. Welsh, executive secretary of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, sees the U. S. as having a "current edge in over-all space capability" but without any basis for complacency.

This competition is a good stimulus, but the space program is a national asset — in Dr. Welsh's phrase, "a seedbed of invention and spur to productivity."

Johnson's East-West Trade Plan In Trouble

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Lyndon B. Johnson is stubbornly persisting in his efforts to expand trade with the Soviet bloc despite brusque congressional refusal to consider his bill to relax restrictions against dealing with Communist countries.

Without fanfare, the President has approved a Commerce Department plan to send trade missions to Hungary and Bulgaria in October.

These government-sponsored delegations, similar to those that visited Poland and Rumania last fall, are major administration projects to promote closer East-West commercial ties. Their objective is to directly offset similar large-scale activities by Britain, France, Italy and other NATO powers.

The trade missions will be made up of several hundred business leaders and government officials, including one or more Cabinet members.

DEMOCRATIC congressional leaders are being urged by the President to encourage influential legislators to accompany these delegations, on the assurance the Commerce Department will pay their expenses for the month-long tour.

While there have been no takers so far, Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Commerce Committee and a vigorous supporter of expanded East-West trade, has agreed to send a member of his staff as the committee's official representative.

Ever since Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., potent chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, came out publicly against the President's trade proposals, the administration has been unable to arouse any enthusiasm for congressional action this year.

IN ADDITION to flatly refusing to hold hearings, Mills is bluntly telling administration officials he is against sending trade missions to Hungary and Bulgaria because they are supplying arms to North Viet Nam.

"Expansion of trade at the very time these Soviet bloc countries are powerfully aiding our enemy in Viet Nam is nothing less than trading with the enemy," Mills lectured one high administration official. "Instead of sending trade missions, we should be threatening to cut off all aid unless they immediately halt shipping arms to Hanoi. That is a policy the great majority of American people favor."

Mills is gathering information on the extent assistance was obtained by the Red Star truck plant in Brasov, Rumania, from members of a U. S. mission during their 1965 visit.

The director of this plant, which is making trucks for North Viet Nam, sought advice on licensing American technology to solve a persistent production problem. The Rumanian explained the camshaft of an engine produced by the plant was wearing out in four to five months. A member of the U. S. group reputedly suggested this problem could be solved by redisigning the camshaft so that it would revolve only half as fast.

WHILE AT the time the incident seemed unrelated to the Viet Nam war, a recent intelligence report indicated the Rumanian trucks now being shipped to Hanoi include a new camshaft, and the trucks are not breaking down as much as before.

Another recent intelligence report from Krakow, Poland, states that a rolling mill purchased in the U. S. is turning out more galvanized steel than any other plant in Poland. Also that more than 50 per cent of the plant's production goes to Russia.

Elementary Pupil's Wisdom Has Its Day At Brookside School

"Security is sleeping under your pillow," said first grader Lisa Ricketts of Brookside School. Linus probably could not have said it any better.

Her down-to-earth definition is one of the literary offerings of kindergarten through eighth grade students at Brookside School this year. As many as would fit were printed in the Acorn, a student literary magazine published by the Brookside Parent-Teacher Assn.

The magazine's material, ranging from one line "Peanuts" definitions to Haiku and creative essays, opens with the way out but to-the-point poetry of kindergarten classes and ends with the more worldly, and more self-conscious, efforts of eighth grade students.

AN ANONYMOUS example of kindergarten creativity is a poem titled "The Circle: We can make a circle/Round and round and round / draw a circle / Paint a circle / Whirl a circle / Round and round and round."

The first graders dabbled in the definitions of happiness, a friend and security.

To Susanne Pickruhn, for example, "Happiness is having two cats on your lap." To Michael Moder, "Happiness is having an olden-time stove." To others, it is a doggy, coming to school or a bike. To Kathy Wendroff, "Happiness is my brother."

"A tree is a friend because you can make a house in a tree," wrote Tony Della Valle. "A mother is a friend because she lets you watch when she cooks dinner," according to Marsanne Mazza. "The wind is a friend because it plays a trick when it blows off your hat," said Mary Mathews. James Stillian thinks "A friend is a puppy dog who plays ball with you."

WHILE Lisa Ricketts equated a pillow over her head to security, David Bailor was not quite in agreement. "Security is having two pals in bed with you," he said. To others, security was two hot dogs, a secret fort and a locked door at bedtime.

April Quick made the third grade page with a riddle poem which reads: "I pitter-patter/ I slip and drip/Who am I?/I am rain / Splashing on your window pane."

Denise Cole of the fourth grade offered a poem about the present season: "Summer comes once a year/And in a while it will be here./You can have fun/When you play in the sun./The boys go fishing/and I keep wishing / That pretty soon it will be dawn / 'Cause that's the time when you see the fawn/Pretty soon the summer's gone/Oh boy! No more mowing the lawn."

FIFTH GRADER Marian Jacobs expressed a skepticism many must have felt when being told they can hear the sound of the sea in a seashell: "Listen to the sea shell/And then listen to the sea./Is there any difference?/Or is some thing wrong with me!"

Darcy Corman, listed on the seventh and eighth grade pages, gave this 18-syllable picture of school days: Lunch/ Paper thrown around / The Peanut butter and jam/Sticking to your mouth."

Reagan Win Considered Really Result Of A Draft Movement

The recent California primary still holds the spotlight, and the pollsters are busy explaining why they underrated Ronald Reagan and overrated Pat Brown, who'll never look quite the same after the cauliflower ears he got from the jabs of Sam Yorty.

AS USUAL, the boys defend the sanctity of their crystal balls and place the blame on the fence-sitters. These malicious mischief-makers, it seems, were apathetic on the previous Monday but became galvanized into action on Tuesday and turned out in record-breaking numbers to vote. This is par for the course: Delphic oracles, caught with their predictions down, used to offer similar alibis.

From my view in the caves, two things are clear: that there is still a potent conservative base in both parties here, and that we have in our midst a considerable number of Russia Firsters, no matter how liberals scoff at the notion. Dorothy Healey, undoubtedly our best known Communist organizer, polled 86,149—count 'em, 86,149—in a race confined to Los Angeles County alone. Not under the bed, but at the polls.

Reagan's came close to being a genuine draft, if ever there was one. I do not discount the work he did — when I saw him two weeks before the primary, he still had some 150 appearances to make — nor the money spent in his behalf. But work and money aren't enough unless the public wants you. Ask Nelson Rockefeller.

Or George Christopher. Campaigning vigorously in our Southland, he went into a restaurant with his entourage, signed the check with a Diner's Card and left a generous tip. "Thank you, sir," said the waitress. "George Christopher! My, that's a nice name."

SHE OBVIOUSLY hadn't the faintest idea who he was and Christopher commented sadly, "And to think of the money I've spent here on billboards and TV." Yet Ronnie never entered a restaurant in San Francisco, Christopher's stronghold, without immediately being surrounded by well-wishers.

What Reagan had going for him was the famous TV speech he had made for Goldwater in the 1964 campaign, easily the highlight of that contest. It came at a time when party conservatives were bitter over the defection of many whom they had supported in previous wars and angry at what they considered the unfair presentation of their views by the communications media.

AND THEN came the Reagan speech, a dramatic and fighting exposition of the things they believed in. It burst on them much as Bryan's "Cross of Gold" speech must have fallen on the Democratic Convention of 1896. Contributions and pledges of support came from all over the country, and the troops went forth to battle with renewed vigor.

The 27 million went down to defeat in the Johnson landslide, but their hearts still belonged to Barry and many Goldwater clubs kept their groups going. But, as Barry seemed to drop out of the picture, they gradually crawled into a shell.

Thus, when the local party organization began to talk of gubernatorial candidates last January, it met apathy even when good GOP vote-getters were mentioned: Goodwin Knight, ex-governor; Christopher, former mayor of San Francisco; and Joe Shell, a homegrown legislator of proven state-wide appeal.

But someone said "Reagan" and apathy vanished. The memory of "The Speech" brought stars to their eyes. The result was that there were more volunteer Reagan organizations for the primary than all the rest of the candidates in both parties put together.

The Reagan campaign was helped by his strict observance of the "11th Commandment"—never to attack Republican opponents. All Ronnie's ammunition was reserved for the weaknesses of Pat Brown.

IT HAS paid off handsomely. The day after the primary, the big guns of the Christopher campaign pledged working and financial support to Ronnie; and Joe Shell has promised to stump the state in his behalf. Thus, for the first time in many years, Brown faces a thoroughly united GOP and a disillusionment in his own ranks.

Committeemen Back Low Rent Housing Plan

The Citizens Advisory Committee for the Development of Marin last night endorsed the Marin County Housing Authority's plan for home leasing for low-income families.

The plan, made possible by 1965 federal legislation, was outlined by Donald O. Stutsman, director of the authority. He said the first leases would be in Mill Valley and San Rafael, if the board of supervisors and the city councils endorse the program.

The authority would lease private homes, using federal funds, and in turn rent the homes to low-income families at a lower rate, the government picking up the difference.

Edward Inskeep of the county planning department, keeping notes on last night's meeting, said the committee resolved to assist the housing authority in any way and urged the appropriate endorsement by supervisors and city councils.

Junius Thomson asked to be relieved as committee chairmen, but none of the other eight committee members volunteered for the job. The committee decided to ask supervisors to name additional members to the committee, hoping that way to find a candidate for chairman.

Coleman Faculty Pens Praises For Corona

The entire faculty of Coleman School has written a letter to the editor of the Independent-Journal lauding Dr. Bert C. Corona, superintendent of San Rafael city schools, who has resigned to take a similar position in Modesto.

Dr. Corona came in for his share of criticism in recently published findings of the California Teachers Assn. Personnel Standards Commisison's investigation into the troubled school district.

The school staff wrote: "In the years we have been associated with Dr. Corona, we of the Coleman School faculty have found him to be cooperative, sincere and supportive.

"He has earned our highest esteem and respect. We sincerely regret that he has seen fit to resign from our district. We wish him great success in his new administrative position in Modesto."

Limb Tumbles, Kills A Man

SEQUOIA (AP) — A Fresno man hunting for pine cones was killed Wednesday when a wind-loosened limb fell 100 feet from a sequoia tree and struck him on the head at Sequoia National Park.

The park service identified him as Thomas S. Brainard, about 50.

Terra Linda May Seek U.S. Funds For Beauty Work

Directors of the Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District last night discussed application for federal funds under the urban beautification program.

The federal government will provide 50 per cent of the money a district has spent on past beautification and maintenance projects, Recreation Director James Hand explained. He said he hopes to have a Terra Linda application for such reimbursement ready for the board's July 6 meeting. "It could be quite a bit," he said.

Hand reported that the call has gone out for volunteers to paint the recreation center Saturday. Each is to take along his own paint brush and drip cloth and show up at 8 a.m.

British Lords To Go On TV

LONDON (A) — Britain's House of Lords is going on television.

Parliament's upper house voted 56-31 Wednesday night to allow its proceedings to be televised live. Talks will be held with the British Broadcasting Corp. to arrange the details.

The House of Commons, which adopts Britain's laws, has appointed an all-party committee to consider televising its meetings.

Larkspur Scholar Gets Eastern Degree

DEGREE FROM WILLIAMS—Karl Martin Garlid of 26 Baltimore Avenue, Larkspur, received a B.A. degree in English last weekend from Williams College in Williamstown, Mass.

Strawberry's Rec Budget Up; Tax May Drop

The Strawberry Recreation District board last night adopted a $70,785 budget for fiscal 1967, which is $21,517 over this year.

Board attorney Stephen H. Kaufmann said the estimated tax rate was 65 cents but it may decline by as much as five cents, when the valuation of the recently developed Strawberry Town and Country shopping center is obtained.

An $18,100 "balloon payment" by the Strawberry Swim Club Inc. on the Strawberry Park swimming pool lease is the largest part of the budget jump. The amount to be raised by taxes rose $6,000 to $48,500. Increased expenditures included addition of a part-time clerk to the board at $1,200 a year and a $3,500 increase in capital outlay, to $9,500, to finish the Strawberry Park parking lot.

The board set for Sept. 13 a special election on formation of a waterfront assessment district, after a public hearing showed that one property owner continued to protest it.

The election would be held among 40 residents of East Strawberry Drive and Harbor Cove Way on forming the district to dredge and maintain a small boat waterfront channel.

The name of Napa is all that is left of the Napa Indians who were virtually exterminated by smallpox in 1838. Many meanings have been advanced—"harpoon point, "fish," "abundant," "near home." Napa Valley according to tradition, was the cradle of the Suysun (Suisun) race.

Oil Firm Invites Critics To Meet

Union Oil Co. representatives have invited the more than 100 persons who signed a petition opposing their proposed service station at Sonoma Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo to a meeting at 8 p.m. today in the social hall of the First Baptist Church, across Drake from the site.

The station, scheduled for a hearing before the San Anselmo Planning Commission Monday night, would be across Sonoma Avenue from Isabel Cook School. Residents in the area charged noise from the station would disrupt classes and the added traffic would be a hazard to school children.

Cook School will be holding its eighth grade graduation at the time of tonight's meeting. Albert J. Bianchi, attorney for Union Oil, said this was the only night the church hall was available and added, "I hope there won't be too many (of the station's opponents) missing."

Our Men In Viet Nam Rationed On Alcohol

WASHINGTON (AP) — The liquor ration for American military and civilian personnel in Viet Nam has been cut by more than one-half.

Effective last month, the amount of alcoholic beverages which may be bought in package retail outlets was reduced from six fifths per man per month, with no limit on wines, to three fifths per man including wine.

The Pentagon said the cutback, ordered by the command in Viet Nam, is intended to curb black market sales and "further reduce pressures on logistical and security systems."

A spokesman supplied figures which showed that with more men in Viet Nam, consumption of alcoholic beverages has increased sharply.

Last year American military men and civilians in the Southeast Asian country consumed 460,706 cases of liquor and wine.

By comparison, sales the first five months almost match the 1965 total — 400,586 cases sold from last January through May.

Packaged liquor is sold at 27 post exchanges throughout Viet Nam. In addition to the PX purchases, servicemen can buy liquor by the drink at certain military dining rooms and clubs. The Pentagon said 70 per cent of all liquor sales are by the drink. The remainder is bottle sales through the PX's.

The event, which began yesterday, is sponsored by about 35 merchants in the downtown area to stimulate business. It features free parking, where participating merchants have placed red paper bags over parking meters—The bags reading "free park"—and sales by many merchants.

Just about every merchant is covering two meters, including banks, reported a spokesman for the chamber of commerce merchant committee. Cost to each participant is estimated at 40 cents per meter per day.

Permit Requested

The Belvedere Planning Commission will meet at 8 p.m. Monday in the city offices to consider a request for a revokable license by David H. Sandberg of 295 Bay View Avenue to build a garage with overhead storage room on his parking ramp.

Tiburon Innkeeper Wants Jury Trial On Noise Count

Eric Hodgman, bearded proprietor of Tiburon's Prince Charlie Inn, elected in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to be tried by a jury July 25 at 9:30 a.m. on a charge of disturbing the peace.

He pleaded innocent to the charge, which arose from numerous reports of loud noise and music at the pub made to sheriff's deputies by residents of nearby houses.

Hodgman, 41, was arrested Sunday on a complaint signed by John G. McChesney of 1875 Mountain View Drive.

Yesterday, a request by Hodgman's attorney, Allen Anderson of San Francisco, that the trial be set for August was denied by Judge Leonard A. Thomas.

The judge commented: "This is a continuing case. If I read the news sheets properly, it should be determined quickly whether Hodgman be allowed to keep on doing what they say he is doing."

The organization, which meets the second Tuesday of each month at United California Bank, 830 Third Street, San Rafael, agreed to send $500 to Children's Hospital, San Francisco, for research, reported Mrs. Midge Hamburg, publicity chairman.

Rare Plant Blight Found In Mill Valley

Marin County has the distinction today of being the only place in the western hemisphere that a rare, juniper-hawthorne rust calls home.

Residents of the Blithedale Canyon area of Mill Valley are not too happy about this. Their juniper and flowering hawthorne trees have been infested with the rust for some time.

County Agricultural Commissioner Richard T. Straw was unable to identify it and sent samples to specialists at Pensylvania State University.

Word came back yesterday through the state department of agriculture that the type is one not found anywhere else on this side of the world.

Giants Shift Gears Into Powerdrive

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Giants have prepared for their weekend trip south by shifting into powerdrive.

They've hit eight homers in their last two games and have scored 24 runs in their last three. They've won four in a row.

The latest bombardment came yesterday when the Giants beat the Houston Astros 4 - 0 behind three homers and the four-hit pitching of Joe Gibbon, who needed help from Frank Linzy to get the last out.

Before heading for Los Angeles and the big series with the Dodgers, the Giants first had to meet Houston again today. Juan Marichal (11-2) was scheduled to pitch against Bob Bruce (1-3)

Gibbon made his finest showing since coming from Pittsburgh in the trade for Matty Alou. The veteran southpaw gave up only one walk and three hits before the ninth.

Then Joe Morgan opened with a single and Ron Brand hit into a doubleplay. But Jim Wynn and Dave Nicholson walked and the tired Gibbon was led away.

"I was tired," admitted Gibbon. "Give me a few more starts in rotation and my strength will pick up."

Gibbon might get his wish on Sunday in Los Angeles. The Astros were the first team besides the Dodgers Gibbon had faced this season in his four starts. He's now 3-3.

Tom Haller's homer off Dick Farrell in the fifth was the only run off the Astro right-hander, who gave up only three hits before leaving for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. It was Haller's 10th of the year.

Two outs after Gibbon drew a walk in the eighth, Willie Mays homered off reliever Ron Taylor. It was No. 14 for Mays and the 520th of his career, one short of Ted Williams, who's third on the all-time list behind Babe Ruth and Jimmy Foxx.

Willie McCovey then hit his third homer in as many days for his 13th of the year.

"I used my fast ball and my slider today," Gibbon said afterwards. "About three - to - one fast balls to sliders. I used my fork ball a little."

The Giants only collected five hits. But it's surprising how big a five-hit attack can look when three of them are homers.

JESUS ALOU AGREES TO JOIN FARM CLUB

Jesus Alou has agreed to join the Phoenix farm club in the Pacific Coast League. The San Francisco Giants outfielder at first had balked at the assignment.

Alou told Giants vice president Chub Feeney yesterday he was ready to report to the minor league club.

Alou was optioned last Sunday when Phoenix catcher Dick Dietz was brought up to San Francisco. Alou has been bothered by arm injuries and a hitting slump.

Raw Fog Greets Early Starters In U.S. Open

ALONG MARIN'S SPORTS TRAIL

San Rafael's Dick Skuse Has A Masterpiece For U.S. Open

DICK SKUSE of San Rafael won't win any Pulitzer but he has won the cheers of golfers, fans and the press for his literary contribution to the U.S. Open Golf Championship.

Skuse, a soft-spoken, 44-year-old public relations whiz, edited the whopping 232-page official souvenir program that has become the best-seller around the staid old Olympic Club, scene of the 66th Open this weekend.

More than one veteran scrivener has told me this program is a classic in its field—a Shakespearian effort. "By comparison," one writer observed, "the other Open programs stink."

"I'M RATHER proud of the way it came out," said Skuse, himself a hacker who blushingly admits breaking 100 only twice. "We tried to present a beginning and an end to the Open in this program. For example, on the first page you'll notice a picture and brief story about the very first Open champion, Horace Rawlins, back in 1895. (The mustachioed Rawlins hacked out a 173 for 36 holes to win the $150 first prize at the age of 19 (still the youngest winner ever). Then, on the last page is the 1966 Open's final hole and picture of the trophy."

IN BETWEEN, Skuse has edited an attractive package crammed with colorful data and photography, covering every aspect of this classic, including a section for spectators on where and how to view the tournament, plus a special TV section for you stay-at-homes.

"I wanted to make this program a seller," said Skuse, "and I think we've accomplished that. I've been told that 20,000 copies have been sold in advance. The total sale should reach 30,000."

AT A BUCK a copy, plus revenue from 300 advertisers, it's a money-maker.

One of Dick's ideas was a section devoted to the top pro golfers' wives. He sent many of them requests for photographs, but the ladies proved too shy; only seven responded. Would you believe?

Skuse, a 12-year resident of Marin, loves all sports and, in fact, hit an Academy Award level in public relations several years ago by convincing Squaw Valley squire Alex Cushing to bid for the 1960 Winter Olympic Games—"as a publicity stunt."

A MONTH after the startled Cushing was awarded the Olympics, he fired Skuse as his public relations man. "I still have his letter in my office," Skuse laughed yesterday at the Olympic Club where he is now preparing an Open pictorial. "He said he didn't need me any more, that he had all the publicity he wanted."

Don't Count USC Nine Out Of College World Series

Rod Dedeaux, USC's canny 51-year-old coach, has his ace pitcher, 15-game winner John Stewart, rested and ready to halt unbeaten Ohio State in tonight's big fourth-round game, starting at 8:30 p.m., CST.

Ohio State's Big ten champions were nearly tripped by unheraled St. John's of New York last night, but pulled out an 8-7 victory with two runs in the ninth on a squeeze bunt and error with the bases loaded.

Marty Karow will come back with Mike Swain, a 6-foot-4 sophomore who beat Oklahoma State Monday. Karow's ace, Steve Arlin, 26, who beat USC Tuesday, pitched the ninth to wrap up the victory over St. John's.

Oklahoma State, which eliminated Texas 6-1 behind chunky John Pierce, will send Lary Burchart, hard-throwing sophomore, against St. John's in the 6 p.m. game. The New York team likely will start Tom Sowinski.

Southern Cal has a 44-8 season mark against college foes, Oklahoma State 20-10, St. John's 25-8 and Ohio State 25-5 after going the last 20 games with a perfect record except for one tie.

USC stayed alive by ousting tough Arizona 8-4 with Buddy Gordon, the leading series hitter at .714, belting a single and double. Gordon has five hits for 11 bases in the series.

Chuck Brinkman, Ohio State catcher, is hitting .583, Bob Toney of Oklahoma State .500 and Matt Galante, the dazzling St. John's second baseman, .429.

HAPPINESS IS WATCHING — A large crowd gathers to watch the pros practice for the U.S. Open Tournament yesterday. This one has gathered around the eighth hole where Gary Player was warming up. The tournament started for keeps today and the crowds will probably be huge, if the number of practice watchers is any indication. (UPI Telephoto)

DODGERS TRAIL BY 2

Gibson Blanks Bucs, 1-0

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

It was in the cards for Bob Gibson to post his 100th victory.

But can the St. Louis ace become the National League's new strikeout king?

A 30-year-old right-hander apparently reaching his peak, Gibson stepped up to the 100-victory plateau last night when he pitched a three hitter in the Cardinals' 1-0 victory over Pittsburgh.

It was only natural that Gibson, one of the league's top pitchers, eventually post victory No. 100, and it may be just as natural for the fireballer to take a shot at dethroning Sandy Koufax as the NL's No. 1 strikeout artist.

INCHING ALONG

A right-hander has been unable to lead the National League in strikeouts since 1962, but Gibson has inched his victory total, his number of innings pitched and his strikeouts upward each of the last three years.

Last season he hit the 20-victory mark, worked 299 innings and struck out 270. And right now he's running ahead of both his own strikeout pace — and Koufax.

By striking out eight Pirates, Gibson ran his total for the season to 128 in 126 innings, or just over one an inning. That's by far his best ratio ever. Koufax, meanwhile, is running second with 117 strikeouts in 117 1-3 innings, his usual one-an-inning clip.

WILLIE CLOSES IN

While Gibson remained ahead of Koufax, Willie Mays closed in on Ted Williams, moving to within one homer of third place on the alltime home run list by hitting No. 520 of his carrer in San Francisco's 4-0 victory over Houston.

Elsewhere, the Dodgers stayed two games back of the front-running Giants with a 6-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs, the New York Mets edged Atlanta, 5-4, and Cincinnati swept Philadelphia, 7-6, and 9-6.

Gibson, bringing his record to 9-6, allowed only two men to reach second base in outdueling Bob Veale. Veale, who allowed only five hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth, surrendered the game's only run in the first inning on singles by Julian Javier and Phil Gagliano and a grounder by Curt Flood.

OSTEEN WINS

The Dodgers trailed the Cubs 4-1 before they put it away with a five-run fifth inning uprising. A walk to Jim Gilliam and singles by Willie Davis, Tommy Davis and Lou Johnson produced two runs before Wes Parker capped the rally with a three-run homer. Claude Osteen got the victory, his eighth against five defeats.

The Braves took a 4-3 lead in the eighth on Felipe Alou's second homer of the game but the Mets won it in the ninth when singles by Ed Bressoud and Billy Murphy, a throwing error by Ted Abernathy on Ron Hunt's bunt and a sacrifice fly by Ken Boyer produced two runs.

The Phillies built 6-2 leads in each game of the twinbill against the Reds and each time reliever Ed Roebuck, called up recently from San Diego, was tagged for the winning runs.

Atlanta Gets Joey Jay

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Atlanta Braves, major disappointments in the National League pennant race, obtained pitchers Joey Jay and Don Schwall in separate transactions shortly before yesterday's midnight major league baseball trading deadline.

The Braves acquired Jay from Cincinnati in exchange for Hank Fischer, another right-hander, and then picked up Schwall, also a right-hander, from Pittsburgh for southpaw Billy O'Dell.

O'Dell was the losing pitcher last night when Atlanta dropped a 5-4 decision to the New York Mets. The setback dropped the Braves into eighth place.

No cash was involved in the transactions, the third and fourth of the day.

Earlier, the New York teams completed their first deal ever when the Mets purchased veteran pitcher Bob Friend from the Yankees for the $20,000 waiver price and a minor league player to be named later.

The Mets also asked waivers on first baseman Dick Stuart for the purpose of giving him his unconditional release.

Jay, who has won six games and lost two, had a 21-10 mark for Cincinnati in 1961. He is 30 years old. Fischer, 2-3 this year, is 26. O'Dell's 1966 mark is 2-3 and at 33 years of age, he's five years older than Schwall. The latter has won three games and dropped two this season.

O'Dell will be the only southpaw in the Pirates' bullpen. A Pittsburgh spokesman said that the club had been shopping around for a left-handed reliever.

Friend, a 35-year-old right-hander, had a 1-4 record for the Yanks, who purchased him from the Pirates last winter. He has won 191 National League games.

Stuart, 33, was batting only .218 with four homers for the Mets. They acquired him from Philadelphia last February.

Three-Way Tie In S.R. Youth Baseball Loop

The Terra Linda Athletics defeated the Jaycees, 5-1, to jump into a three-way tie for the lead in the San Rafael Youth Baseball League yesterday.

In another game, the Rotary Native Sons won their first game of the young season by handing United Markets it's third straight loss, 9-2.

The Athletics share the lead with Burgar Construction and Conti Plumbing. All have 2-0 records.

The Jaycees rapped out 12 hits against Terra Linda but could push only one run across while the Athletics made the most out of six hits.

Weather Change At Olympic Links

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mike Krak, veteran club professional from Darien, Conn., teed off promptly at 7:30 a.m. PDT in a raw fog today to start the 66th National Open Golf Championship.

The temperature was in the high 50s when Krak and his playing partner, Frank Beley of Canton, Ohio, led the field of 151 of the world's best golfers off on the first round of the four day 72-hole test.

The dense fog drifted in from off the ocean overnight and wrapped the 6,727-yard par 70 Olympic Lakeside course in a blanket of mist.

The forecast was for continuing fog until the middle of the day with temperatures expected to reach a high of 67 with winds of up to 15 miles an hour.

Spectators began pouring out to the oceanside course shortly after dawn. The first day's crowd was expected to reach 20,000.

After a record heat wave, the normal San Francisco fog crept back to town yesterday and could bring changed course conditions every day of this 72-hole event as the moisture seeps back into the earth.

"Now this will play like a San Francisco course," Nicklaus said. "If you want conditions like a Scottish course, you should go play in Scotland."

With the hot weather early in the week, the five-inch rough didn't seem so tough to many, but Nicklaus warned, "It will come back when it gets wet. Just see what happens to it."

Many, including host pro Kyle Burton, say a long ball hitter will be at a disadvantage and must play defensive golf over this tight layout of 6,727 yards with par 35-35—70.

"Hogwash," answered Nicklaus. "If you hit long and straight you have an advantage. If you don't hit straight, you have problems."

Bad news to the others was his statement, "I'm driving better than any time since Oakmont."

That was the course near Pittsburgh where big Jack beat Palmer for the Open title in 1962. Nicklaus admitted he hasn't been putting too well.

His reaction to the favorite's role was, "It won't make a bit of difference once we hit the first tee, will it?"

Sentimental favorite Ben Hogan, seeking his fifth National Open title at 53, returns to the scene where he lost his bid for No. 5 in a playoff to virtually unknown Jack Fleck in 1955.

Asked if he thought Ken Venturi and Tony Lema might have an advantage since they are local products, Nicklaus observed, "No, I don't think so. It depends on how you play four days. If you play well you win."

Greens are small. "If you hit the greens you have a good chance for a birdie," observed Venturi who capped a comeback with victory in the 1964 open. Last January, just across Lake Merced from the Olympic Club, Ken won the Lucky International Open, at the Harding Park municipal layout.

He has spent hours this spring studying the Olympic course which he's known since teen-age days.

Hills, trees and winds off the Pacific Ocean provide natural hazards for the pros seeking the $25,000 top award. Nicklaus took them in stride with the comment, "Not much you can do to change those things."

He has practiced here all week and after one round felt so good, he ran up a hill.

Competitively, he has played the Olympic Club course once before — in the 1958 National Amateur.

"I wasn't in it very long," he said wryly. "I lost to Harvie Ward in the second round."

2 Belvedere Youngsters Win Matches

Mike Machette and Darby Auberbach, both of Belvedere, won and Barry Brink of Mill Valley lost in yesterday's action of the Pacific Coast International Junior Tennis Tournament at the Berkeley Tennis Club.

Machette ousted Peter Isaak, 6-2, 6-1 to advance in the boys 16 division but Brink lost to John Clancy, 6-4, 6-3, in the same division.

Miss Auberbach breezed by Barbara Plowman, 6-1, 6-2, to remain alive in the Girls 14 division.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS
I-J Fish and Game Writer

Sunburn Weather Has Pushed Many Anglers To The Water

STEVENS

The sunburn weather we have had for several days coaxed out a large segment of the fishing folk hereabouts. It seems to have affected the piscatorial populaton as well. In the ocean the salmon and the rockfish cooperated.

Talking to Hal Boenner of Lee Anderson's place in Oakland, I learned that Sunday was a red letter day for the salmon trollers. The "Lancer" boated eight salmon to 12 pounds, the "Longfin" came in with 12 to 16 pounds, the "Sea Horse" netted 14 to 15 pounds, and the "Ge Ge" unloaded limits to nine pounds. On Monday, the "Sea Horse" made it again with nine salmon to 27 pounds. The "Sea Horse" worked the steamer lanes. Hal also reported the "E. O. II" taking six stripers to 35 pounds (Joe Cirrelli had the big one).

Apparently, the summery weather has activated the black bass in Clear Lake. Don's Bait House at the Highlands reported good action on blacks; hot lures were reported as the Shannon Twin spinner and black eels. Crappies and blue gills have been keeping the pier-fishing visitors busy, and the weather has been ideal. The blue cats have been hitting clams off the White Rock area, both during the day and by night.

Davis Campbell of the Golden Hinde at Inverness reported fishing for bass and halibut slowed down to a walk, but will call me when conditions are better.

The Napa-Val resort reported fair fishing, with most of the fish ranging from keepers to mediums mainly landed on anchovy baits.

The bait fishermen who tried their luck in the China Camp area have had small return for their efforts. Alice Quan reported that very few boats went out of her place the past few days and very few fish were taken. It has been all bait fishing with clams, sardines and bullheads, no trolling. Which is too bad.

The type of trolling as used in the upper San Pablo Bay is not only exciting but is very rewarding. The stripers are moving at present. The best results have been had by anglers who fished very shallow. Bass are likely heading for the spawning grounds. They are not doing much feeding on the way, but they strike artificials, maybe in anger, maybe in curiosity. But they sure do hit. Carl Bennett of Rodeo Marina rated fishing with Big Daddy and Pet Spoons "fantastic!" It has been simply red-hot. Limits and near-limits are the rule. Perhaps the waters near or between Buoys 8 and 12 as well as the area between 7 and 13 have yielded the quickest limits, but bass have been caught in many areas. One of the party boats, the "Blue Marlin" with Bob George at the helm, took out nine anglers and docked with limits all around—nine limits to 31½ pounds. The boat "Phil Ray" netted 23 bass to 26½ pounds. One angler in a skiff took a 28-pound striper; a second skiff came in with a 30-pounder.

Carl, his wife, Eva, and his brother-in-law, David De Jesus (on his first trip after bass) fished a short time but took fish to 18 pounds. Carl and his party worked the area between Buoys 10 and 12.

Oliver batted .253 in 29 games before being placed on the disabled list May 27 with acute arthritis in his right knee.

NOTES FROM U.S. OPEN

Casper: Beach Club Golfer

By JIM GILMARTIN

SAN FRANCISCO—U.S. Open notes:

. . . And the fog tippy-toed in on little caddy's feet, knocking about 30 degrees off the thermometer for yesterday's final practice round. An oasis for us sweltering Marinites.

Billy Casper, one of the favorites who stands 21st on the PGA's 1966 money belt, could become the first U.S. Open winner to represent a beach club, which takes some explanation, to wit: In April of 1965 Casper signed a three-year contract to represent Jerome Draper Jr.'s Peacock Gap Club in San Rafael. However, Draper has sold most of the Gap, including the golf course, while still retaining the Peacock Gap Beach, Tennis and Swim Club. And Casper's contract. Next Monday you could be reading about the first beach club in history claiming the U.S. Open golf championship.

Draper, incidentally, says he understands Casper is shopping around for a new club to shed the odd Peacock affiliation. "We'll break the contract if he wishes," said Draper.

MAURIE LUXFORD of Los Angeles, honorary chairman of the Marin Invitational Tournament of Stars (Sept. 18), is here with his Mia. "Your tournament over in San Rafael will be even greater this year. The way things are shaping up I'll have to turn down some of the biggest Hollywood stars who have asked me for an invitation. It won't be long before you'll have a tournament to rival the Crosby," which Luxford also directs.

FATHER LEONARD SCANNELL, the golfing chaplain of Hamilton Air Force Base, is a gallerite. I think he may have requested the relieving change in the weather—a most valuable prayer, he.

TIBURON'S ERNIE NEVERS, who happened to be quite a footballer in his day, is another gallerite, as is Art Dettner Jr. of Sausalito, the sportsman about town.

SLEEPY HOLLOW resident Bob Fouts heard about the Olympic Club Lakeside course's 45,000 trees and rushed right over looking for any stray red dogs.

JUST GOT a scoop that one of sportsdom's biggest weddings of the year will take place in San Rafael next Monday. Can't reveal any names, but it involves a left handed professional athlete. Tennis anyone?

Many Highlights In Prep League Spring Sports

Independent-Journal Sports

By ROBBIE HARVEY

There were many highlights to behold during the recently concluded spring sports season in the Marin Athletic League.

Some Marin prepsters were prancing around in baseball uniforms, others were running around a track, some preferred racing in a swimming pool, some took to tennis courts, and still others did their specialty on a golf course.

GOLF CHAMPS

Redwood's Giants, who registered a final 11-0-1 won-lost-tied record, made things look easy on the links by copping their fourth straight golf title.

After a tight duel with Tam all the way, San Rafael won the tennis crown with an 11-1 record, thanks largely to Bulldog Tony Lugo who defeated Indian Joe Freidman in a match that literally lasted two days, called the first day because of darkness. Tam finished second with a 10-2 mark.

TENNIS STARS

Drake's Mark Vance won the MAL singles championship and the doubles crown went to Redwood's Mitch Fink and Jim Bedilion. Vance made it all the way to the finals in the NCS playoffs and notched a second place, while Fink and Bedilion, after drawing a bye in the first round, were eliminated in the second.

San Rafael's varsity swimmers extended their MAL dual meet win streak to 44 victories en route to winning the dual meet title, and Tam's "Bees" won both the dual meet title and the county championship.

Terra Linda, however, snapped San Rafael's varsity swimming monopoly, copping the county meet championships at Novato High, May 14.

NCS SWIMMING

In the North Coast Section Division II meet at Martinez, the mermen emerged from a slow pool with some slow times but a good number of Marin splashers earned the right to swim in the finals. For Marin fans, the NCS championships were highlighted by Sir Francis Drake's Pirates who, as a team, placed higher than any other county representative with 16 points, and placed second in the 200-yard medley relay, 1:47.0.

The individual Pirate feats were accomplished by Bob Girvin in the 100-yard back and John Skaer, 100 breast, each placing fourth with times of 1:00.2 and 1:06.3 respectively.

The only other varsity scorers from Marin were San Rafael's Jim Allen, second in the 200 free, 1:53.7, and Bob Keller of Terra Linda, fifth in diving, 285.45 points.

BULLPUPS BEST

San Rafael's Bullpups turned in the best performance for Marin's Class B teams, chalking up 34 points, good for a third place finish. The "Bee" winners for the Bullpups were Jim Morris with a first in the 100 breast, 1:05.0, Dave Topance second in that same event and also third in the 50 free, and Dave Stein, second in the 50 fly.

In the local track world, here's what happened: Tam won the regular dual meet crown in both varsity and Class B competition, the varsity's accomplishment highlighted by a showdown with Terra Linda in the final meet of the regular season. San Rafael and Drake "Cees" tied for the flag.

COUNTY MEET

Then came the big meet as far as the county is concerned and the same teams, minus Drake's Class C team, were declared king pins in the Marin Athletic League track and field finals, Saturday, May 14, under blue, sunny skies.

The finals were held on the Drake field in San Anselmo and the Class A tracksters shattered five records while two marks fell in both Class B and C competition. The varsity record-breakers were Tam's team captain Honor Jackson in the 180 low hurdles and long jump, 19.6 and 22-7½; Marin Catholic's Gary Wittenmeier in the discus, 152-7; Drake's Doug Manuel in the shot, 54-1, and Drake's Dean Lazzarini in the 100, 9.8.

Both of the Class B marks were established by Tam sophomore Alan Lee, 100-yard dash in 9.9 and 220 in 21.6. Dave Bariski of San Rafael captured both of the Class C records, 19-8½ in the long jump and 1:31.0 in the 660. James Page of Tam tied the record in the "Cee" 120 low hurdles, 14.6.

VARSITY CHAMPS

Other leading varsity winners were Lazzarini again in the 220; Redwood's Tom Cooke, 440; Tam's Mitchell Howard, 120-yard high hurdles; Jeff Hicks of Redwood, pole vault; Novato's Clint Harless, mile, and Tam's 880-yard relay team.

Next on tap for Marin thinclads was the NCS Division III meet held in Santa Rosa, Friday, May 20, the first four qualifiers from the Marin meet competing.

Coach Bruce Grant's Indians led the pack again as Ken Blasingame broke his own school record in the 180 low hurdles, 14.5, and Jackson won two events for the Mill Valley school which tied for second in the NCS semi-finals, besting all of the other Marin schools entered.

Lazzarini placed second in the 100-yard dash in 9.8, Cooke notched a second in the 440, 52.3, and Hicks grabbed a second in the pole vault, 12-7. The Class B action featured Malcolm Collier of Tam erasing his own school record in the 1320, 3:13.8.

NCS FINALS

When the North Coast finals at University of California's Edwards Field, Berkeley, were completed the following weekend, only three county preps had survived the pressure of the tough competition which increases as the California State meet draws near: Blasingame, Lazzarini and Wittenmeier.

Lazz was the only one to make it through the state trials held June 3, running a 10 flat 100-yard dash against a stiff headwind and notching a second place. He failed to place in the finals, however.

Lee turned in a remarkable performance for the Tam Class B team by racking up a new NCS record in the 20-yard dash, 22.0, and, after falling down about five yards from the blocks, got back up and won a fifth in the 100, 10.5.

BASEBALL RACE

That wild MAL baseball race was the last big Marin prep sports headline, so there's no need to tell you that the Marin Catholic Wildcats copped one-third of the league title along with Novato and Tamalpais (a three-way tie), then went on to rule the prep baseball world by winning the third Redwood Baseball Tournament of Champions held at San Rafael's Albert Park May 28.

And you already know that the 'Cats won the bid to play in the tourney on a flip of a Kennedy half-dollar, so never mind that. Nor does it seem logical that you wouldn't know the "Cinderella" Marin team beat Westmoor of Daly City in the tourney opener Thursday night, May 26, 2-1, behind Ben Burch's two-hitter; then edged Napa of the North Bay League, 2-1, with Brian King spinning a three-hitter the next morning; and wrapped it up amid jubilant screams of joy that Saturday night by whipping Lincoln of the Mount Hamilton League of San Jose, 4-0, Burch posting his second two-hitter, striking out 22 and walking just one in the three-day tourney.

Segura, Anderson Go After Net Title

Age Isn't Stopping Ol' Pancho

Francisco (Pancho) Segura will be 45 years old this month

At an age when some men start playing with their grandchildren, "Sneaky," as he is nicknamed, is still playing one of the best, most exciting brands of tennis in professional ranks.

Like a self-winding watch, he may go on forever. His amateur-professional career spans a quarter of a century. In 1941, when the youngest player in this tournament was born, Segura was already competing in amateur ranks. He was winning then, and he is still winning.

Third in a series of profiles prepared by Gary Tischler on the international tennis stars who will be competing in the Peacock Gap Invitational Tennis Tournament June 22-26 at Peacock Gap Beach Club, San Rafael.)

Segura's rise is something short of incredible. Poor, weak and spindly-legged as a child, his playmates in Guayaquil, Ecuador called him "parrot foot." He had to play tennis on the sly at a club where his father was caretaker.

Lean, wiry, deceptively small, characterized by his two-handed forehand, Segura today is still at the top of his form. He has beaten the best players in tennis, including some who are legends, like the great Don Budge and Pancho Gonzales.

He is small, deceptive and fast. Not overpowering, he simply battles an opponent into weariness. Somewhere along the line, he must have taken a sip out of the fountain of youth. It's still working.

Never a great amateur, Segura came into his own as a pro. The pros respect him to the point where they would rather not have to play him.

Segura will be 45 soon, but like that river, he is still going strong.

Terrell Predicts Win Over Jones

"I want to win the fight big," Terrell said Wednesday, "but I won't name the round."

Terrell said he would defend his title against anyone who is a qualified contender "after I beat Jones."

Tennis Losers Were Really The Winners

The losers were really the winners.

Mrs. Walter Becker of San Rafael and Warren Hodgon of Mill Valley defeated Mrs. Fred Mehrton of San Rafael and Robert Knapp of Mill Valley to win the Marin Women's Tennis Club mixed doubles tournament Sunday. Mehrton and Knapp were incorrectly announced as winners in yesterday's I-J.

Mal Has Bad Luck History

There are a couple of things Mal Anderson keeps running into — bad luck and Ashley Cooper.

Except for some untimely injuries, Anderson's amateur career was downright brilliant. Despite his problems, the 30-year-old Australian has turned into one of the top professional players on the circuit.

Anderson and his rival Australian Cooper hooked up in a series of amateur duels that rivaled the Lew Hoad-Ken Rosewall series for their closeness.

Anderson rose in prominence by upsetting Cooper in the U.S. Nationals in 1957 to become the first unseeded player ever to win that tournament.

He would have done much better that year had it not been for a severe case of sunstroke. He was favored to take the Wimbledon title in 1958 but a sprained ankle forced him to withdraw. Fellow named Cooper won it. And Cooper turned the tables on Anderson in the finals of the 1958 U.S. Nationals after Anderson had all but won it.

Anderson came back to down Cooper in the Newport finals.

A professional since 1959, Anderson has been a consistent money winner. He has the natural talent and can make all the shots. He expects this year to be a great one for him.

Surf Meet Slated

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The World Surfing Championships will be held here Oct. 1-2, officials announced Wednesday.

Rangers Pick Up Orland Kurtenbach

MONTREAL (AP) — The New York Rangers, who have muscled their way into the Stanley Cup playoffs only once in the past eight National Hockey League seasons, apparently hope to do it next year with a major assist from a group of tough, aggressive players.

Orland Kurtenbach, one among their four most recent acquisitions, is ranked among the big league's best fist fighters. He joins the Rangers' tough-guy corps which also includes wingmen Vic Hadfield and Reg Fleming and defenseman Bob Plager.

Proposal For Motel, Convention Room Before Planning Commission

Almost everyone having anything to do with promoting Marin tourist or convention trade sooner or later ends up bewailing the lack of motel facilities in the county to accommodate large groups — ideally something with about 200 units.

A number of sizable motels have been proposed from time to time which have not materialized, but now comes a proposal from Dahl and Associates, San Rafael real estate developer, for a 100-unit facility on the west side of Highway 101 across from the Marin County Civic Center and the fairgrounds site. It would be located on a 100,000-square-foot property between Willow and Las Gallinas Avenues, with about 450 feet highway frontage and extending back to Merrydale Pond. Eventually a service road will connect this section direct with the Northgate Shopping Center.

Plans for the motel, a 1.5-million dollar project, are in the hands of Los Angeles architect James Barrington and include provisions for a convention meeting room for 600 persons, a restaurant and cocktail lounge.

An application has been filed for a use permit which will go before the zoning administrator on June 27. Zoning is divided roughly two-thirds and one-third between commercial and R-3. If the permit and plans are approved, construction could start this fall. Tentative name chosen is Inn Marin.

SUE MILLS, INC., San Francisco-based manufacturer of school uniforms and one of the first purchasers at Northgate Industrial Park, will soon get into construction of a 25,000-square-foot building on Mark Drive designed by Hageman-Thomas-Eklund and to be built by Edward W. Burgar, Inc. The company will occupy the entire first floor; upstairs will be leased out.

Mrs. Sue Mills, owner and founder of the company, is a resident of Kent Woodlands. She is a member of the Gagan family, a pioneer Marin County clan, and was educated in Marin schools and the University of California.

Treadwell

RICHARD R. TREADWELL of Ross has joined the San Francisco investment securities firm of Edelstein and Campbell as a limited partner. He was previously with Glore Forgan William R. Staats, Inc. Partner Joseph F. Edelstein is a resident of Sleepy Hollow.

MARIN COUNTY is in third place among the nine Bay Area counties in comparative growth of bank deposits, according to a recent report released by the Greater San Francsico Chamber of Commerce and United California Bank.

With a growth percentage of 285 from 1950 to 1965, Marin trailed only Santa Clara and San Mateo counties — holding the same third position with respect to increased population during the 15 year period (116 per cent).

In total deposits for 1965 (285 million dollars), number of bank offices (35), number of bank offices opened in the 15-year period (17), share of Bay Area deposits in 1965 (2.2 per cent) and share of total state deposits (0.8 per cent), Marin consistently falls into seventh place, running ahead of only Napa and Solano Counties.

Marin averages 5,400 persons per bank office — third in effective bank service after San Francisco and Sonoma County.

GUY STEVICK of Larkspur, travel sales representative with Portal Travel Service, San Francisco, is the winner of a 21-inch color television set in a nationwide travel agents' quiz by Matson Navigation Co. He was among 20 winners out of 1,400 agents who entered the contest.

INSURANCE MAN James T. McLaughlin of 25 Norwood Avenue, Ross, was unwittingly omitted from the last telephone directory, because of confusion with another man of the same name who recently left the county. He is a representative of Pacific Mutual Insurance Co. in San Francisco.

Airline Cuts Charges For Meat To Hawaii

SAN FRANCISCO — New lower rates for air cargo shipments of fresh meats from San Francisco to Hawaii have been posted by Pan American Airways..

Axel Mikkelsen, district traffic manager said the new rates will open the door for mainland meat packers to ship their products to the islands, and are expected to result in fast deliveries of 15 tons flying to Hawaii weekly.

Hawaiian Firm Enjoys Record Year In Earnings

HONOLULU—Castle and Cooke Inc., achieved record earnings and sales for its fiscal year ended April 30, according to Malcolm MacNaughton, president.

Net earnings were $9,687,000, or $2.13 per share the year before..

Total revenues were $294,571,000 in 1965-66, compared with $237,363,000 the year before.

The Dole Co. division had a good year, MacNaughton reported, and achieved an increase in earnings despite severely competitive conditions in marketing of fruit juices and in the production of Dole's canned fruits in California.

PayLess Plans Hayward Store

OAKLAND—Skaggs PayLess Drug Stores, an Oakland-based firm, has signed a lease for a new store in Hayward.

President William L. Gherra announced today that the store will open in August. This will be their second shopping complex in Hayward, and the fourth large PayLess store scheduled to open in 1966.

Others will open in Anaheim, Fremont and San Pablo, Calif. At the end of the year, Skaggs PayLess will have 18 stores in operation throughout California.

Industry Output Shows Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Industrial production rose nearly one per cent last month, to 154.8 per cent of the 1957-58 average. The index was 9 per cent above that for a year earlier.

The Federal Reserve Board, reporting the May figure today, said it compared with a revised figure of 153.6 per cent for April. The figure measures the output of the nation's mines, mills and factories.

The board said production of autos and parts declined but the output of most other final products and material advanced.

Freezing Firms Buy Asparagus

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — California growers have sold 30,117,000 pounds of green asparagus to frozen food firms this year, compared to 22,395,000 last year, a federal agency says.

The Federal - State Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says it still has no figures on asparagus shipments to canneries and the fresh market.

The federal government did not permit Mexican labor to work in the state's fields this year and the agency said it estimates $3 million worth of white asparagus was lost.

Branch Manager

Market Closes Lower After Airlines Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Airlines rallied but the stock market as a whole closed lower today. Final dealings were active.

The market was a bit lower from the start and widened its losses.

Most airlines were ahead a point or 2 late in the day.

Volume for the day was estimated at 6.2 million shares compared with 8.53 million yesterday.

The market was a bit lower from the start and widened its decline as the session continued. Once more the market seemed to be reverting to "typical Thursdays" when evening-up operations have usually resulted in lower markets.

Benguet, the Philippine gold-mining issue, looked like the most-active stock but was unchanged most of the time.

Down about 3 were Motorola, Becton Dickinson and Xerox. Texas Instruments sank more than 2.

Losses of a point or more were shown by United Aircraft, Sears, Roebuck, American Cyanamid, Du Pont, Standard Oil (New Jersey), American Tobacco and Copper Range.

IBM was up 3 and Johnson & Johnson 2. J. Ray McDermott advanced 2 or more.

Gains of a point or so were made by SCM, Kerr-McGee Oil, Northwest Airlines, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and Merck.

Kennecott also dropped about 2. Boeing was a 2-point gainer.

Prices were mostly higher in heavy trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Debits, Deposits Continue Upward

The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco reported unadjusted debits of $161,713,000, compared with $155,522,000 in May, 1965. Unadjusted deposits were $77,565,000, compared with $74,629,000 year ago.

Debits, deposits and turnover ratios are not yet reported for Marin County since figures have not been compiled for a long enough period to compensate for regular seasonal fluctuations.

ALMANAC

Today is Thursday, June 16, the 167th day of 1966 with 198 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase; the morning stars are Venus and Saturn; there are no evening stars.

American soprano Helen Traubel was born on this day in 1903.

On this day in history:

In 1858, delegates to the Illinois state convention of the Republican party at Springfield, were told by Abraham Lincoln: "A house divided against itself cannot stand. I believe this government cannot endure permanently half slave and half free."

In 1933, President Franklin Roosevelt signed the National Industrial Recovery Act.

A thought for the day — English author Geoffrey Chaucer said: "Sometimes it is art to seem to flee the thing which, in effect, one is pursuing."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey, Western District headquarters. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

Europeans' Better Bidding Paid Off With Many Points

Most of us who watched the world championship matches a month ago thought that the Americans played the cards better.

The bidding prizes went to Italy.

Opening lead — ♡ K

Murray started out like a house afire, taking the first two tricks with the king and ace of hearts.

HE RETALIATES

Declarer ruffed the third heart, drew one round of trumps with the ace and led a spade to dummy's ace.

He ruffed the other spade, overtook the queen of clubs with dummy's king and drew the last trump.

Lew Mathe opened the South hand with one diamond, West doubled and Bob Hamman bid two clubs on the North hand.

East doubled to show support for the other suits (in the Roman System, as played by Giorgio Belladonna and Walter Avarelli), and Mathe leaped to five clubs.

HAS CHANCE

The score was 650 points to Italy.

Italy scored 550 points in one room and 650 points in the other room by using better bidding judgment.

DAILY QUESTION

You hold:

♠ K 7 5 4 3 2
♥ Q 10 4
♦ J 7 5 2
♣ None.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four spades.

You should have a reasonable play for ten tricks at spades, and the opponents should be able to do well at clubs or possibly hearts.

THE SCHOOLS PROBE

Extremists, Apathy Seen As Parts Of Bad Climate

(Fourth in a series)

San Rafael schools are harassed by attacks of extremists while "the majority of residents regard the schools with an indifferent attitude," according to the report of a California Teachers Assn. investigating team.

This appears among conclusions of the team that spent two long days in late March interviewing 117 persons in a Corte Madera motel room. The team represented the CTA's Bay Section personnel standards and the ethics commission. It included teachers, school administrators, and one school board member, all from outside Marin.

"While interference by extremists has been discernible for the past 10 years, harassment has increased since 1962. The school board and present district administration have bowed to pressures from this group."

An earlier section of the report lists a series of "criticisms and attacks" by citizens. These include the successful effort of Coleman School parents in 1958, "led by a present school board member" (Mrs. Anita C. Strom) to prevent splitting Coleman School and putting up a building for the upper grades on what is now the San Rafael High School parking lot. It says "conservative forces have challenged elementary level health education texts, the elementary reading program, and the high school social sciences department"; it refers to letters to the board expressing fear of reprisals against students because of parent complaints, "though the panel could find no instance in which this has occurred," and says "speakers from outside the district have been imported to promote attacks on book lists as being Communist inspired."

"Numerous other instances in which unsubstantiated charges were leveled against the schools were reported," says the report. "These were often made by anonymous phone calls or in letters to the local newspaper editor." (The Independent - Journal never publishes unsigned letters.)

All the instances of such harrassment specified in the report are laid to what the commission and its investigative team refer to as "the conservative element." The report, however, says, "The San Rafael community generally is conservative, but not so conservative as some groups choose to believe. It is a wealthy district that believes in education but has not shown wholehearted willingness to invest in it."

In another section, however, the report mentions that, with one exception, the electorate has never turned down a school financial proposal.

"Failure of the board and administration to cope with this pressure (from extremists) has contributed greatly to the low staff morale," says the report. Another section cites staff morale in San Rafael Elementary School District as excellent, but that in the high school district (which includes San Rafael and Dixie Elementary School District is repeatedly referred to as low.

In its recommendations, the commission says:

"Various factions and individuals in the community must learn to accept the fact that, although they have a right to their opinion and philosophy, they must not attempt to force those opinions on the schools through intimidation and harassment of public officials and school staff."

It continues: "It is the obligation of the citizens of the school district to become informed about their schools." It says "legitimate complaints should be presented at the level at which they originate. These complaints should be carried to successively higher channels if unresolved, with the school board acting only as final arbiter."

The report urges: "Citizens should be actively interested in the selection of school board members. They should base their decisions on assessments of the candidates' qualifications, motives, willingness to withhold judgment until all pertinent facts are reviewed, ability to work with other board members . . . and sufficient time to devote to the duties and responsibilities."

It warns: "The great majority of the citizens of the district who are supporters of the schools must become more concerned or they will allow small pressure groups to influence the schools by default."

"Many instances have occurred in recent years which illustrate the conflicts between segments of the community and school district personnel, most of them involving San Rafael High School teachers and members of the conservative group.

"The most recent incident concerned a book used in an honors English class for seniors at Terra Linda. The manner in which the board and administration handled the contested use of the book intensified district frictions and led to the request for this study."

(Last, tomorrow: The city council, the press, and the P-TA.)

NOTHING LIKE THIS IN SAN RAFAEL

The complex will have a central dining commons, while the variable living patterns will provide single rooms, double rooms, and suites for four, six and eight students.

Mrs. Taylor would serve out the remaining 18 months of her late husband's term, representing the Almonte area.

To the star-spangled American boss

—And others who deserve it for doing a favor that you might not have thought about

NOW PAYING 4.15% WHEN HELD TO MATURITY

Hats off to the many presidents and managers of companies who helped build the Payroll Savings Plan into what it is today—one of the most popular and easy ways to save money.

These business leaders provided the facilities and manpower necessary to operate the Plan—plus their own enthusiastic endorsement. And never stopped to count hours or pennies.

Thanks to them, over 8 million Americans—their employees—are building security and helping their country through this automatic savings plan.

There are others who have helped other millions of Americans own a share of their country. Volunteers in every walk of life. Folks in radio and TV, movies and the theater. Newspaper and magazine and billboard folks. And Bond "salesmen" in thousands of banks and savings institutions.

Buy Bonds at your bank, or on the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, and you'll see what a good idea it is.

And the next time you see your boss (who helped make it so easy for you to save)—thank him.

He deserves it—from all 190 million of us.

NOW—
Savings Bonds Pay 4.15%!

Interest on new E and H Bonds you purchase has been raised to 4.15% when held to maturity. E Bonds mature faster—now in just 7 years. Your old Bonds will earn more, too. Savings Bonds are better to buy, and hold, than ever.

Marin City Club Plans Bus Tour

Thirty-seven youths representing the Ashanti Club of Marin City will leave by chartered bus July 8 for a three-day stay in Southern California.

The group, ages 15 to 22, plan to visit Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm and Marineland on their first day. On the second day they will be given a guided tour of the Watts area, conducted by Billy Jo Tidwell, a recent graduate of University of California who now works in group service projects in Watts.

The 37 will also visit cultural spots such as the new Los Angeles museum and Griffith Park and will speak with Los Angeles teen-age groups.

Most of the money for the trip was raised by the club from dances, a car wash and other activities, reported Lanny Berry, one of five chaperones who will accompany the tour.

Valley Residents Protest Taxes

Directors of the San Geronimo Valley Assn. voted Tuesday night to recommend that members write the Marin County Board of Supervisors protesting "confiscatory" property taxes in the valley.

The board also recommended that letters protesting the tax rate be sent to school boards and other county offices.

Speaker Overlooked

Red China Purge Spreads To Nanking University

Radio Peking announced today that Kuang Ya-ming, rector of Nanking University, was stripped of all his duties because of his "ignoble and villainous conspiracy to suppress the revolutionary movement" in the university.

Kuang's ouster came after he "counterattacked" against students and professors who had accused him of failing to follow the teachings of party Chairman Mao Tze-tung, Radio Peking said.

Nine days ago the purge of intellectuals struck down Peking University rector Lu Ping during a shakeup in the Peking party organization that toppled powerful Peking Mayor Peng Chen from the leadership of the Communist party committee in the Chinese capital.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Stars' Offspring Go On Stage Themselves

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —A host of second-generation show business talent will burst onto the television scene in a big way in the coming season.

The most publicized of these youngsters thus far is Marlo Thomas, daughter of comedian Danny Thomas, who will have her own series on ABC-TV, "That Girl," a situation comedy about an aspiring actress.

But sons and daughters of other famous stars also will be on tap.

Noel Harrison, son of Rex Harrison, will be a regular in NBC-TV's new series "The Girl from U.N.C.L.E.," which itself is an offspring, naturally, of "The Man from U.N.C.L.E."

Dean Martin's daughter Gail, who likewise has embarked on a singing career, is, according to trade reports, preparing to make her video debut on her father's NBC-TV variety series.

The idea of second generation performers is highly appealing to network executives, chiefly because the television medium is built around family appeal—and it is quite natural for family viewers to show special interest in talented offspring.

Another of Danny Thomas' children, a son, also has formed his own musical group, and recently made his television debut with it on CBS' Ed Sullivan hour. It is called "The Thomas Group," and the comedian showed up on the Sullivan program to help launch the boys.

Another of Dean Martin's children, Dino, has for some time been in a musical group with the son of Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, and it too has had considerable financial success.

Marin Coeds Given $500 Scholarships

Three Marin girls have received $500 scholarships from the Marin chapter of the National Foundation (March of Dimes) for their excellent high school records and interest in the field of medicine.

Janice A. Stackpole, 17, of 54 Ryan Avenue, Mill Valley, a graduate of Tamalpais High School, will use hers at University of California in the fall.

Carnelia R. Sias, 18, of 160 Sturdivant Avenue, San Anselmo, will attend University of California at Davis. She is a graduate of San Domenico School in Sleepy Hollow.

Linda A. Lahr, 18, of 1634 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, will enter St. Luke's School of Nursing in San Francisco. She is a graduate of Novato High School.

Moderation Saves Skin From Burns

Don't sacrifice yourself to the sun for the sake of the almighty tan. You'll find yourself "in the red," an uncomfortably hot spot to be in on a hot summer day. So be sensible about your sunning this summer.

Remember, first, to stick to the tanning time rules . . . fifteen minutes per side your first day out, twenty minutes the second, thirty the third and forty the fourth. If your skin is fair, cut these times in half.

Secondly, don't place too much confidence in "sunscreens," the creams and lotions which help protect the skin from burning by either absorbing or scattering the ultraviolet rays. If you do subscribe to such protection the U. S. Health Department recommends two preparations which you can have your druggist prepare for you.

If a cream is preferred: 15 per cent p-aminobenzoic acid in vanishing cream. If a lotion is preferred: 15 per cent p-aminobenzoic acid in mineral oil or alcohol.

Apply either when your skin is dry. Two coats are better than one. After swimming you have to start all over again and reapply the protection.

If you've thrown caution to the wind or you simply forgot to take the standard ounce of prevention, do remember the prescribed pound of relief . . . baking soda.

A cupful of it dumped into a cool tubful of water brings soothing relief from the start of a bad burn. It also acts as a tonic to tanned skin that's reached the dry, flaky stage and tends to itch.

For this pleasant treatment to be fully effective for either dryness or burn, however, you have to resist the impulse to rub or scrub. Just lie there, relax and soak and let baking soda's mild alkaline action both cleanse and soothe your skin.

BOOM IN CAMPING INDUSTRY

Camper coaches, travel trailers, tent trailers and compact van trucks are expected to show a 25 per cent increase in sales this year. Not all of them are as large as this 26-foot-long Ford Condor which accommodates eight persons. The wide range of vehicles includes cabover units, self-contained units, chassis mounts and a series of light campers that may be ordered with such luxuries as bucket seats and carpeting—suitable for both weekend and vacation trips.

Trailer Home Away From Home

Home away from home for more and more traveling Americans is a travel trailer or a tent carried in a small trailer and easily erected on a camping site.

Recreation specialists point out that the annual output of travel trailers rose from 40,000 in 1961 to more than 95,000 in 1965 and that more than 110,000 will be built in 1966.

Basically, the answer to this amazing growth in popularity lies in the increase in leisure time, the adventure of the open road, and the attractive economics of trailer and tent living. If you are trailering, you carry your own kitchen and sleeping accommodations to neutralize the cost of bed and board. Expenses over and above staying at home are gasoline and park fees. If you use a tent trailer, the factors are virtually the same. Inexpensive portable stoves, ice chests and other camping accessories give modern outdoor living a practical touch.

Costing from $1,400 to as much as $7,700, travel trailers are almost complete living units. Towed by car or truck, trailers are maneuverable in all but the most rugged areas and have electricity, water, bath, toilet, and modern sleeping-cooking-kitchen facilities.

Highly maneuverable tent trailers can be towed by car or pickup truck. They fold out and expand, or telescope over car and trailer for moderately-sized living-eating-sleeping quarters. Ranging in cost from about $400 to $900, tent trailers are easily unhitched and quickly erected.

With more than half a million travel and tent trailers in use on the nation's highways today, engineers have taken trailering into consideration in the design of the 1966 passenger cars and light trucks. For example, they specify the proper engine, transmission and rear axle combinations necessary for various trailer sizes. To take the guess work out of ordering a 1966 product properly equipped for towing, the engineers also recommend a lengthy list of special equipment including radiator, brakes, springs and tires.

In addition, purchasers may order from a long list of comfort and convenience accessories. They include a safety flasher switch for parking and taillights, automatic speed control for long distance cruising, air conditioner, remote-control outside mirror, two-speed electric windshield wipers, and rear window screens for station wagons.

Look Underwater

Sad, but true, if you don't tie it down somebody's likely to walk off with it: bicycle, skis, outboard motor, what-have-you. The tying-down is made simple by a new type of lock in which a hard of flexible steel aircraft cable, vinyl-encased, replaces the shackle in a key-operated lock. Use it, too, to secure power tools such as lawn mowers and snow blowers, baby carriages, ladders and fence gates, to lock luggage to a car-top carrier.

Do-It-Yourself For Cook-Outers

"Cookouters have become smitten with the do-it-yourself hootenanny," according to Robert Keworth of a musical instrument company which is a leading producer of the main instrument involved, the guitar.

"The image of the cowboy strumming his guitar, crooning by the light of the lonely fire is being transferred to that modern American campfire — the cookout grill in the backyard."

And the guy who leads the charge to the outdoors — old (or young) Dad — is, not surprisingly, matching his desire to be chief cook (but not bottlewasher) with some guitarsmanship while riding the not-so-lonesome range of his patio.

Learning to play the guitar isn't nearly as complicated, or as expensive as it would seem.

In only a few sessions most persons strum enough basic cords to get through many folk songs and old standards. As for cost, popular prices range from thirty to about fifty-five dollars (with terms in key with even young budgets).

The kind of guitar depends on the kind of music preferred as well as skills developed, but there are basically three types: the classic or folk guitar; the steel string guitar for country music; and the rock-and-roll electric.

HOME SWIMMING POOL FAMILY SCENE

There are more good swimmers among Marin County children than in most areas. One reason is the large number of householders who have their own swimming pools where outdoor bathing is a daily occurrence through eight or nine months of the year. This oversized pool was designed and built by the William H. McDevitt Co. for the family activities of Mr. and Mrs. Harry T. Magill at their home on Ridge Road, Novato. (Ken Molino photo)

Fiberglass Panels To Brighten A Back Yard

Colorful and durable, reinforced - fiberglas panels can transform the back yard of any home, as well as helping provide privacy and coolness without shade.

Homeowners who plan to spend part or all of their vacations at home this summer might well invest in these colorful additions to the backyard scenery—and bring a vacation feeling right into the home.

A major manufacturer of fiberglas - reinforced panels is marketing a line of panels in all shapes and sizes. Corrugated or flat panels in a variety of colors can be used to create a fence which gives the yard a brand new look. Instruction kits for do-it-yourselfers are available for those who fancy themselves as handymen.

Chief virtues of the reinforced-fiberglas panel are said to be its translucency, durability and low cost. Another good reason for considering it as a back yard addition is its ease-of-maintenance.

Vacationer Needs First Aid Station

An idea that summer vacationers have found useful is to create their own portable first-aid stations.

The concept here, of course, is that the whole family should be prepared for the aches, pains and other discomforts and maladies that too often go hand-in-hand with vigorous outdoor activity.

The typical first-aid kit should contain bandages, gauze, iodine, and lotions to soothe insect bites or to comfort the overexposed sun worshiper. If a camping trip is planned, consideration should be given to including snake-bite antidotes.

For relief from all manner of minor aches and pains, there is even a new sustained-release aspirin designed to provide prolonged pain relief for up to eight hours. It, too, is a handy thing to have along in the portable first aid kit since one dose of two tablets can insure uninterrupted pain relief for the equivalent of a full day's activities in the country, on the shore, or looking at the sights.

The portable first aid kit is practical, simple to assemble and need not be bulky. Just about all one requires will fit easily into the car glove compartment or a corner of a family suitcase.

Gulls Important To Pacific Coast

One lazy day this summer, when you're standing on the craggy cliffs or lying on the sun-warmed beaches of California's shores, take a look at those birds wheeling above you, the buoyant gulls.

Gulls are so much a part of the coastal scenery that the sea would seem an unfamiliar place without their haunting cry or the sight of them dipping and diving and soaring on currents of air.

Gulls are as necessary to clean beaches as garbage collectors are necessary to clean streets. They are the true scavengers of the sea. Dead fish, insects, and all manner of garbage are welcomed by these birds as tasty tidbits. Without gulls our harbors and beaches would be in a sorry state of pollution.

Gulls, however, are not only seabirds. They are often seen hundreds of miles inland. At breeding time certain species form colonies in the marshes of great inland lakes, and during the early spring months they inhabit these areas in their hundreds and thousands.

Nearly 50 species of gulls exist. They are all large birds, the length of their bodies measuring anywhere from 13 to 30 inches. The body and tail of an adult bird are nearly always white, and the wings and back are mostly grey or black.

Gulls seem to be one of the more intelligent species of birds. Very often the methods gulls use to obtain their food indicate how they use their wits. A herring gull, for example, finds clams particularly appealing to his palate, and it's no problem to him that the clam has a hard outer shell. The gull simply picks up a clam when the tide is low and soars to a height of 40 or 50 feet, and drops the clam onto a hard surface. If the clam's shell doesn't break at the first attempt, the gull is unperturbed and continues to drop it until it finally cracks.

The poor, unwitting pelican often provides a good meal for a gull. As the pelican comes up out of the water after diving for fish, a cheeky gull may alight on his head. Since the pelican usually holds his catch in his monstrous bill before swallowing, the gull perched on his head waits for the pelican to open his bill and then snatches the fish right out of his mouth.

The gull isn't by nature a mean bird, though; he's just more clever than some of his contemporaries. Next time you see a gull soaring above you, take a good look at him. The world's coastlines wouldn't be the same without these gulls, and they certainly wouldn't be as clean without these scavengers of the sea.

FOR TENT AND BOAT ENTHUSIASTS—Ford's new Bronco is designed to cater to vacationers who prefer to sleep out in the open—or at least in a tent on the ground, and tow a boat and trailer. When not in use as a camping vehicle it offers the comfort and economy of a second car.

Trailer Drivers Need Review Of Road Rules

Although trailering is becoming more and more popular, since trailers are not used as frequently as cars, driver of trailers often need to review highway rules.

Make sure your trailer hitch is securely mounted and that you have the necessary safety chain between car and trailer. If your trailer is wider than your car, two extended side mirrors are required to give you at least a 200-foot vision of the road behind.

With a trailer in tow your car is pulling a much greater weight than usual. Remember to increase the distance between yourself and the car in front since you need more stopping distance than ever with the added load you're pulling.

Fifty mph is the maximum speed limit at any time for trailer-towing cars, and you must keep in the right-hand lane at all times except when passing another vehicle. And on narrow winding roads, if you are holding up traffic behind you, pull into the turnouts and allow the other traffic to pass.

Drowning Victims Often Fall In Wearing Clothes

Summer is the time when adults and children alike explore riverbanks and lakeshores, climb rocks on the beaches, and take boats out into the water. Most people who drown are not those swimming, but those who fall into the water fully clothed.

Contrary to popular belief, clothing often helps keep a person afloat by trapping air. If you should fall into the water fully clothed don't immediately attempt to discard your clothing. Struggling feverishly trying to get rid of clothing can actually cause you to drown. If help is delayed your clothing will protect you from exposure.

BUYING A BOAT?

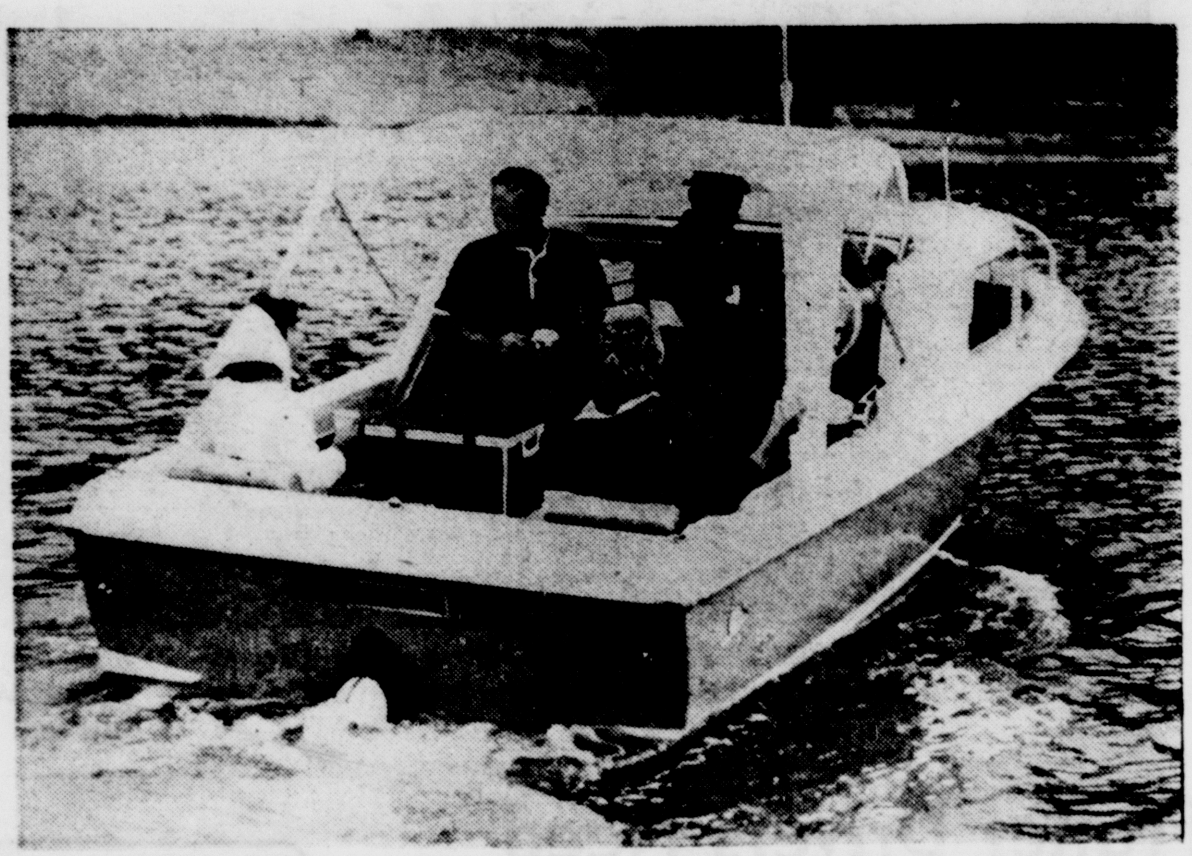
Take Time For A Look Around

Buying a new boat is just as involved as buying a new car or making any other large purchase.

First of all, take into consideration the size boat that you need for your family, what kind of water sport you want a boat for—whether for sailing, fishing, water-skiing—and then examine your budget to determine just how much you can afford to spend.

Keep in mind the areas where you will use your boat. If you're going to be out on the open sea and can moor your boat in the shelter of a harbor, transportability isn't as important as it is if you plan to use a boat on small inland lakes and will have to move it in and out of the water frequently. Bear in mind also that a large boat is a nuisance if it has to be pulled along the highway. If your garage is going to house your boat and trailer during the winter, you would do well to measure your garage before making your purchase.

Once you've decided on your budget, remember that many boats are sold with just the bare essentials, and equipping a boat with even a few gadgets can run into a lot of money. The main thing is to decide what kind of boat you want.

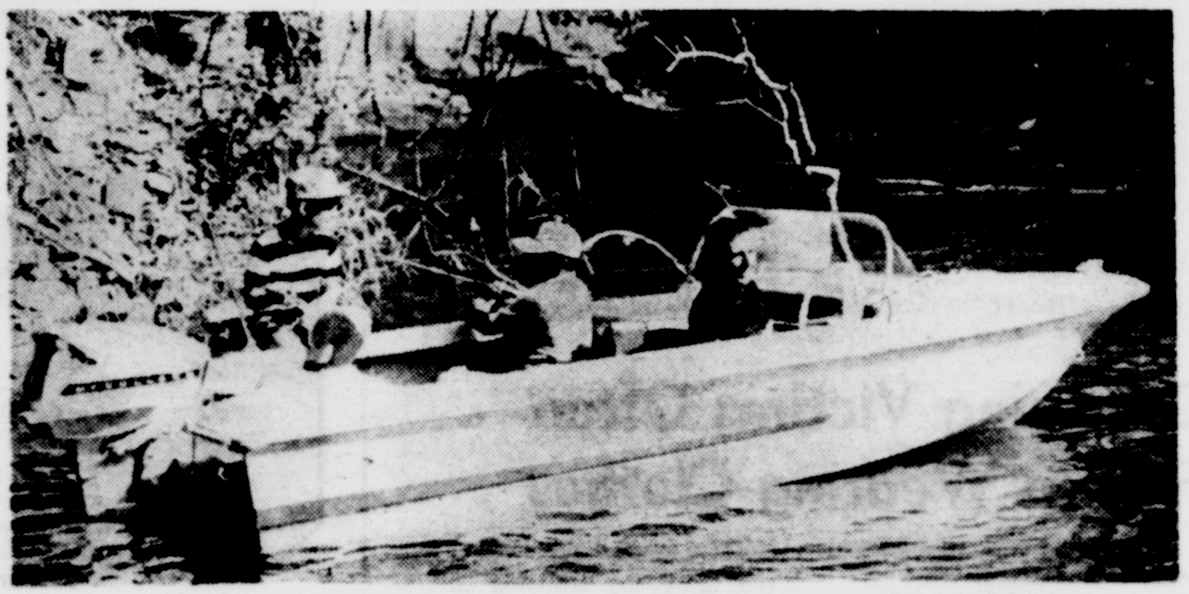


FOR A WEEKEND ON THE WATER—This Dorsett San Juan 18-foot cruiser shown off Hospital Cove, Angel Island, is for the serious yachtsman who spends long hours on his boat. It provides extra room on deck for bedding down, as well as two generous bunks in the forward cabin. A galley complete with sink, pump, fresh water tank and icebox make living aboard a pleasure. Channel Boat Sales recommends 150 horsepower — inboard-outboard or straight outboard.

Here's Word To Wise For New Water Skiers

This summer, almost a million Americans will waterski for the first time. Barbara Cooper Clack, a national champion, has been skiing for nine years. Now a featured performer in daily shows at Florida's Cypress Gardens, Barbara offers the following advice to novice waterskiers:

1. Start with fundamentals of water safety. For instance, even an expert swimmer should always wear a life jacket or life belt when learning to waterski.
2. Before going into the water coat your skin with a thin layer of petroleum jelly. The petroleum jelly, now packaged in easy-to-carry tubes, offers excellent protection against waterlogging and painful windburn.
3. Practice waterskiing only with a qualified instructor and an alert tow boat driver. If state law so requires, be sure a second person is in the tow boat as an observer.
4. Although many people learn to ski in one session, don't be easily discouraged. Overweight, poor muscle tone or tenseness caused by fear of the water may be working against you.
5. Rub petroleum jelly into your palms to lessen the possibility of rope burns. To keep the tow rope or handle from becoming slippery, tissue off the excess jelly.



FOR FISHING OR SKIING — A "hot," all-purpose runabout suggested by Channel Boat Sales, San Rafael, is this 15-foot, two-inch Dorsett Belmont, suitable for anchoring off a rugged shore where the fish are biting—or to tow two adult skiers with ease. Equipped with fuel system complete with a 12-gallon gas tank, single lever controls, battery, cables and running lights. Sells for under $1,000.

POWERFUL COMPACT CRUISER —This 16-foot, six-inch Catalina by Dorsett combines the verve and spunk of a runabout with the all-weather range and advantages of a cabin cruiser. It's shown berthed opposite Belvedere Island. Forward cabin houses a pair of upholstered bunks with storage underneath. The craft is available as inboard-outboard or straight outboard. Suggested by Channel Boat Sales, San Rafael for the "less than $2,000" price range.

Weather Zestful At Oceana Sites

A new community of homes, replete with outdoor living possibilities, will soon appear on the headlands above the rocky bluffs a few thousand yards north of Dillon Beach, opposite the mouth of Bodega Bay.

Robert A. Roumiguiere, sales agent for the new Oceana Marin, has just opened some 68 lots for inspection on behalf of the Oceana Marin Development Co. of Santa Rosa.

The first homesites to be offered lie within a 10-minute walk of the picturesque town of Dillon Beach. They extend for a mile or more northward, along the rugged coastline and back into hills. From almost any point on the subdivision the long white stretch of coastline unfolds, merging into the distant wooded neck of land across Tomales Bay known as Tomales Bluff.

Oceana Marin, says Roumiguiere, will be settled by people who like the fog and the wind as well as they like the sun and blue skies. Site of the new community can be reached from most central Marin points in less than an hour's ride. From the town of Tomales it's a four-mile hop to Dillon Beach. A right turn to Oceana Marin is located just before entering the town.

Right now, the only sign of development at Oceana Marin besides the staked-out lots are the subdivision roads — smooth, wide, black macadam, all completed. Utilities are underground. Lots extend down from the hills almost to the edge of the bluffs, but an area along the entire length of the cliffs has been reserved for all residents to enjoy. Footpaths will wind down to secluded private beaches.

Residents will be within a five-minute drive of the clam and oyster digging activities and boat docking facilities of Lawson's Landing, and within another few minutes of the mouth of San Antonio Creek with its lure of fresh-water fishing.

SITE OF NEW DEVELOPMENT—Oceana Marin lies in the gently rising hills shown in this picture, which was taken from Dillon Beach facing northward. Here there are surfboard riding, beachcombing and picnicking. Residents will be within a few minutes walk of the sandy beach, and a short drive from the docking facilities at Lawson's Landing and fishing at the mouth of San Antonio Creek.

Indians' Homes Are Fascinating To Visit

The question of where to go this year for a vacation is still unanswered for a number of families.

With the idea of seeing America first, why not see the areas where the first Americans live, the Indian reservations? Right across the United States are reservations that welcome visitors. Good roads lead into many of the reservations, and nearly all provide some form of accommodation, varying from simple campgrounds to luxurious lodges.

Particularly those vacationers who like to get away to remote areas will find the reservations to their liking, for most are isolated from civilization and as yet are not besieged by hordes of visitors. Many reservations have excellent hunting and fishing resources and others allow visitors to observe old Indian rituals and traditions.

Visitors are also able to see the traditional handiwork of the Indians, many of whom sell their wares at bargain prices. Basketmaking, weaving, beadwork, pottery, jewelry-making are just some of the many crafts that have been handed down to Indians for generations.

Civilization, however, is slowly creeping up even on the Indians and many handcrafts and traditions are, unfortunately, dying out. It might be well to take advantage of the opportunity to see this old culture now before the centuries-old American Indian way of life becomes entirely swallowed by the twentieth century.

RUGGED SPORT FOR COAST DWELLERS—Spear fishing is popular with both adults and children on Marin's northwest coastline, where the bluffs of Oceana Marin loom above rock beaches like this one. Often there is no sun or sky—just the cool gray of the fog and the splash of water on stones and sand. (Ken Molino photos)

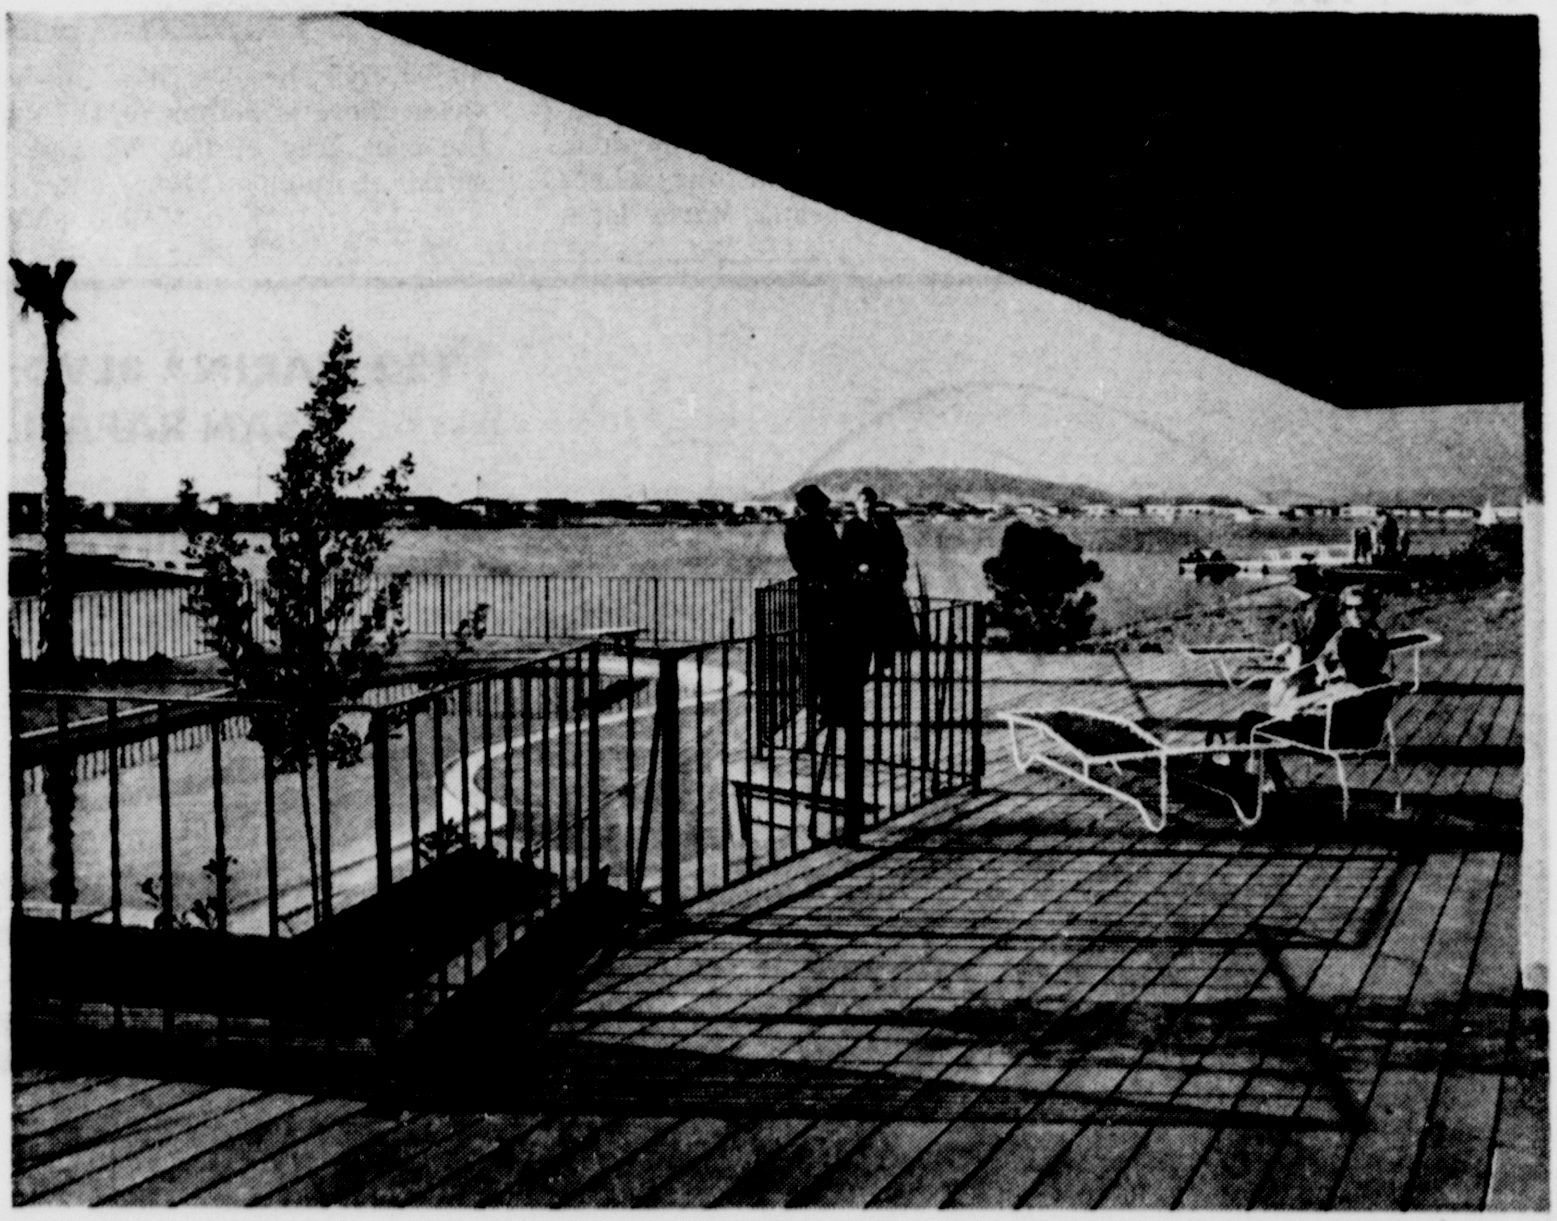
VISIT BY WATER

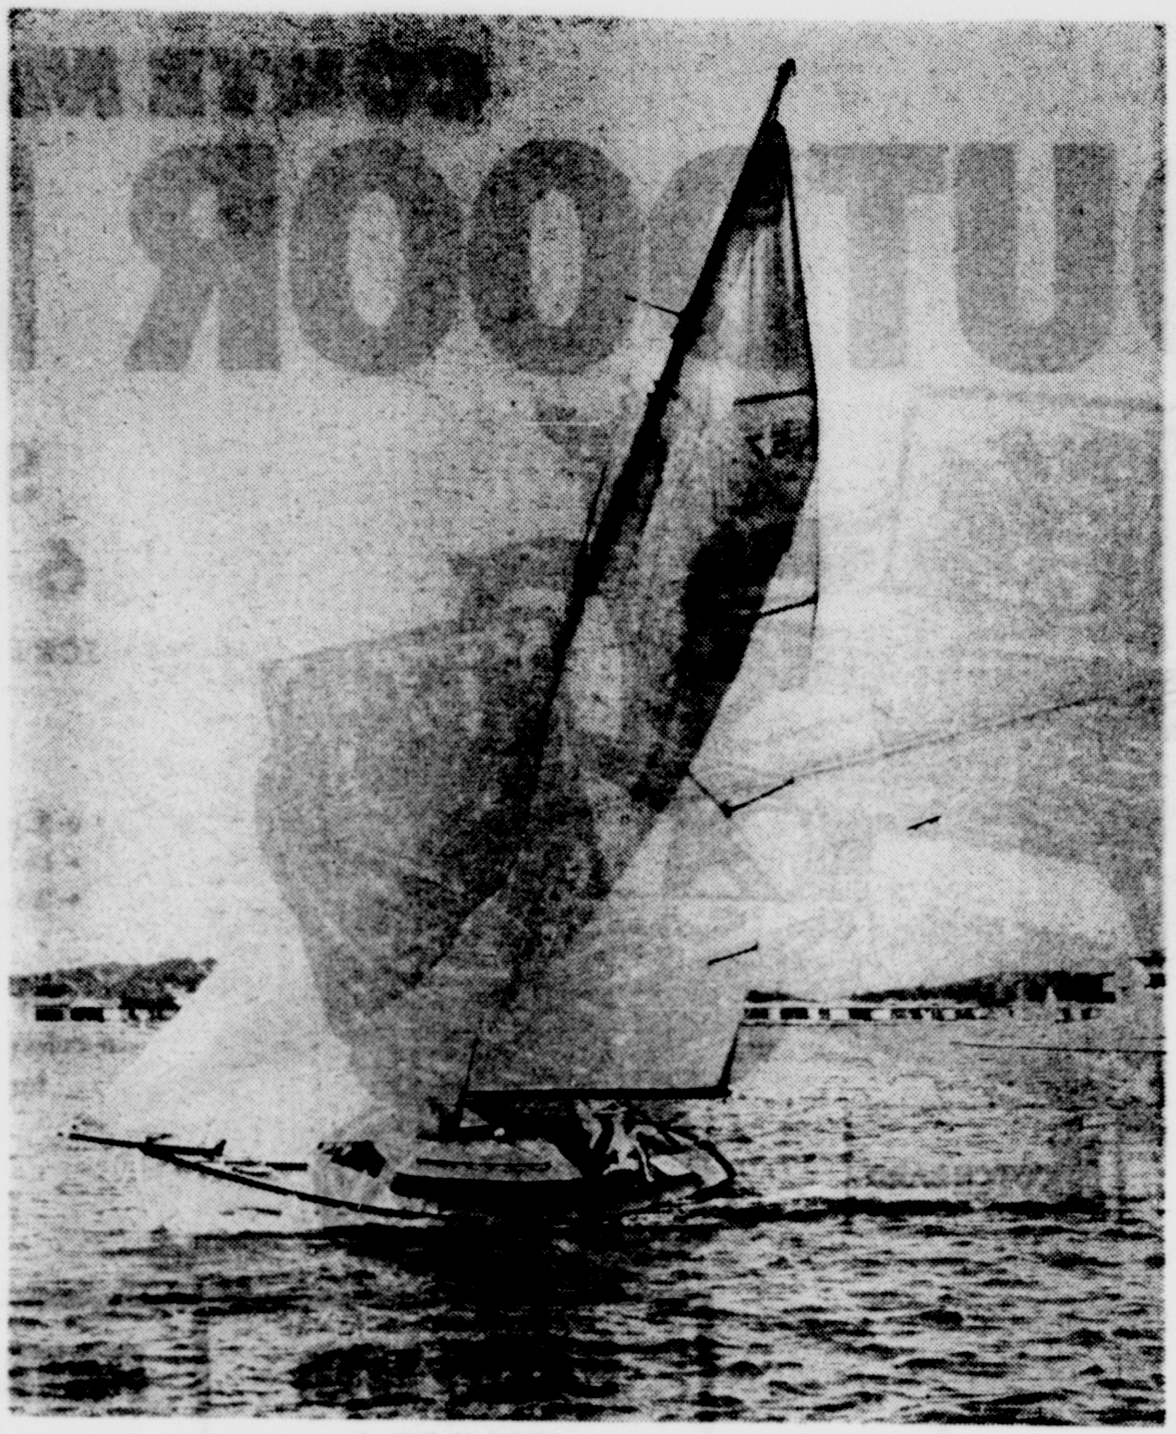
Residents at Bel Marin Keys get to know each other and in many cases it's easier to visit a neighbor by making the trip on the water than by foot, since nearly everyone has a dock of some kind and a boat. At least it's more fun that way.

(Vano-Wells-Fagliano photo)



POOL ON THE SHORE

Since Bel Marin Keys householders own property which extends out into the water, there is variety in the shoreline developments. Some residents build huge decks or swimming pools—or both, to supplement other water activities.



LAGOONS OFFER BACK YARD WATER SPORTS

Sailing is great fun if you live at Bel Marin Keys where you can start out from your own dock, cruise in the spacious lagoons and then take off through deep water channels to the world of boating in San Francisco Bay. All homes in the subdivision have water frontage. (Bob Hax photo)

Sunlight Can Hurt Bright Complexion

Whether it's boating, water skiing, swimming, skin and scuba diving or surfing, there seems to be something for every interest.

All of these aquatic activities have a common denominator that can spoil your pretty complexion: Overexposure to bright sunlight. You know the sun's rays can cause painful or disabling burn, but the fact that eyes are also susceptible is not so apparent.

Too much exposure to brilliant sunlight can produce swelling and harsh lines around the eyes, while glare conditions cause eye strain and headaches.

Advance preparations often spell the difference between an enjoyable outing, and one full of harrassments. Researchers for the Murine Company have compiled a list of tips to increase your enjoyment of water sports.

Take along a pair of sunglasses to protect your eyes against glare from sunlight, sand and water. Even though you may not be wearing them constantly, they are a "must" for rest periods in the boat or on the beach.

During those breaks on the beach, don't read in bright sunlight—even with sunglasses on. It creates additional strain on the eyes.

Avoid swimming under water with your eyes open. Water often contains salts, chlorine or other mineral elements that are irritating to the eyes.

Your kit should include a sunscreen preparation; a skin cream; some tissues; and a handy plastic squeeze bottle of eye lotion. Eye drops will soothe and refresh eyes irritated by exposure to sun and spray.

Wear some form of head covering, preferably a visored cap, when you are out of the water. A wide-brimmed beach hat is recommended when you bask on warm sands.

Know the location of the nearest doctor, in case medical assistance should become necessary.

Back Yards Tops In Western Eyes

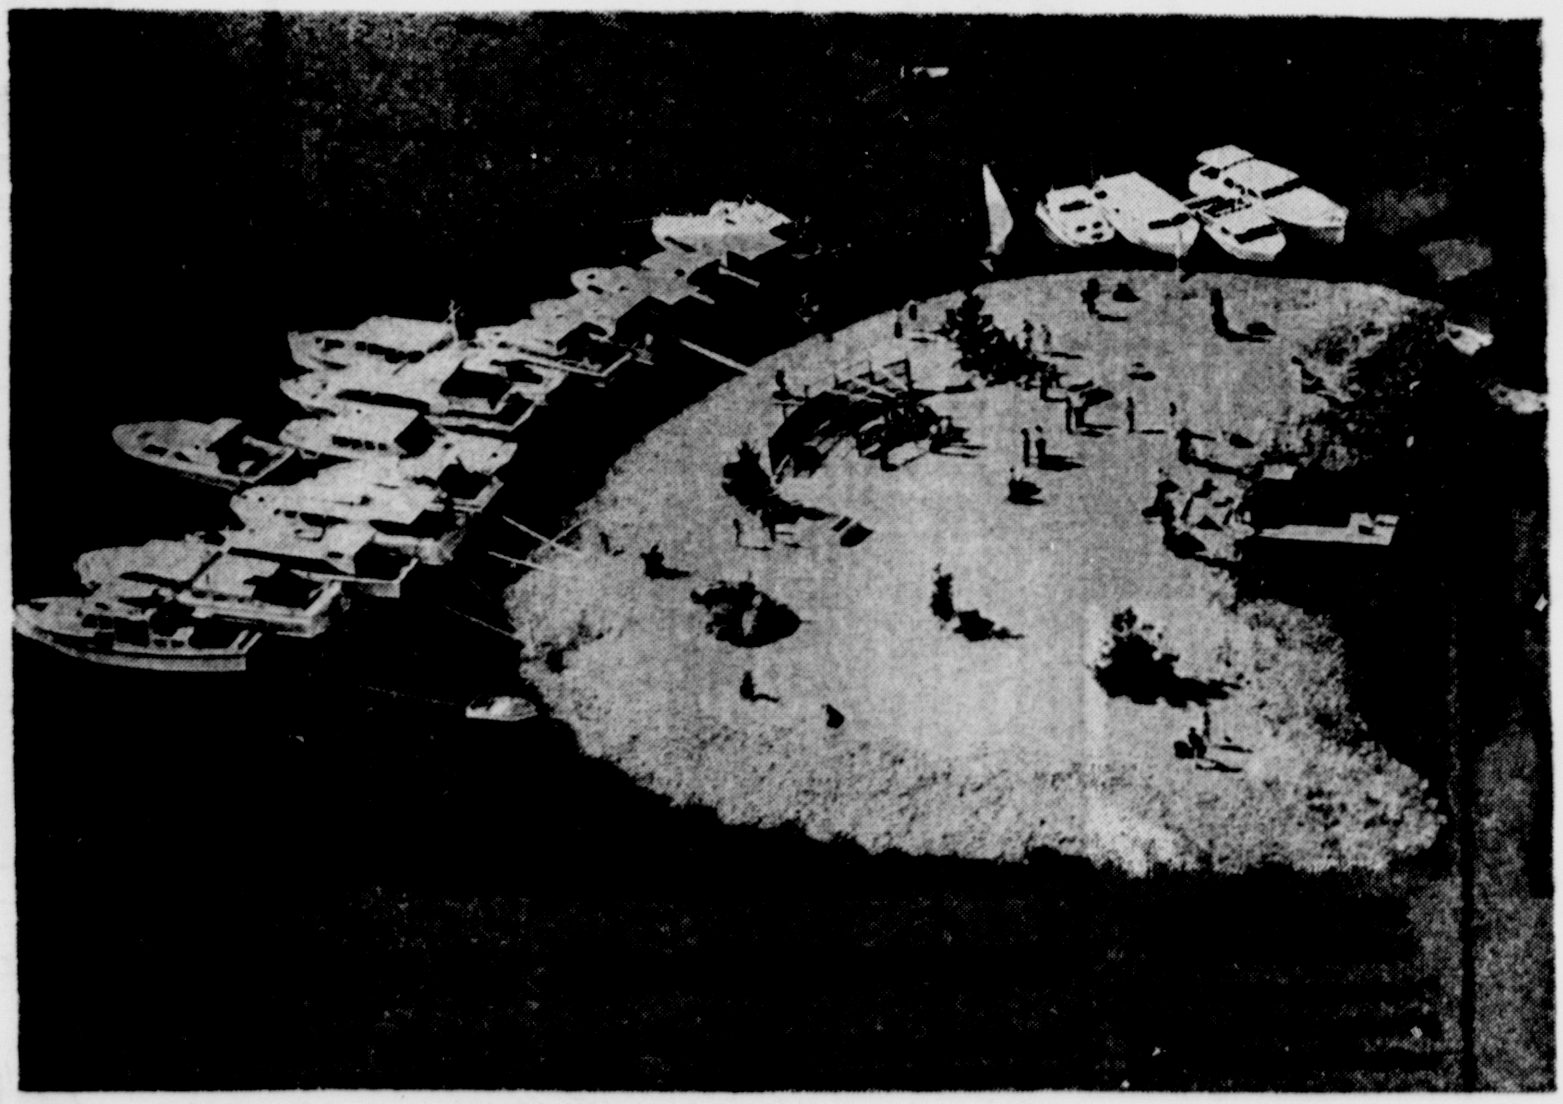
Another geographical difference of opinion exists on basements. Eastern women consider a basement in the house important, while their Western counterparts, especially in California and Texas, do not.



A PLACE FOR FUN

Pleasure Island is an extra dividend at Bel Marin Keys, located in the middle of one of the lagoons where residents can stop off for a picnic or sunbathing. On weekends the island is a gathering place for many boat owners, some coming from other areas.

PATIO NOT NEEDED—Summer dining outside can be kept simple. A backyard lawn will do for a table and benches—leave them there between meals. They can be shifted a few feet when the grass needs trimming. Make the menu simple, too. Hamburgers with barbecue sauce, frankfurters, potato salad are as easily served outdoors as inside.

Homeowners Lighting Up Around House

They are using floodlights, post lights, lanterns and brackets and a multitude of specially designed fixtures to expand the nighttime enjoyment of patios and game areas, to beautify landscaping and to increase safety.

While home lighting generally has more than doubled in sales volume from 1954 to 1965, the American Home Lighting Institute estimates that the sale of outdoor lighting fixtures for the home has almost quadrupled in that period.

SALES INCREASE

In 1954, outdoor lighting accounted for less than 10 per cent of sales. In 1965 it represented over 15 per cent of a substantially higher figure — $83 million in 1954 against $189 million estimated for 1965. (Figures are manufacturer price.)

This surge of outdoor lighting against a fairly static rate of building reveals two trends:

1. More widespread use of outdoor lighting around the country. Begun in states like Florida, California and Texas with long periods of warm or mild weather, the practice has been adopted everywhere to expand outdoor living as long as the elements permit.

MORE THAN BRACKET

2. More elaborate installations. Outdoor lighting today is more than a light bracket at the front entrance and perhaps a post lantern. Lighting is now being used to glamorize home exteriors, shrubbery, pools and gardens, game areas as well as driveways and paths. The impact is a home more dramatically beautiful at night, attractive to visitors and, as long as nature permits, more usable living space when the entire family can enjoy it.

If you are planning to improve your outdoor lighting system, the institute has these suggestions:

CONCEAL SOURCES

Conceal your light sources to avoid glare and assure neighbors of their privacy. Select fixtures with shades or shields. Often shrubbery or other foliage can provide natural cover.

Don't try to imitate daylight by flooding the area with light. This produces a whitewashed effect. Concentrate on several focal points like a tree, sculpture or flower bed. The patio should be lighted like an outdoor room.

Visit a showroom to see what is available.

Serve Dinner Out Of Doors Also

Dinner out of doors is a very special treat a homemaker can give her family. It doesn't require a lot of work and you don't have to own a patio. The smallest lawn, a garden walk or an apartment balcony will do just fine. Pick a spot you can use regularly, then set up the basics — a simple plank table top and benches — and leave them there between meals.

When it comes to the trimmings, keep them simple, keep them gay. Lighthearted and informal dinnerware such as the new melamine ware fanciful fruit pattern in bright yellow, orange and green goes far in doing the decorating job. Virtually unbreakable — an obvious advantage for outdoor dining — this dinnerware comes in hundreds of other bright and cheerful patterns perfect for all manner of al fresco feasts.

For added appeal, flank the moderately-priced fruit pattern dinnerware with avocado green napkins and place them on mustard green felt pads. Cover table with wallpaper simulating a white brick background. It could be any other number of easy but imaginative covers.

A container that is just deep enough to hold enough mossy earth to keep flowers and leaves from your garden fresh makes an elegant centerpiece and couldn't be easier to make and keep attractive. A random arrangement looks natural and may be freshened without a complete redo by merely plucking out the wilted blooms and replacing with new.

If you're in the mood for a picnic and the weather won't permit, have your "rained-out" picnic indoors — in the rumpus room, den or on the porch.

Whether indoors or out, every good picnic needs a lot of frankfurters, potato salad, mustard, pickles, relishes, cake and a beverage. These popular foods are just as easily prepared in the house as outdoors.

Buddy System For Underwater

Buy equipment with safety releases and get compressed air for scuba diving at recognized skin diving supply outlets.

When using air tanks limit operations to a maximum depth of 130 feet. Know and observe the rates of ascent given in the U.S. Navy Decompression Tables to prevent air embolism and the bends.

Take along a dependable float for each diver. Devise and use a system of hand signals for underwater communication with the other divers.

Top Hiking Areas Found In Seashore

Bear Valley, situated between Highway 1 and the ocean, offers a mountain to climb (Mt. Wittenberg, 1,407 feet high), mountain lakes, craggy ravines, dense forests, rich green meadows, insurmountable sea cliffs and a lonely stream cascading 45 feet to the ocean. All of these are to be found in a day's walk.

Bear Valley is easily accessible by driving out Sir Francis Drake Highway to the colorfully historical village of Olema. But automobiles are not allowed to travel in this natural wonderland, and motorists are advised to leave their cars at park headquarters, located at the former Bear Valley Ranch.

It is believed that campsites for overnight hikers will be established in years to come, but at present the closest campgrounds are situated at nearby Samuel P. Taylor State Redwoods Park.

Future development of the 10,000-acre Bear Valley site, which includes much of the Drake's Bay coastline, will one day be equipped with riding stables, fishing piers and sunbathing facilities on what is now Limantour Point.

Free from the noise and confusion of the city, Bear Valley is recommended for wildlife enthusiasts.

COAST HAVEN

Beachcombers Seek Treasures In Sands

What are they all looking for, those people down at the beach? Early in the morning, late in the evening, peering and prodding in rocky tide pools, picking up pieces of slippery seaweed, poking around amid piles of driftwood.

They're treasure - seekers, seeking the treasures of the Pacific Ocean. It's a hobby with some, it's a mania with others, for California with her jagged and varied coastline has 1,100 miles of beaches and rocks, cliffs and coves, all filled with the treasures of the sea.

Beachcombing is becoming a popular pastime. Whatever your interests, beachcombing probably has a lure for you too: Catching fish or collecting shells, observing marine life in the ever-changing pools, seeking driftwood for an unusual lampstand, looking for pebbles to make a pendant, or just waiting for the light and colors of the day to change to catch that particular moment forever on film. The sea is for everyone.

For fishermen, California is a haven. From whales and sharks to prawns and shrimps, the Pacific Coast offers an abundance of fish life. If you like to observe marine animals, go down to the beach among the rocks when the tide is low. You'll find the tide pools are alive.

You may see the hermit crab. Born without a shell, this creature spends half its life seeking to adopt a shell for protection. Dark red or green crabs are the rock crabs. Disturb them and they'll run backwards or sideways. Perhaps you'll see an octopus, but he's usually cleverly concealed. The octupus has the most developed brain of all invertebrate animals, and he uses it to escape capture. You might see the sea hare too, that dark purple mass that emits a purple fluid when alarmed.

I shells are your weakness you must know where to hunt them: Muddy bottoms, rocky shorelines, sandy flats, the underpart of rocks. Different types of shells are found in different places.

Maybe you're a stone collector. You can find jade, agate, jasper, and many other varied stones on the miles of beaches.

Poke around the cliffs and driftwood. Who knows what you'll find—fossils of sea creatures, translucent shells, strange shapes of driftwood. Even if you don't find anything, even if you don't want to find anything, you'll begin to feel the lure of the sea.

When you feel the salty wind on your face and hear the gulls crying above you and the waves breaking along the shoreline, you'll begin to understand why there are beachcombers.

Cover Keeps Children Out Of Swim Pool

Greater swimming pool safety, improved operating characteristics and better protection against water contamination have been engineered into a new aluminum, self-powered swimming pool cover.

The accordion-type pool cover can be closed in moments and automatically locks in place, making it impossible for anyone —child or adult—to enter the pool.

To reduce the number of projections which might trip pool users, pool-side tracks have been eliminated. And because it is trackless, the cover can be rolled as far away from the pool as desired—even completely out of sight under the shrubbery, into a shed or behind a fence.

These units completely cover the pool and specially designed automatic closures at the sides and ends reduce the amount of dirt, leaves and other foreign matter entering the water to almost zero. This cuts maintenance cost by reducing pool cleaning and the use of bactericide chemicals to treat the water. In some areas where swimming pools are located, fuel costs can be cut from one-half to two-thirds when this cover is installed.

While the new cover has extra advantages such as easier, less-costly maintenance, cleaner water for more pleasant swimming and improved appearance of the grounds around the pool, its main purpose is to protect lives.

Running Back Into House Harms Meals

Plan your patio meal — right down to the last salt cellar. Make sure everything you need is right there by the grill—nothing disrupts a good barbecue so much as running back to the house to fetch forgotten items.

Keep an eye on your watch, so that you can remove your meat at just the right moment. If you are cooking other foods on the grill, plan your time so that everything is done simultaneously.

SMALL CAMPER TOP

While the Datsun L-520 pickup can be equipped with a variety of camper tops, the one shown here is ideal for small parties and weekend trips. The Datsun pickup has a load capacity of 2,000 pounds and features a four-speed full synchromesh stick shift. Most pickup and camper combinations are priced under $2,000.

LET'S GO CAMPING—Youngsters peeking out from the second story of this Ford F-250 light truck Camper Special occupy a full-size bed, one of two berths that provide comfortable living and sleeping facilities for the average family, and rugged on-the-road durability and performance. Recreation specialists report that sales of 97,000 camper coaches in 1965 are expected to increase to 120,000 this year.

DUAL PURPOSE VEHICLE

This Family Wagon, converted by Travco Corp. from the basic Dodge A100 Sportsman, combines the advantages of a station wagon with those of a fully equipped, completely appointed camping unit, including sleeping accommodations, cooking and dining facilities and enclosed storage space for a family of five. All fittings and equipment can be easily removed to convert the camper to a wagon for everyday use.

Outdoor Barbecue Getting Fancier

The barbecue boom is still booming. Americans are now spending more than $100 million every year for barbecue grills and accessory outdoor cooking equipment and this figure is expected to grow rapidly with population increases, suburban growth trends and the increase in leisure time.

According to recent surveys, about seven out of ten American families cook out of doors frequently, thanks to convenient, inexpensive and easily operated mobile barbecue grills. And with hundreds of different barbecues to choose from — ranging in price from a few dollars to more than a hundred — selection of the proper equipment can be confusing.

In recent years, the round brazier model, generally costing about $15, has been the most popular. However, retailers are reporting a trend to higher quality, better equipped wagon-style models. These bigger units with their full range of equipment until recently were priced in the luxury class. But design improvements and manufacturing advances have brought their cost within reach of any outdoor chef.

"As a result, the two-barbecue family is becoming as commonplace as the two-car family," says Eric Mell, vice president of a leading manufacturer of outdoor barbecues.

"Barbecue enthusiasts are finding the ideal combination is a simple, low-priced grill for barbecuing hamburgers, hot dogs and steaks together with a fully equipped wagon barbecue that challenges the imagination and versatility of the outdoor cook. Lower-priced portable grills with folding or removable legs and carrying handles are ideal for picnics or camping trips, while the big wagon models, complete with smoker hoods and warming ovens, will prepare the most elaborate meals."

Mell cautions both novice and experienced backyard chefs to "shop around" and compare before purchasing a barbecue. Designs may seem outwardly similar, but if you compare construction and operating features, you'll discover a wide range of values.

Often overlooked is ease of assembly. Most barbecues are sold "knocked-down" and the impulsive buyer may find himself faced with the prospect of a very late dinner while he fits and tightens dozens of screws and fastenings. Quality barbecue models have major components pre-assembled at the factory and include easily handled fasteners for hoods and sockets for legs. This makes for quick, easy assembly and a more sturdy, durable unit.

Starting and maintaining a good cooking fire is basic in barbecuing and special features have been built nito new barbecues to make this easy. One manufacturer has incorporated built-in, adjustable vents to provide adequate draft in bowl-type barbecues and has developed a unique "fire-starter" unit which requires only a sheet or two of newspaper to start charcoal quickly and safely.

Grill adjustment is critical for anything but the simplest kind of barbecue cooking. The range of adjustment of the grill to the fire makes you the master of your coals, allows you to regulate cooking temperatures. Check carefully the amount of adjustment possible and the ease of operation in the adjusting mechanism. One wagon line, for example, features a self-contained firepan that can be adjusted to eight positive cooking heights beneath the grill.

Hoods add to the cost of basic barbecue units but they perform useful functions. They reflect heat, a necessity for spit cooking, and shelter food and fire from wind. In more expensive models, hoods are combined with useful warming ovens equipped with vent controls and temperature gauge.

Once considered accessories, spit and motors are now included with all but the least expensive barbecues. The spit bar and forks should be sturdy enough to hold a sizeable roast or fowl. Look for the Underwriters' Laboratories listing on the motor and be sure the electric cord is long enough. An on-off motor switch and hinged mounting that allows the motor to pivot away for convenient basting are useful features.

One reason for the growing popularity of wagon barbecues is a smoker door which converts the grill into a true barbecue oven. Enclosed "smoke cooking" gives a juicy, savory barbecue flavor. Check to see that the smoker hood includes a heat-proof oven window, vent controls essential to maintaining cooking temperatures and a temperature-gauge.

Design innovations have made cleaning your barbecue a simple job. Built-in vent openings and "fire starter" units double as convenient clean-out points for removing ashes. Fire pans of wagon barbecues are usually removable for quick cleaning and the double grills of up-to-date wagon models are sized to permit clean-up in the kitchen sink or dishwasher.

Hot Water Pipes Move Outdoors

The Gas Appliance Manufacturers Assn. advises that there's a new outside hot water tap that connects with the household's gas water heater and makes it possible to clean hands, tools and boots out in the yard or driveway before mud and dirt can be tracked into the kitchen.

In many cases the new tap also is used for a hose connection to temper the water in small lawn swimming pools and to facilitate car washing, window cleaning and other outside chores.

GAMA explains that the tap is equipped with a shut-off valve that drains off water to a point inside the house where it will be protected from sudden frost.

HILLSIDE DECK GIVES YARD NEW INTEREST

A sloping site can be turned into extra outdoor living space by leveling the area with stair-step decking. Build wide treads which afford gradual change in levels and which can be used for extra built-in seating. Make sure the decking and benches relate to the house and don't appear tacked-on. Use paint or stain that will harmonize or match the exterior color of the house.

New Goal: A Second Home

Having passed the milestones of a second car and a second bath, the average American standard of living now aspires to what may seem to be the ultimate — a second home.

While there is nothing new in wanting to get away from it all, there has been a marked change in the way we are doing it.

Few people are content these days with the rugged life of a log cabin or crude cottage. The vacation house is becoming more and more like the year-round home, even to polished floors and automatic dishwashers.

Many families cannot afford luxuries in a second home, however and must fit their building and furnishing plans to their pocketbooks. To help this group get the most fun out of their dollars, here are a few capsules of wisdom gleaned from those who already own their own vacation homes:

Use high quality building materials with the object of getting a place that will be virtually maintenance-free. Your long absences, especially during the winter, will make this especially important.

Keep the place vacation-like. You will be going there for a change, remember, so don't feel you have to fancy the place up too much.

Make it fit a broad range of objectives. For instance, don't go too far away if you plan to use it on weekends and one-day holidays. If you may use it eventually as a retirement house, select a plan that will make installation of heating easy.

When you choose your design, remember that it's a place to have fun and that it doesn't have to look proper enough to pass Sunday inspection back home. There are many people, such as lumber dealers, builders and fabricators, who will be glad to assist you if you will scout around a little to find them.

LOVE OF A DRESS

This gentled sportster in wrinkle-free sharkskin makes the game more exciting when you take to the courts, and has the stamina to stay pretty in the most vibrant vol'ey. Lowered Peter Pan collar, cut for cool comfort, consorts with the graceful swirl skirt for feminine freedom.

There's No Need For Dirty Living Outdoors

Mixing sanitation with outdoor fun is easy, says the experts. With so many helpers to get things clean, there's no excuse for dinginess, and one of the most talented dirt-chasers is liquid chlorine bleach.

Take a simple thing like mildew. It thrives in hot, moist weather and can attack anything from outside paint work to garden furniture and shower curtains. Give this moldy substance the "heave-ho" with a solution of half a cup of bleach mixed in a gallon of water. After soaking the mildewed area for about 5 minutes, rinse thoroughly. Exit mildew. Incidentally, did you know that mildew can appear in different shades—including black, red, green, purple and gray?

It's a hot day, and the kids want to jump into the wading pool. Fine! But you know how long that water will stay clean with a flock of splashing youngsters in it.

Put a barrier between them and any roving bacteria by adding two teaspoons of liquid chlorine bleach for every 100 gallons of new water. Mix the bleach with 2 or 3 gallons of water and scatter the solution uniformly over the surface. It's a good idea to empty small pools daily.

Barbecues are part of the summer scene. Before cooking the first outdoor meal of the season, you may want to spruce things up by attacking the brick fireplace. If grease and soot have accumulated, scrub with a small brush dipped in a one-gallon solution of heavy-duty cleaner to which one cup of bleach has been added.

Most boat-lovers take great pride in keeping their craft shipshape. The traditional deck "scrub-down, fore and aft" can be greatly enhanced by a gallon of hot water to which a heavy-duty detergent and three-quarters of a cup of liquid chlorine bleach have been added.

BELL BOTTOM PANTS ARE IN

The new silhouette in the outdoor living wardrobe is bell bottom stretch pants. This summer, too, there are more bare midriffs. In this ensemble, both bra and pants are nylon that hug the figure lightly. A jungle green snakeskin jacket for cool days completes the outfit.

HOLIDAY FASHIONS FOR MEN

Knits and novelty prints highlight the male summer swimgear again this year. On the left is a terry lined popover of bright red cotton over red stretch cotton velour trunks. On the right, navy and white are on the run in a pareau print baggie.

Outdoors Now Way Of Life In America

"Outdooring" has become a way of life in America, particularly in suburbs and smaller towns, where most homes have good-sized back yards.

It seems almost as though homes in these areas come equipped with picnic tables, grills, lounging chairs, tents, badminton courts, and a host of other trappings designed for summer fun and relaxation.

To provide much-needed storage for all these accessories, Home Service Bureau has prepared a free plan designed for anyone's back yard.

A cupboard accessible from the outside stores cooking utensils and provides room for a fold-up table which drops down to become an efficient work surface. On the inside of the storage unit is a work table for the gardener.

Full details on the construction of the storage unit and fence are available in this free plan, AE-324. For a copy, write the Home Service Bureau, Box B, Chicago, Ill. 60690.

Old People Feel Trapped If Indoors

A vacation with relatives or friends can be a nightmare for older people. Instead of enjoying the outdoor life, they can be trapped in the house, because they fear going outdoors.

Very little thought is given by young home owners to problems faced by older visitors who would walk or sit outdoors.

GOOD PATH

There should be a good path to the road and to an outdoor sitting place. Flagstone and brick walks are pretty but are they properly set, not chipped or loose? Are steep steps leading into the house adjoined by an easily grasped railing?

Is there a place outdoors where an older person can sit and enjoy the birds and flowers, and get adequate protection from the sun? Is it too close to flowers and bushes that attract bees and other insects?

Is there firm footing in the area where a chaise lounge or chair is put? Grass should be close-cropped. Longer grass can camouflage small rocks, broken glass and slivers of wood that can cause stumbling. Gravel is a clean, attractive path liner, and is often used in areas to create an outdoor terrace-like arrangement. But older folk sometimes have difficulty walking in it.

KEEP OFF DECKS

They should not be encouraged to relax on wood decks, unless the floor boards have been laid close together, so that heels do not catch.

A screened-in porch is a good answer for older people. Bugs are foiled, there is shelter from sudden showers, and if strong breezes whip up, escape may be made in good time.

But older people do not like to feel they are encaged, much as they realize they can't skip around. They want to be able to stretch their legs, without admitting they have certain reservations about walking down a steep slope to a summer house or terrace.

SWIMMING POOL

They are often drawn to a swimming pool to watch children cavort, or even to have a dip themselves, but the danger is in slippery surfaces around the pool. Nonslip mats are available, but much outdoor furniture used in these areas is so light that if one sinks into it abruptly or rises suddenly, there is danger in tipping. Much outdoor furniture is too low anyway for an older person's comfort.

Many older folk would settle for a comfortable chair brought from indoors, although they hesitate to ask for it. There should be arms on the chair they use outdoors, so they can grasp them when they arise, balancing themselves to avoid slipping or falling.

Millions Of Americans Discover Old, New World During Vacation

Over 300,000 travelers are expected to enjoy cruises during 1966, and nearly 400,000 students own passports for study, work or travel abroad. The sale of private boats and boating supplies has doubled in the past two years, but motoring is still the favorite outdoor recreation for most Americans.

When you plan your summer vacation, consider these tips for travelers:

Obtain a travel guide to your vacation spot to check recommendations on hotels, motels and restaurants. The guide will help you budget your trip, and if you travel with children, will be a good source of information on recreation facilities and baby-sitting services.

If possible, write in advance for reservations to avoid disappointment. Leave a copy of your itinerary with a friend or family worker.

If you plan to visit friends, be sure to confirm the date and time of your arrival.

When you pack for your vacation, plan your wardrobe around a single color scheme, easy to accessorize. The new synthetic fibers and crush-resistant knits are wise travel choices, and mix-and-match outfits will give you a series of changes without crowding your luggage.

No matter how your travel, advance planning will add to your pleasure and memories of a summer-full of family fun.

Move Certain Type Plants Out Of Doors

There are four types of locations for plants you move outside for summer:

1. They can be plunged into the garden soil, clay pot and all, where they automatically receive the same care as other flowers.

2. They can be put in window boxes. When this is done, it is a good idea to pack around the clay pots with sphagnum moss or a similar moisture-holding material, to cut down on watering.

3. You can put them in a special frame or box, filled with earth or moss. For convenience in care, locate this type of a storage box near the regular garden.

4. You can put them in a special box located where plants will be on display.

It is important to keep house plants in their clay pots. If you don't, the roots will spread far and wide and when you try to re-pot the plants in the fall, you will lose half or more of the roots, and all health gained by a summer outdoors will be lost.

Boat Bottom Paint

Fresh Paint Can Improve Joys Of Outdoor Living

When the lilacs start to bloom and the tang of outdoor cooking whets the appetite, the time is ripe for a back yard beauty treatment. Nothing improves a home owner's property and morale more than a new coat of paint. Remember, fresh, lively color can help organize and identify as well as beautify.

First on the agenda may be the refurbishing of garden implements. Repainting the handles of hoes, rakes, trowels and hedge trimmers will surely make them more attractive. Select a different color for each wooden handle.

Last year's caked mud can be cleaned off easily with a good wire brush. Light sanding is recommended to prepare wood surfaces and to remove rust from metal. Residue from sanding can be easily and thoroughly removed in just seconds by wiping the surface with a "tack cloth," the most economical cleaning accessory recommended by professionals and available at any paint store. Its sticky coating cleans perfectly and it can be used many times.

Experts also advise buying good quality brushes for a quality finish. These will last longer and will perform a myriad number of services for outdoor as well as indoor paint jobs. A brush two or three inches wide is ideal for painting garden implements.

The brush should be dipped into the paint to a depth no greater than half the length of the bristles to avoid the need to wipe off excess paint on the edge of the can. The paint should be applied in short strokes, a uniform amount with each stroke. A smooth coat of uniform thickness will result. The painter can finish her job like a professional by smoothing out the application with long, light strokes using the tips of the bristles to avoid brush marks.

A quality epoxy will dry to a ceramic-like finish and far outlast conventional paint since it contains strong rust inhibitors and has exceptional resistance to abrasion, water and harsh cleaners.

Reading the instructions on the paint can label is the best advice for amateur as well as seasoned painters. The home owner will learn that an epoxy paint can be used for metal as well as wood, for plaster, porcelain or concrete.

You might design a color scheme to match the garden implements with the fencing, garage walls, and back door, and hang the implements on a peg board in the garage for everyone to see.
